STATE POLICE TRY TO MEDDLE IN BALLOT FIGHT

Judge Orders Them Out of Court.

Three state policemen marched into the courtroom of County Judge Arthur G. Larson of Kendall county at Yorkville yesterday.

Displaying their badges, the policemen informed Judge Larson they had come to take charge of ballots which had been impounded in an election contest. Charles Vanderveer, Democratic incumbent, brought the contest against Charles W. Clark, Republican, who beat Vanderveer by thirteen votes, in the race for county superintendent of schools in the November election.

Shows Letter to Judge.

The leader of the troopers, a lieutenant, using the name of Cardwell or Caldwell, said he intended to take charge that night, guarding the sealed vault where the ballots had been placed. His men would guard them, he said, in three eight hour shifts.

He exhibited a letter, signed by himself and addressed to Vanderveer. He showed the letter to Judge Larson, who ordered the troopers out of the court. Later the judge said the letter stated that the policeman had been authorized by the state administration at Springfield to guard the ballots.

This mysterious action by state troopers resulted in hot comment from the judge and Yorkville G. O. P. leaders. The Republicans termed it an outrageous dictatorial interference with the court. Judge Larson declared that "Springfield is not running this court." The mystery increased when an explanation was sought from state officials.

Chief Has No Part in It.

"I don't know anything about such an order," said Walter Williams, chief of the highway police, who is in Chicago. "It did not come from me. The only others who could issue it would be F. Lynden Smith, director of public works, or Ernst Lieberman, highway engineer."

Lieberman said he knew nothing of the order. Smith could not be reached. At the Joliet district highway station, Lieut. Reuben Cardwell denied that he or any of his men had gone to Yorkville. Vanderveer refused to comment.

"At first I was nonplussed," said Judge Larson. "I demanded by what authorization these troopers presumed to interfere with my court. Then I ordered them to leave the courthouse.

Believes Ballots Safe.

"I told the policemen that Springfield is not running Kendall county. As the presiding judge I believe the ballots are preserved from violation. If both contestants want to hire guards, that will be all right. But I would not allow the troopers to guard alone."

"This is part and parcel of the state administration's efforts to bulldoze every one by use of the police," declared State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county, president of the state Republican county chairmen's association. He is attorney for Clark.

"It smacks of dictatorship. You might think we were living in Russia the way they try to tamper with the courts. The only time Springfield has the right to use the military is when martial law has been declared."

Vanderveer's attorney, Oscar Laraway, of Joliet could not be reached. Laraway has also served as counsel for other public officials who are strong adherents of Gov. Horner's statehouse machine.

WIFE, 70, SUES; SAYS MATE WAS GONE FOR 35 YRS.

Mrs. Mary Kearney, 70 years old, yesterday filed suit for divorce from Peter Kearney, 73 years old. The couple have been married since 1894 and have a son, John, 43. The suit was filed in the Circuit court of Lake county, Waukegan. Mrs. Kearney lives at 142 South 1st street, Highland Park. Mrs. Kearney alleges that her husband left her in May, 1894, three months after the marriage, and then returned in August, 1929. He left again in January, 1934, she says. Mrs. Kearney supported herself as a laundress. Her husband was a hotel proprietor.

Illinois Refuses to Let Zuppke Quit

7 Quit Safe Cabin; 5 of Them Drown.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The causes of the tragic accident in which a United Air lines plane dropped into the sea off Point Reyes, 20 miles north of here early today carrying to death five of the seven persons aboard, were revealed here tonight in dramatic fashion from the airplane's radio log.

The plane remained afloat after the crash. Added pathos was given to the tragedy tonight when it was found that the interior of the cabin was dry and all seven aboard probably would have been saved had they remained inside instead of crawling out to be washed into the sea.

Signals Are Misinterpreted.

The transcript of the conversations between the airplane and the ground station at Oakland airport—its intended destination—tell a story of misinterpreted radio beam signals and an aimless flight far out over the Pacific while fuel dwindled in the plane's tanks.

The tanks went dry after the plane had been in the air for five and a half hours and when the big machine was less than nine minutes flying time from the airport and safety. The pilot, Charles Stead, an airways veteran, made a safe landing in rough waves 1,000 yards off one of the most craggy and barren points on the California coast.

No one on board was injured and all climbed out of the plane's cabin to await help that never came. As the darkness of the night gave way to dawn, one after another of the passengers was washed off the ship and drowned.

Three Make Way to Shore.

Only three persons made their way to the shore. Stead was one. Miss Frona Clay of Alameda, the stewardess, who later lost her life, was another. And Isador R. Edelstein, an ex-convict and gunman, 50 years old, who had just been paroled from Washington state penitentiary and was on his way to San Francisco and Hawaii, was the third. He and the pilot were the only two saved.

Miss Clay, clambering up the foot of a 500 foot cliff while the waves lapped at her feet, saw that the shell of the big airliner, tossed by the water, was about to be dashed against her. She scrambled to avoid being struck, slipped and fell back into the thunderous surf and disappeared.

The two saved were rescued by coast guardsmen, who lowered themselves down the sheer face of the rocks to a narrow shale beach. Stead, exhausted and suffering from expo-

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The war of 1812 ended 123 years ago but one person in the United States is still receiving a pension for services performed by a relative in that conflict. The one pensioner is Mrs. Esther Ann Hill Morgan of Independence, Ore. She is the daughter of John Hill, a private in the New York militia.

ROCKFORD BABIES HAVE NO LACK OF 3 CORNER PANTS

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Officials in charge of the WPA sewing project here were notified today by Supervisor Melvin C. Smith that unless the project stops making diapers Rockford township will not sponsor the work after Dec. 10.

Smith said he has 10,658 diapers on hand and every baby in a relief family is already well supplied. He said he needs jackets, coats, skirts, slips, and men's shirts instead. Smith said he read there was a diaper shortage in Russia but that was out of his territory.

Two hundred women are employed on the diaper job.

POLICEMEN TOLD HOW TO ACT AS GOOD WITNESSES

Elgin's policemen learned at a sunrise meeting yesterday what not to do if they want to be good witnesses in court. George D. Carbary, former Kane county state's attorney, gave them these "don'ts":

Don't wear your gun strapped to your side and don't appear in uniform, because jurors dislike the unnecessary show of authority. Don't lose your temper. Don't trifle with the truth. Don't attempt to fix responsibility. And—

Men of the Sea and Their Sons Do Not Forget

BY S. L. SHEPPARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Nov. 29.—Newfoundland's strangest story of the sea was told here today.

Forty years ago Capt. Barbour and his crew were "working seals" some hundred miles off the Newfoundland coast.

Heavy arrow points to scene of rescue.

At nightfall, when the sealers returned aboard the steamer from the ice over which they had hunted during the day, they reported seeing another vessel—not a sealer. The vessel was sinking and was caught hard and fast in the drifting ice floes.

Capt. Barbour started his ship in the direction the seal hunters had indicated. At noon the next day, after heavy butting and pushing through the ice with his ship, the lookout in the crow's nest reported there was no sign of a ship, but there appeared to be a crowd of men huddled on the ice.

Pushes Ship Into Ice.

Capt. Barbour pushed his ship harder into the ice. Just before night again closed in he reached the marooned crew of the ship which the sealers had spied.

The ship was gone, having been crushed in the ice and sent to the bottom, but Capt. Mitchell, its skipper, and the twenty-seven members of his crew had scrambled on to the ice before it sank. They were taken aboard the sealing steamer.

Capt. Barbour abandoned his sealing voyage and took the shipwrecked men into St. John's, Newfoundland.

Now, forty years later, comes the sequel.

Capt. Ken Barbour, a son of the old sealing skipper, is a skipper in his own right now. He is in charge of the motor ship National IV. In it, with his crew, he left Fishing Ship Harbor, Labrador, for St. John's. Three miles off Battle Island the ship's tail shaft broke and jammed the rudder hard to starboard, leaving the helpless ship drifting toward shore.

The vessel seemed doomed until the captain managed to run up a bit of head sail, all the canvas the ship carried. He worked the ship off into the trafic lane of ships passing in and out of the Strait of Belle Isle.

The ship drifted for days. Seven passing ships failed to see its distress signals, but the eighth reached the National IV. and took off Capt. Ken Barbour and his crew.

Tows Ship Into Port.

Though the rescue ship was racing against time, its captain decided that, rather than sink the National IV. he would change his course and tow the disabled ship into St. Anthony.

Capt. Barbour, as he thanked his rescuer, was astonished to learn that the latter's name was Capt. Mitchell.

"Why," he cried, "in my home I have a large photograph of a Capt. Mitchell of Bristol. It was given to me by my father, who rescued Capt. Mitchell from the ice forty years ago."

"That," Capt. Mitchell replied, "must be a picture of my father. Often I've heard him speak of your father's kindness."

YOUR TURN AT STILE FIRST IF YOU PAY THE REQUIRED NICKEL

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—August Gabel, a waiter, was racing to catch a subway train and Patrolman Joseph Romanick was leaving the tube. They met in midturnstile, after Gabel slipped his nickel in the slot, and an arm of the gate struck the policeman in the midriff. Harsh language ensued and Gabel was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. Magistrate Frank Oliver solemnly ruled today that the man who has just deposited his nickel has the right of way through the combination entrance-exit turnstiles.

'Back in 15 Minutes' Sign Protects Bandits at Work

"Will be back in fifteen minutes," read the sign on the door of a grocery at 3229 Wentworth avenue yesterday. It had been placed there by two robbers who were garbed like lumberjacks. They locked the door from the inside with a key taken from the owner, Mrs. Mary Piardovich. She was threatened with revolvers until she pointed to a pillow on her bed at the rear. Under it they found $300.

Trustees Here Veto Action of Athletic Board

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

An attempt to oust Robert C. Zuppke as coach of the University of Illinois football team was smashed yesterday by the university trustees. Voting 8 to 1, the trustees vetoed a proposal by the board of directors of the athletic association at Champaign to give the veteran a leave of absence until the retirement age.

Robert C. Zuppke.

The trustees' action, although more far reaching, specifically rejected the athletic board's plan to hire a young football coach and keep Zuppke in an advisory capacity at a reduced salary until he reached the age of 68. He is 59 years old and has been head coach at Illinois for twenty-six years.

[Zuppke was showered with congratulatory messages at his home in Champaign last night. He talked freely of his triumph and defied his foes. He said tramp althetes weren't welcome at Illinois; that no fancy inducements would be made to football players and that "Illinois isn't any country club." Details of Stewart Owen's interview with Zuppke will be found in the sports section.]

Trustees Are Surprised.

The trustees convened in the Blackstone hotel for their monthly session without knowledge that they would be asked to depose Zuppke. Oscar G. Mayer Jr., of Chicago, president of the board of trustees, had received written notification Monday that Wendell S. Wilson, director of athletics, would present an athletic association proposal.

Wilson, when called, produced an agreement between Zuppke and the athletic board, in which Zuppke agreed to step down. The proposition stunned the trustees. The text of the agreement and intimate acquaintance with Zuppke led several of the trustees to suspect the plan was not of Zuppke's choosing.

Pogue Leads Fight.

Brief discussion, led by Trustee Harold Pogue of Decatur, one of the outstanding athletes in Illinois' history, resulted in the vote. It was a sharp rebuke to the athletic board and opponents of Zuppke on the Illinois campus, where a few malcontents have become aroused over a series of losing seasons. The terseness of the trustees' official statement emphasized their displeasure with anti-Zuppke factions in Champaign. It read:

"The board of trustees of the University of Illinois disapproves any change in the status of Coach Robert C. Zuppke."

Although no official vote was announced, it was learned that Pogue was supported by President Mayer; John A. Wieland, Springfield; Mrs Nellie N. Freeman, Mattoon; Orville M. Karraker, Harrisburg; Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, Chicago; James M. Cleary, Chicago, and Louis L. Noschel of Pekin.

Adams Is Sole Dissenter.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Homer Matt Adams of Springfield. Gov. Henry Horner and Dr. Karl A. Meyer of Chicago, the other trustees, were not present.

Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president of the university, and Anton J. Janata, assistant to the president, were present but had no vote. Dr. Willard's only comment was: "The action of the board speaks for itself."

Final action on the matter was taken shortly after noon and the trustees passed on to routine business. Meanwhile alumni and friends of Zuppke, who had disregarded earlier reports as absurd, were thrown into a turmoil by afternoon papers bannering the diminutive coach's dismissal. The furor was intensified by Zuppke's announcement in Cham-

PARIS, Nov. 30 (Wednesday.)—An indication that the French railway workers might not join the general strike was seen here at 4:10 a. m., when a local train bound for Mantes pulled out of the St. Lazare station on time. This was ten minutes after the railway men, who have been requisitioned by the government, were to have joined the walkout. The regular crew was on the train and it was unguarded.

PARIS, Nov. 30 (Wednesday.)—Groups of soldiers took up positions in the central squares and crossroads of Paris with arms and equipment piled on the sidewalks at 3:30 a. m. Most of them were stationed outside the subway entrances, as at the busy Place de l'Opera, the Madeleine and Porte Saint Denis. Milk wagons came in throughout the night without interruption. The city's vegetable and fruit markets slowed to about one-third their normal activity.

PARIS, Nov. 30 [Wednesday].—Organized labor in France today started a twenty-four hour general strike, which the government of Premier Edouard Daladier is determined to break. Thus, the government and the militant leftist parties became locked in a struggle which is expected to have a decisive effect on the future of the French republic.

Throughout the country regular troops—who have not been called upon in a domestic crisis since the general strike of 1920—and mobile guards were held in readiness to suppress disorders. At midnight, when the strike began, the army occupied public services throughout the country. The transfer from civilian to military control was, preliminary reports said, accomplished without disorder.

5,000,000 Workers Called Out.

About 5,000,000 workers had been ordered to quit their jobs by the General Confederation of Labor, which called the strike as a protest against decree measures by which Premier Daladier sought to pull the country out of its economic rut. Among these measures was a lengthening of the 40 hour work week and an increase in taxes.

Hundreds of thousands of workers in government offices, railways, and the public services such as gas, water, and electricity, have been requisitioned—placed under military orders—to stay on their jobs, with harsh penalties for refusal. They face trial by a military court and loss of their jobs.

Many others were known to be restive under union discipline. For this reason it was impossible to foresee to what extent the strike would be truly general throughout the country until the morning wore on toward regular work hours.

Subway Men Defy Premier.

Representatives of the Paris subway employés, who are among those requisitioned, decided late last night to ignore the requisition order and to join the strike. It was uncertain, however, to what extent their decision was likely to influence the majority of the workers.

Taxi drivers, waiters and other workers said they were not certain even at the last minute whether they would strike or not.

Large numbers, torn between union discipline and fear of losing their jobs and the threat of stern measures by the government, were expected to report for work as usual and spend the day "soldiering" on the job.

With printing staffs on strike, Paris was deprived of most of its morning newspapers. Le Matin and Le Journal appeared in reduced size. The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune was printed in Orleans, a royalist center 80 miles from Paris, where there is little sympathy for the strike movement, and rushed to the capital.

and public buildings in Brest and elsewhere.

It is understood that the troops were called on because the mobile guards—the tough, fast striking militarized police force—are all on duty in Paris and other big cities.

Reports received in Paris late last night indicated that local unions in many provincial centers were delaying their final decisions on whether to strike until they learned whether the more militant unions in Paris still were determined to defy the government.

This was particularly true of railway workers, who were the first to be requisitioned. They were scheduled to leave their jobs, thus tying up railway trafic throughout France from 4 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Deputies Call Meeting.

An unprecedented development of the day was the action of the Socialist members of parliament in summoning the chamber of deputies to meet unofficially in Paris next Friday. This action was taken as a protest against Premier Daladier's repeated postponements of a parliamentary session.

The Leftists claim these postponements were caused by Daladier's unwillingness to submit his decree laws to the representatives of the people and that this is the real cause of the general strike being called.

The appeal for an informal chamber session probably will be answered by the communists and members of the minor leftist parties, and perhaps by some deputies of Premier Daladier's own Radical Socialist group.

Blum Attacks Premier.

Daladier was sharply attacked yesterday by former premier Leon Blum, Socialist leader, and Daladier's former political buddy in the Popular Front. The attack was over the government's requisitioning of civil servants.

Daladier contends he resorted to this measure under a decree signed in June, 1936, by Blum when the latter was premier.

In an open letter addressed to Daladier, Blum said this decree was aimed only at remedying deficiencies in the army supply and gave no basis for putting personnel of such public services as buses, subways, gas, water, and electricity under military rule. He bluntly accused the premier of committing "an outrage on truth and common sense."

The leftists maintain that requisitioning is illegal unless approved by a council of ministers. No such council has been held.

Fear Workers Will Be Losers.

The gravest fear of the moderate elements who have made efforts to prevent the strike is that the final result may be a loss to the workers of the social advances they have wrung out of the last few years of political struggle, coupled with a collapse of the Daladier government. This would create an impasse from which it would be hard to find a way out in the perilous international situation.

Following the sitdown strikes which broke out last week and were suppressed firmly by the government, some employers resorted to lockouts on the ground that the strikes were violations of collective contracts into which the workers had entered.

Should these tactics spread, the General Confederation of Labor may prove to have led the workers into a situation far more dangerous to their salary and working hour guarantees than Daladier's decree laws.

But if organized labor is in a difficult situation, Daladier's position is no better. Sooner or later he must convoke parliament, where he will be called to account by the hostile leftist majority. The leftists will be even more exasperated if today's strike is crushingly defeated.

U. S. OPENS TAX TRIAL INVOLVING LOTTERY PROFIT

Abraham F. Zimmerman, reputed head of a nation-wide lottery ring, went on trial yesterday before a jury and Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. He is charged with evading a tax of $65,670 on a gross income from lotteries of $411,916 during 1929, 1930, and 1931.

Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall presented witnesses who identified Zimmerman's tax returns and telegraph money order slips, representing money sent to him here under the alias of Joseph White.

Admitting that Zimmerman engaged in lotteries, his attorneys, John Elliott Byrne and Alfred W. Bosworth, insisted his tax returns were accurate.

WOMAN FIGHTS OFF RAPIST WHO SLASHES COAT

A drunken colored man slashed the coat of a white woman to ribbons with a razor last night as he attempted to rape her in an alley off 54th street between Cornell avenue and Hyde Park boulevard. The woman, a cook 39 years old, was walking to her home on Everett avenue when the Negro dragged her into the alley. She told Hyde Park police her assailant was about six feet tall and weighed 200 pounds. He fled with her coat and purse when she made a determined resistance. Police later found the coat a short distance down the alley. A slash on the cook's wrist was treated at the Chicago hospital.

Killed by Car Fumes at Home in Highland Park

Peter M. Prato, 56 years old, a paper broker, was found dead yesterday, overcome by exhaust fumes from his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home, 513 North Sheridan road, Highland Park. His widow, Annie, found him when she returned from a funeral. Mrs. Prato said her husband had been repairing the car.

JURY CONVICTS 2 IN NAZI SPY RING; DEADLOCK ON 3D

Deliberations in Unusual Case Resume Today.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A jury in federal court here tonight found Johanna [Jenni] Hofmann and Otto Hermann Voss guilty of espionage in a case in which the United States government charged that Nazi Germany plotted to steal this nation's vital military and commercial secrets.

When the jurors reported they were unable to agree on a verdict in the case of the third defendant, Erich Glaser, Judge John C. Knox ordered them locked up for the night. They will resume their deliberations in the morning.

Miss Hofmann, who is 26 years old, is a red haired former employé on the steamship Europa. Voss, 38 years old, was an airplane mechanic of the Seversky plant at Farmingdale, N. Y. Glaser, who is 28, was formerly a United States army air corps private at Mitchel field.

Miss Hofmann Weeps.

Miss Hofmann wept as she was being led from the courtroom back to her cell. Her attorney, George V. Dix, said lack of money would prevent an appeal.

"If Hitler would send us funds," he said, "certainly we would appeal. The Germans threw her down."

The convicted defendants face prison terms of twenty years each.

The case against three defendants was completed and submitted to the jury late this afternoon. The jurors—two women and ten men—went to dinner before beginning deliberations.

Because of the charges made in the indictments the guilty verdict in the case of the two defendants would indicate the jury believed that the German government was engaged in a scheme against this country.

Action Breaks Precedent.

Never before has a supposedly friendly power been named in such direct charges. The indictments amazed old world government leaders by bluntly accusing Germany of instigating a conspiracy to steal army, defense, aviation, and other secrets which would give inestimable advantage to any aggressive nation seeking to overcome the world by force.

The three defendants on trial were seized in the greatest investigation of spy activities ever undertaken by this government in peace time. The case came under the scrutiny of President Roosevelt and involved a trip to Germany by United States agents.

The seven weeks' trial ended late today with Judge Knox delivering a one hour and ten minute charge to the jurors, in which he instructed them to disregard the defendants' nationalities.

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy, who investigated the ramifications of the alleged Nazi spy ring by going to Europe, urged that a guilty verdict be returned to cut the lines of communication between Germany and spies in this country.

"These three are part of a far flung system maintained by the German intelligence service," he told the jury, "and it is up to you to decide whether the link in this chain shall be broken, whether the source of supply shall be cut off and the lines of communication severed."

Key Witness Doubted.

The key witness against the defendants was Gustav Rumrich, 32 years old, Chicago born German, a United States army deserter and confessed German agent. He pleaded guilty at the outset of the trial.

In his testimony he told of a series of lurid plots, including one to kidnap Col. Henry E. T. Eglin, commandant of Fort Totten, for the purpose of stealing Atlantic coast mobilization defense plans.

Judge Knox, in his charge, said he regarded Rumrich in several phases of his testimony as "an unmitigated liar" and asked the jury to examine his story carefully.

German Police Order All Jews to Stay Off Streets for a Day

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—A nation-wide order forbidding Jews to appear on the streets was issued today by Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police forces.

The order provides that Jews in Germany must stay at home next Saturday from 12 o'clock noon until 8 o'clock in the evening. That is the "day of national solidarity" when Nazi chiefs make street collections for the winter relief fund. It was explained the order was issued because "Jews have no share in the solidarity of the German nation."

It was believed that this decree is the forerunner of other decrees banning Jews from certain districts in German cities. Thus, Nazi circles have proposed that Jews should be forbidden to enter the Unter den Linden and other fashionable streets in Berlin.

Foreign Firms are Billed.

An effort is being made by Nazi insurance companies to compel foreign insurance companies to repay part of the losses they suffered through the burning, wrecking and looting of Jewish synagogues, stores and homes in the anti-Jewish violence Nov. 10.

The German government ruled that Jews must pay the damages and finance the repairs themselves. Furthermore, the government decided that the money the insurance companies owed the Jews must be paid to the government to apply on the $400,000,000 fine imposed on Jews for the slaying of a German diplomat in Paris by a Jew.

A number of German companies had reinsured the claims of their Jewish clients with foreign firms. Now they are trying to collect from American, British, and Swiss firms the sums they must pay to the government.

Refuse to Refund Losses.

The foreign insurance companies have refused to refund losses. They maintained that the destruction of property was organized and that such systematic destruction was not covered in insurance policies. Though the full amount of the claims for damage has been kept secret, one German insurance firm said it must pay $56,000,000 to the government.

Many Jewish firms failed to take out insurance in recent months. They apparently realized that if anything happened they would be unable to collect from German firms.

Jews were not the only losers as a result of the anti-Semitic riots. The Reichsbank, which hoards its foreign currency, has had to advance $240,000 to pay for special plate glass which is manufactured by Belgian firms. The Nazis complained that the firms are controled by Jews.

Few Jews Are Released.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Some Jews among the estimated 60,000 in concentration camps were being released today. The releases were ordered if the Jews had visas for emigration and enough cash to pay their share of the $400,000,000 levy for the assassination of a German diplomat in Paris by a young Jew. The number freed, however, was comparatively small.

A ban on Jewish religious exercises aroused such resentment among Munich's predominantly Catholic population that secret police officials ordered the Jewish community in Munich to conduct services Friday. Other regular religious observances, however, continued to be forbidden Jews.

Blind Jews received notice that an entertainmnt planned for their benefit tonight "cannot take place and must be deferred to a later period."

POLICE DISPERSE ANTI-NAZI CROWD AT TURNER HALL

More than 100 young men, supposed members of an anti-Nazi vigilante organization, invaded the Vorwaerts Turner hall at 2431 Roosevelt road last night. They found only a basketball game instead of the Silver Shirt Legion meeting they were looking for, and departed without starting any battles.

Policemen who were summoned said that a crowd was milling about in front of the hall when they arrived. Its members dispersed, however, at the police command. It is believed the invading group, which by that time had mixed with the crowd, were the same men who precipitated a riot Monday evening at a Silver Shirt meeting at 5835 Irving Park road.

Opposed to Foreign "Isms."

Henry Elsholz, who conducts a saloon on the first floor of the Vorwaerts hall, said he assured the invaders that the hall was never used for pro-Nazi gatherings; that the association directors had forbidden such use, and were opposed to the promotion of any foreign "isms."

"There were fifty to 100 carloads of men in the crowd," Elsholz declared, "and they acted plenty tough until they were convinced I was telling the truth."

Judge Eugene L. McGarry yesterday dismissed five men charged with fighting in a vigilante-Silver Shirt clash last Wednesday at 876 North Wells street. Two of the defendants asserted they had heard Roy Zachary, "field marshal" of the Silver Shirts, advocate overthrow of the United States government.

One Man Seriously Hurt.

Those dismissed are Hyman Giskin, 1912 Crystal street; Jack Shiffo, 2003 Division street; Edward Lytton, 1326 North Clark street; Michael Sanders, 1010 Lawrence avenue, and Charles Ariet, 6310 Ridge avenue. Policemen were unable to identify any of them as fighters.

The police continued their investigation of the Irving Park road disturbance. Zachary and nine others arrested at that meeting will be arraigned today in the Boys' court. One man, Clarence Sutherland, 5705 Dakin street, was seriously hurt.

The Silver Shirts are anti-Semitic and uphold the policies of Hitler toward the Jews.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the Nonsectarian League for Americanism, declard last night before the Hyde Park Lions club that the persecutions in Germany are "an offense against civilization."

Quick Relief FOR COLD DISCOMFORTS

Penetro has from two to three times as much medication as any other nationally sold salve for cold discomfort. That's one reason why it is such a favorite in America and 37 foreign countries.

Rub chest, throat and back with stainless, snow-white Penetro—inhale its extra-medicated vapors—they tend to relieve congestion of respiratory mucous membrane—loosen phlegm—ease coughing.

Penetro also increases local blood supply—eases tightness of chest muscles—gives feeling of warming comfort. Penetro does not stain or soil bed coverings or night garments. Pleasant to use.

26 GO ON TRIAL FOR CITY GRAFT IN CONNECTICUT

Two Admit Guilt; Case Unique in State.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Twenty-six men, including Lieut. Gov. Frank Hayes, who is also mayor of Waterbury, went on trial today in this famous watch making town on charges of having defrauded the city of more than $1,000,000.

Lieut. Gov. Frank Hayes.

Among the defendants are numerous city officials, men prominent in both the Democratic and Republican parties of the state, a banker, and several accountants.

A special grand jury reported last May that during Hayes' eight year Democratic régime as mayor a group had defrauded the city by a well knit conspiracy against the taxpayers. The fraud was perpetrated, it was charged, by paying or receiving fees for various services, by authorizing needless services, and by paying or receiving money for services never rendered.

First in State's History.

The grand jury investigation was the first such inquiry into a municipal government in Connecticut's 300 year history. Its exposé of corruption stirred this quiet old city of 100,000 as have few other events.

Waterbury presents a contrast between its bustling activity as a manufacturing center and its renown as the tree-shaded home of benevolent and academic institutions. Residents are as proud of their villa-like homes, flower gardens, and seats of learning as they are of the watch factories and brass works that have carried the metropolis' fame far and wide.

The present trial has attracted so much interest it is expected to be difficult to obtain a jury. Each side has been allowed 200 challenges, in the belief that many will be necessary to select an unprejudiced jury. Observers predicted it would require three weeks or more to choose a jury.

Two Plead Guilty.

Two of the twenty-six defendants pleaded guilty today as the trial opened in Superior court. They are Harry MacKenzie, former state labor commissioner and for years a Fairfield county Republican leader, and Edward G. Levy, an attorney of New Haven.

Levy previously had pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy, as did all the other defendants, except MacKenzie, when they were arraigned last July. MacKenzie, ill at that time, was not arraigned. He was the only one who had not entered a plea before today.

33 Votes Bring Inquiry.

Thirty-three votes cast in a municipal election in December, 1937, paved the way for the investigation that resulted in the present trial. By that margin a coalition of Republicans and insurgent Democrats, although defeated for all other offices, wrested the city controlership from the Democratic city administration headed since 1930 by Lieut. Gov. Hayes as mayor.

The new controler, Sherwood L. Rowland, a Republican, charged he found evidences of financial irregularities in the administration of his predecessor, Daniel J. Leary, a wealthy brewer who was a political ally of Hayes.

Rowland reported that important city financial records had disappeared, that large overdrafts existed in municipal accounts, and that certain payments had been made contrary to law.

A taxpayers' suit for $600,000 was brought against the former controler to recover the amount of the alleged overdrafts, and a nonpartisan citizens' organization demanded an investigation by the state's attorney.

LONELY FATHER ASKS GIRL BABY BE GIVEN BACK

A lonely man who said he has lost both his wife and his daughter appealed to the law yesterday to force his parents-in-law to give him back his daughter. He is Alfons Schneeman, 42 years old, a mechanical engineer living at 1941 Irving Park road. His story:

His wife Catherine returned to her former home in Smalkalten, Germany, for a visit with her parents in June last year. She took with her the daughter, Brunehilde, now 2 years old. Despite his pleas, Mrs. Schneeman remained in Germany. Her parents recently came to the United States, bringing Brunehilde with them. They are now living at 4402 North Racine avenue with the little girl, but they refuse to give her up.

At the request of Schneeman's attorney, Samuel H. Block, Judge Harry M. Fisher issued a habeas corpus writ returnable this morning. It directs the parents-in-law, Joseph and Josefa Scheide, to bring Brunehilde into court for a full hearing.

FRENCH IMPRISON KIN OF JEW WHO SLEW NAZI ENVOY

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The aunt and uncle of Herschel Grynszpan, whose assassination of Ernst von Rath brought down the Nazi wrath on the Jews in Germany, today were sentenced to four months' imprisonment and fined 100 francs [$2.60] each in a Paris police court.

The elderly couple, Abraham and Chana Grynszpan, were convicted of having given asylum to their nephew, 17 years old, in their tailor shop, after he had been ordered expelled from France as an undesirable alien. Abraham Grynszpan and his wife both pleaded in a French marked with a heavy German accent that they had kept Herschel at their home because he was ill.

Herschel, who is held to face more serious charges arising from his shooting of the embassy secretary, did not appear in court. However, his chief lawyer, Vincent De Moro-Giafferi, defended his aunt and uncle.

CONVICTED FOR SHOOTING WIFE ORCHESTRA HEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Charles E. McDonald, youthful electrician, was convicted by a jury tonight of assault with a deadly weapon for the shooting last Aug. 19 of Mrs. Emita Krueger, wife of Karl Krueger, conducter of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra.

The conviction carries a possible prison term of from 1 to 10 years. McDonald is scheduled to go to trial tomorrow on his plea of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Mrs. Krueger was shot three times in front of a Hollywood boulevard dancing studio. Physicians said she may never walk again. The defendant blamed Mrs. Krueger, who was a friend of his wife, for breaking up his home.

A PRETTY BLONDE, OR THE STORY OF HIS $8,000 FLING

It Took More than $55, Says Embezzler.

For many months Richard Dalton, 35 years old, worked in the comparatively drab surroundings of the Ashland Lumber company, 1800 North Ashland avenue. He was the cashier and had a comfortable salary of $55 a week, but the surroundings seemed to Richard a bit dreary.

He made up for this to a degree at night by looking at the photos of hundreds of movie stars which he kept in his modest quarters at 111 West Division street. But Richard was sure he would never meet any one like that.

He Meets a Blonde.

Then, ten months ago, he did. She was swell. Absolutely swell. That is what Richard told Lieut. Tom Kelly of the state's attorney's police yesterday. Her name was Lois, the prettiest blonde he had ever seen. And she liked Richard. He put away the movie stars' photos and put up one of Lois.

Until then Richard had been pretty proud of the $55 a week the lumber company paid. But it seemed paltry indeed when he thought of Lois, he told Lieut. Kelly and Morris Axelrood, president of the lumber company.

She was the kind who could wear fur coats and dazzling gowns, and no matter how dazzling the clothes might be, Lois would be more so, he explained.

The Fur Coat Cost $1,500.

The fur coat cost Richard — or should we say Mr. Axelrood? — $1,500. The wardrobe was $1,200. And Lois couldn't get along on a penny less than $100 a week. Then came another problem. Richard's clothes—which had looked pretty good to him before—looked downright shabby when he stood beside the gorgeously arrayed blonde. His wardrobe cost Mr. Axelrood $1,200.

"But that doesn't add up to the $8,000 you took," protested Lieut. Kelly yesterday after he had laboriously added up these items. Richard smiled pityingly.

"Entertainment, lieutenant," he said. "Entertainment. A girl like Lois had to be entertained."

"Couldn't you take her riding on a street car?"

Richard's shocked look at this crudity beggared description. But he went on to tell how he had doctored his books to cover peculations that had totaled slightly more than $8,000 in ten months. A bit of carelessness with a $100 voucher, the other day, caused his arrest.

Faces Theft Charge.

He will be charged with embezzlement and arraigned today in the Felony court, according to assistant state's attorneys.

Kelly sent Dalton to the Brighton park station with instructions that he be held without charge while a search for Lois is continued and an audit of the company's book is completed.

Police who went out to talk to Lois found that she had deserted her little nest on the north side. The landlady remembered her well as the "pretty little blonde." Lois had been upset when Richard hadn't called her for three days and had moved out Sunday night, the landlady said, adding that Lois had left a message for Richard:

Citizens Demand Ouster of Five Convicted in Speed Trap Case

The village of Dixmoor seethed yesterday with new developments following the conviction last week of five of its officials for operating a notorious speed trap on the Dixie highway. Among the most important developments were:

Lester Wilcox.

1. Nearly a score of business men and other residents asked the state's attorney for aid in ousting from office the five village employés who were fined and sentenced to serve a year in jail.

2. Word was sent to Police Magistrate Charles A. Braun, alleged boss of the speed trap, that he faces trial on a second charge of conspiracy unless he resigns by Friday.

3. Braun sent a moving solicitation for defense funds to hundreds of persons, including numerous other suburban law enforcing authorities.

4. The first reply came from Police Magistrate Lester D. Wilcox of Bellwood. He termed Braun a chiseling grafter operating his office only to shake down motorists and bolster his own bank accounts.

Four Others Convicted.

Convicted with Braun were Charles Special, the village president, and three policemen, Tony Bader, Robert Grecco, and Charles Paduano. Besides their jail terms, Braun and Special were fined $2,000 each; the others were fined $500 each.

Regarding the request for aid in removing the five from office, Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin told the Dixmoor delegation he would have his official reply ready by Friday. On that day Austin expects Braun to say whether or not he will resign.

Inasmuch as the five village employés were found guilty on the misdemeanor count of the indictment, instead of a felony count, Hall said he doubted that their conviction could be used as a basis in ousting them. He suggested instead that an aroused public opinion among the 900 village residents might lead Special and the others to resign.

Appeals for All Five.

Braun's appeal for funds with which to carry their case to the Appellate court was made in behalf of his fellow conspirators as well. They had been informed by the village attorney, his letter said, that the village is unable to finance the five in any way. During their trial witnesses charged Braun with levying exorbitant fines, court costs, and bail from motorists hapless enough to be arrested by his policemen.

After beginning his letter with stately courtesy, and stating the situation briefly, Braun's letter concluded:

"It will be greatly appreciated if you will contribute to this cause in our public subscription for money to appeal.

"Whatever you can give will be thankfully received and will be looking for your check by return mail. Thanking you in advance."

Braun's letter was dated Nov. 28. Police Magistrate Wilcox of Bellwood posted his reply yesterday. After a brief opening, Magistrate Wilcox wasted no time in expressing his views.

"You were found guilty by a jury of your peers and were given far more consideration than you apparently gave the motorists that were unfortunate enough to fall into your clutches," his letter read. "I feel that you thoroughly deserve every day in jail that you will get.

Tells Purpose of Fines.

"You are not the only justice of the peace who sees in an arrest only the opportunity of collecting his costs. Many judges fail to realize that when a fine is assessed against a motorist for violation of the trafic code it is for the purpose of punishing him for being reckless or careless, setting a bad example for other motorists and endangering lives and property.

"I believe that as soon as all chiseling and grafting justices of the peace and police magistrates are brought to justice it will be a lot easier for honest and conscientious law enforcing officers to properly perform the duties of the office to which they have been elected or appointed.

"No, Mr. Braun, I wouldn't contribute a dime to help keep a 'judge' of your type out of jail—but I will contribute to a fund to convict any other 'judge' who operates as you did."

URGES EPISCOPAL CHURCH TO STUDY NEGRO PROBLEM

A call for the Episcopal church to undertake a nation-wide study of the Negro problem was made last night at St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, by the Rev. Dr. Edmund H. Oxley of Cincinnati, O. He spoke at a mass-meeting in connection with a national Episcopal interracial conference yesterday and today at International house, University of Chicago.

Earlier in the day Charles P. Taft, son of the former President, William H. Taft, and brother of the Ohio Republican Senator-elect Robert A. Taft, declared that present trends in treatment of minorities throughout the world may lead to disaster. He spoke of Jewish minorities in Germany, German and other minorities in Czechoslovakia, United States minorities in Mexico, and Negro and Jewish minorities in this country.

Other speakers on yesterday's program included Joseph H. P. Evans, Negro specialist of the United States department of agriculture; Dr. Frank Horne of the Federal Housing authority; Vinita Lewis of the federal children's bureau; R. O'Hara Lanier of the National Youth administration, and Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley of the United States department of labor. Lieut. Oxley is the director of the conference.

ILLINOIS GIRL, 14, PRODUCES GRAND CHAMPION STEER

Irene Brown of Aledo Wins Highest Show Award.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Mercer, an Angus calf 21 months old, won the grand champion beef steer award yesterday at the International Live Stock exposition. He was exhibited by Irene Brown, 14 years old, a hazel eyed, brown haired high school girl from Aledo, Ill.

It was the first time in the thirty-nine years of the show that a girl has fattened, groomed, and exhibited the outstanding animal. Only twice before have children captured the blue ribbon.

Mercer won the show's most prized honor because under his shining black coat he had everything it takes to make a top quality beef animal—broad deep body, short legs, straight back, and thick coverings of smooth flesh over the loins and hind quarters that yield the highest priced steaks and roasts.

Bought Him for $60.

He weighed 550 pounds last New Year's day when Irene bought him for $60. He weighed 1,133 pounds yesterday when Judge William J. Cumber, noted British live stock authority, declared him grand champion of the show.

Named for Mercer county, the new champion started his ribbon collection last summer at the county fair. Then he was crowned champion steer over all breeds at the state fair in Springfield. On the opening day of the International exposition last Saturday, he was judged the best calf of 351 exhibited in the junior live stock feeding contest. Then he made a clean sweep of the open competition, winning the championship in his breed weight class, then the championship of his breed, and next the championship of his weight class over all breeds.

Mercer, a pure bred, was sired by Mercer 2d, and his dam was Earldale Blackcap 31st. The blood of the famous McHenry Blackcap strain of Angus dominates in his breeding.

Elated Winner a 4-H Girl.

Miss Brown comes rightly by her deft hand as a stock grower. Her father, David Brown, has a herd of sixty purebred Angus on his farm near Aledo. Irene, a 4-H club member, was a picture of pride yesterday as she smoothed her bobbed brown hair, then posed for pictures. She was wearing a black and white checked coat, riding breeches, and riding boots. She's not the type to shout when she's pleased; but she was quietly excited about it all.

Irene said she sometimes was too busy to powder her nose, but always found time to scrub Mercer with castile soap.

"I wanted him to be gentle and kind," she said, "so the first thing I taught him was to wear a halter and let me lead him. And I knew how to make him plump. I gave him a ration of one-third oats and two-thirds corn, with a little oil meal and clover hay for dessert. So he got bigger and bigger."

Prize to Pay for College.

Irene is a sophomore at Aledo High school. She'll take her $800 prize money, plus what Mercer brings at auction, and go to college. He is likely to bring her a considerable sum when hotels and restaurants get to bidding Thursday. Last year's winner brought $2.35 a pound, and there are 1,133 pounds of Mercer.

Mercer is the twenty-fourth international grand champion beef animal to have Angus blood in its veins. The number of winners supplied by each breed at the thirty-seven international shows [no shows in 1914 and 1915] follow:

Aberdeen-Angus	8	Shorthorn-Aberdeen Angus [cross breed]	1
Angus	7	Hereford Shorthorn [cross breed]	1
Grade Angus	7	Grade Shorthorn
Hereford	6
Shorthorn	3
Grade Hereford	2
Shorthorn-Angus [cross breed]	1

The oldest champion, when crowned, was King Ellsworth, Aberdeen-Angus which won in 1909 at the age of 1,207 days. The next year came the youngest champion in the lot, Shamrock II., which was 327 days old. The heaviest champion was Clear Lake Jute II., 1904 winner, which scaled nearly a ton—1,870 pounds; the lightest was Lucky Strike, which weighed in at 950 pounds in 1929. But Lucky Strike commanded the highest price of them all, a neat $8.25 a pound. Lowest price tag was on King Ellsworth in 1909. He brought only 18 cents a pound.

Master of Oklahoma, a 22 month old purebred Aberdeen-Angus steer, entered by the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, Stillwater, Okla., won the reserve grand champion award yesterday. Last year's grand champion, Ashbourne Orange, was exhibited by the school.

The grand champion barrow of the show was exhibited by Pennsylvania State college, State College, Pa. He is a 285 pound Berkshire named Penn's Penguin.

Arnold Moore, a 4-H club boy from Union City, Okla., won the reserve grand championship with his barrow, Jack Pot, a 303 pound Poland China. Jack Pot won the championship barrow award in the junior live stock feeding contest Saturday.

The following awards were made in the breeding cattle division:

Shorthorns: Grand champion bull—Grant Campbell, Moffat, Ont., Canada, on Campbell's Command, the junior champion bull. Senior champion bull—Edellyn farms, Wilson, Ill., on Leader's Diamond Mine.

Polled Shorthorns: Grand champion bull—Leemon Stock farm, Hoopeston, Ill., on Lee Dale Collynie, the senior champion bull. Reserve champion bull—C. B. Teegardin & Sons, Asheville, O., on Oakwood Loyal King. Junior champion bull—C. B. Teegardin & Sons, on Oakwood Merry King.

Marshall Re-elected.

Henry W. Marshall of La Fayette, Ind., was reëlected president of the exposition board of directors last night for the sixth time. C. R. Musser, Muscatine, Ia., a Hereford breeder, was elected to the board to succeed ex-Governor A. C. Shallenberger, of Alma, Neb., who died. All officers and other board members were reelected, including Arthur G. Leonard, Chicago, chairman; Alvin H. Sanders, Wayne, Pa., and J. W. Martin, Gotham, Wis., vice presidents; O. T. Henkle, Chicago, treasurer, and B. H. Heide, Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

Bangs' Disease Discussed by Research Committee

A round table discussion of Bangs' disease was held in the Hotel La Salle last night by twenty-five members of the committee on Bangs' disease of the United States Live Stock Sanitary association. Those attending included veterinarians and research workers from New Hampshire, North Dakota, Connecticut, Missouri, Virginia, Minnesota, and the District of Columbia. They will attend the three day conference of the association opening in the hotel today.

DISPLAY MANY SHEEP BREEDS AT STOCK SHOW

Developed to Fit Climate, Feeding Conditions.

Many of the thirty recognized breeds of sheep are on exhibition at the International Live Stock exposition. These breeds were developed to fit climatic and feeding conditions.

Some sheepmen rely principally on wool for their income; others make wool production secondary to the shipping of lambs and adult sheep to market for meat. In the well watered areas of the United States, where feed is plentiful, heavy breeds are popular. In the dry and mountainous west light, active, and hardy varieties thrive best.

Breeds at Stock Show.

Some of the breeds shown are:

Southdown—has medium length wool. Body conformation ideal for mutton, but the breed does not attain great weight. Head is short and broad, and the whole animal has a blocky appearance.

Hampshire—strong point is that its lambs reach market size early. This is the largest of the medium wool breeds. The Hampshire is rawboned and the head is long. The nose, in both sexes, is black.

Lincoln—a short, compact sheep with long wool, which is coarse and curled at the outer ends. Face and legs are white. Is an excellent wool provider.

Rambouillet—Largest and strongest of the so-called fine wool sheep. Its thick covering protects this breed from extreme cold. Is also excellent as a mutton animal.

Cotswold—A long wooled sheep, larger and rangier than the Lincoln. Its wool falls in long, wavy ringlets. The characteristic color is white.

Breed for Mountain Areas.

Cheviot—A short, stocky breed that was developed in mountainous areas. Is pure white. Its activity and alertness make the Cheviot valuable in areas of scanty pasturage, where most other breeds could not exist.

Dorset—A medium wool sheep. Both ewes and rams have horns. The Dorset is favored by some breeders because of the large number of lambs produced in each flock. Faces and legs in this breed are white.

Oxford—A large, heavy breed, with wool longer than that of the Southdown and other medium wool breeds with which it is classed.

Suffolk—Another medium wool "down" breed. Its face and legs, which are bare of wool, are black. This sheep is hardy and prolific.

Corriedale—A long wool from New Zealand. Much favored when the sheepman wants both wool and mutton from animals pastured under difficult range conditions.

PICK HEALTHIEST 4-H YOUTHS; HAIL FROM 6 STATES

Boys Don't Smoke; Girls Use Rouge; All Ambitious

Four boys and four girls yesterday were named as the nation's healthiest 4-H club youths. The announcement was made by the committee of extension leaders in charge of the contest, following scoring by physicians at the Elizabeth McCormick memorial fund.

The girls were Barbara Beebe of Logan, Ia.; Ruth K. Mason, Statesville, N. C.; Jeffie Poland of Fryeburg, La., and Louise Johnson, Calera, Ala.

Each weighs less than 130 pounds. All but one are 15 years old, and all but one have permanent waves and confess that cosmetics are partly responsible for their rosy cheeks and glowing lips. All hope to become school teachers.

Winning Boys Like Farm.

The boys were Gerald R. Hawley, 17, of Brock, Neb.; Hubert Littlefield, 17, Oak Grove, La.; Britt Phillips, 17, Cordale, Ga., and Kendall C. Wilson, 18, Kellogg, Ia. None of them smoke. All are 5 feet 7 inches tall, and one of them expressed the ambition of all. "I want to be an expert and profitable farmer," he said, and the others nodded, smilingly.

Other 4-H champions were chosen yesterday.

For the third year, a Wisconsin girl won top honors in the record contest. She is Ruth Humphrey, 17, of Whitewater, Wis. Scholarship awards were presented to her and four other girls yesterday, by Montgomery Ward. During a period of eight years, Miss Humphrey completed twenty-four projects and won $146.70 in prizes. Other winners were Lucretia Curtis, 17, Fayetteville, Ark.; Christine Overgaard, 19, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Doris A. Albrecht, 20, North Andover, Mass., and Dorothy Arvidson, 17, of Lafayette, Ind.

Vermont Girl Prize Canner.

More than 4,000 jars of canned fruits, vegetables, and meats, valued at $2,100, won first prize and a scholarship for Sadie Reed, 20, of East Poultney, Vt. She has spent ten years in club work. Ruth J. Gehring, 20, of Helena, Mont., whose four years of club work netted her $1,763.50, won second place, and a scholarship. Third and fourth prizes, with smaller scholarships, went to Ruth Dryer, 17, Reedsburg, Wis., and Alice M. Seapy, 18, Kremlin, Okla.

Donald F. Dashbrook, Northfield, Minn., won the national award for home beautification. Donald, who is 19, reconditioned and landscaped the lawn of his father's farm.

Elizabeth Kaufman, 20, of Hattiesville, Ark., won second prize with her outdoor living room. Madge Reed, 19, of Pinch, W. Va., and Jacqueline Morton, 17, of Cottage Grove, Ore., were third and fourth prize winners.

Sam Loftis Jr., 19, of Red Banks, Miss., won the national rural electrification contest. Other prizes went to Bruce G. Grazier, 18, of Felton, Del.; Allen H. Parker, 17, Portland, Ore., and Polly Anne Ketchum, 16, of Linton, N. D.

Handicraft, including furniture and toys valued at $580, won first prize in the handicraft contest for Jerry Hackett, 18, of Maine, Mich. A 9 year old handicraft record won second national rank for Charles G. Vaugn, 20, of East Greenwich, R. I. Third and fourth place winners were Carmen Nicholson, 18, of Cowarts, N. C., and Raymond C. Wyns, 18, Tillamook, Oregon.

Thirteen hundred 4-H club boys and girls saw the awards made last night at the annual banquet in the Stevens hotel. Senator Arthur H. Capper of Kansas was among the speakers.

FALLS ON SIDEWALK; DIES.

Injured in a sidewalk fall, John Flanigan, 50 years old, of 4835 Monroe street, died yesterday in the county hospital.

MISS MYRTELINA BESOSA.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 29.—Miss Myrtelina Besosa was recently chosen queen of Porto Rico's annual Ponce De Leon carnival, to be held Feb. 9-21. She will also represent the island at the American beauty and talent pageant in Atlantic City next fall.

4-H MAKING U. S. MORE LIVABLE AND PRODUCTIVE

Ingenuity of Farm Youth Astounds City Folk.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

When Will Rogers first encountered the 4-H club he said:

"With all the haywire ideas we have, every once in a while we hit on a good one. It's a thing called the 4-H club. Somebody was inspired when he founded that. It's all over the country. By golly, they are a great bunch of kids, and they have some fine stock!"

But you have seen only a part of this fine bunch's nation-building activity if you have seen only their prize winning cattle, sheep, and swine at the current International Live Stock exposition.

Thousands of American farm houses are more livable and more beautiful because of deft 4-H handicrafts.

Hundreds of thousands of American girls are more tastefully and more economically dressed because 4-H girls can turn their hands to anything from dressmaking to window curtains and canning. They made this year 350,000 articles—desks, dressing tables, and chairs—for their rooms.

Acres More Productive.

Thousands of American acres are more productive because of the excellent cotton, corn, silky-skinned potatoes, and peanuts which 4-H boys raised and marketed.

And you should remember that all this richness of handicrafts and produce is the work of boys and girls beyond 10 years of age and under 21.

See them, for they will hearten you about the future of your country.

A father with a city-bred daughter on his mind looked with appreciative—and somewhat wistful—eyes on the wash costumes, the tailored costumes, and the party dresses which 4-H girls from Rhode Island to Oregon have sent to the Leonard exhibition hall and to E. I. Pilchard, the University of Illinois' representative on the 4-H scene. He said:

"Goodness, I wish my daughter could study these things—these economies and these pretty results!"

4-H Girls Good Designers.

The dresses are not amateur botches. The designs are very interesting and the tailoring nice, notably a wool suit made by a Montana girl at a cost of $6.72.

You are not asked to take anything for granted. Detailed costs and measurements are attached to each article. A dainty cotton dress from Rhode Island for a 13 year old girl cost 46 cents for cloth, 25 for buttons, and 5 for thread—total, 76 cents.

A motto reads: "4-H girls know how to make a house a home." The proofs: Furniture—much of it probably discarded pieces from the attic or the barn—redesigned and refinished at a cost of from a few cents to a few dollars; a charming "window treatment" from Oregon. It cost $5.30, and every detail of expenditure is given, down to "3 spools of thread, 15 cents."

"Why, I didn't know peanuts grow underground!" An adult city visitor said that. Well, they do, and 4-H boys and girls in ten states have sent beautiful—really beautiful—specimens of their peanut crops. And cotton—from the seeds and bolls to the lint, which last is the cotton as it comes out of the gin—from Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas. Then wonderful corn, of which 4-H'ers raised 3,700,000 bushels last year.

Curious fact: 4-H membership in the southern states, usually not receptive to new ideas, is far the larger—Alabama, 72,000, but Illinois, 31,000; Iowa, 26,000; Indiana, 46,000; Michigan, 40,000; Wisconsin, 32,000.

This exhibition will give you a bushel of interesting thoughts—and make you happy.

CALIFORNIA COAST IS SHAKEN BY THREE EARTHQUAKES IN DAY

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A single, sharp earthquake shock was felt here about 9:50 p. m. tonight [11:50 p. m. Chicago time] causing alarm to residents in the western section of the city. Perry Byerly, seismologist at the University of California, said he had felt nothing at his home in Berkeley and had had no inquiries. No damage was reported.

Los Angeles Shaken.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Downtown Los Angeles buildings were shaken by a sharp earthquake shortly before noon today. A second one of less force followed shortly afterward.

The first shock, which lasted from three to five seconds, was felt in some beach localities, including Santa Monica and Culver City.

The seismological laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, in Pasadena, said the shock was not strong enough to have wrecked buildings.

HOPE OF PEACE IN STOCKYARDS STRIKE FADES

Hopes for an early peace in the stockyard's strike were dissipated yesterday. Representatives of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company and the striking C. I. O. union reported, after an all day conference, that no settlement had been reached and that there would be no renewal of negotiations until Monday.

The strike was called Nov. 21 and has been completely effective since last Wednesday. No meat animals have been sold in the yards and 600 handlers are without work. About half of the workers belong to the C. I. O. group, Stock Handlers union No. 567.

Company officials would not say whether an attempt to operate the yards would be made. The C. I. O. has threatened to call strikes in the packing houses if any live stock is sold here. Live stock commission men are losing an income of $40,000 a week through the shutdown.

The strikers have demanded a closed shop, a written contract and a checkoff [collection of union dues by the employer]. The company has refused these demands, but has announced willingness to arbitrate questions of wages, hour, and working conditions.

2 MEDAL AWARDS TO AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS MADE

Medal awards to two outstanding American agricultural engineers were announced yesterday at the meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers in the Stevens hotel. Philip S. Rose, editor of Country Gentleman, won the 1939 Cyrus Hall McCormick medal awarded annually to the engineer who the society thinks has contributed most to agricultural engineering.

Harry Bruce Walker, professor of agricultural engineering at the University of California, was awarded the John Deere medal for distinguished achievement in the application of science and art to the soil.

G. O. P. LEADERS LOOK UPON 1940 AND FIND IT GOOD

Expect Roosevelt Will Try Third Term.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Nearly 100 members of the Republican national committee in annual meeting today celebrated the party's remarkable gains in the congressional and state elections this month. They forecast the party program in the next congress which they believe will lead to the complete return of the G. O. P. to power in 1940.

Col. R. B. Creager.

The general opinion was that President Roosevelt will be the Democratic nominee for a third term and that the issue will be the radicalism, extravagance, and other excesses of the New Deal.

Talk of 1940 Candidates.

The names of possible Republican candidates for President heard most frequently mentioned were District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Governor Elect Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania, and Senator Elect Robert A. Taft and Governor Elect John W. Bricker of Ohio.

"I don't know whom we will nominate for President," said Col. R. B. Creager, veteran Texas committeeman, "but it does look as if we knew the person we will have to oppose.

"Mr. Roosevelt mentions Mr. Hopkins in order to have him knocked down. Mr. Wallace [Henry A., secretary of agriculture], beaten in his own farm belt, is out of the picture. Ickes [Harold L., secretary of the interior], was never in it, and neither was Jackson [Robert H., solicitor general].

Expects Third Term Attempt.

"So there's just no one else for Mr. Roosevelt to run, except himself. He will reluctantly sacrifice himself to running again. But he will find the country won't stand for it."

Former Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island said: "I don't know who the Republicans will be for, but I know one person I will be against —Mr. Roosevelt."

Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa committeeman, said: "The Republicans went across the plains to nominate a candidate in 1936. I think this time they will choose a man from east of the Mississippi. On the Democratic side, as far as the middle west is concerned, Secretary Wallace is done for. The farmers have repudiated him."

He talked with enthusiasm, however, about Dewey's "magnificent race" for governor and also called attention to the vote getting ability of another Republican presidential possibility, Representative Bruce Barton of New York, who was reëlected by a plurality of 13,280 in a district which Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat, carried by 12,792.

No Obstructionist Tactics.

The prevailing opinion of the leaders, including new Republican members of the house and senate, was that the Republicans in the new congress will bring open minds to the consideration of legislation proposed by the administration, approving what they deem beneficial and opposing what they regard impractical and dangerous.

George Bender, newly elected Republican congressman at large from Ohio, speaking before the luncheon, said that "Republican congressmen certainly will not adopt an obstructionist attitude," in the 76th congress.

"Today our task is to form a program to consolidate the reforms of the last few years," Bender said, adding that there will be "no more overwhelming influence from the White House."

Speaks for Younger Members.

Kenneth F. Simpson, who was seated without opposition as New York committeeman succeeding Charles D. Hilles, struck the keynote of the views of the younger element of the party brought to the fore by the recent election.

"The election returns compared with 1936," said Mr. Simpson, "showed the people have left the President but they will turn to the Republican party only if they are sure it is not under the domination of Mr. Hoover, the Liberty league and some of the reactionary influences of the past. If we turn that way we might as well fold up.

"If, however, we look forward and not backward and choose standard bearers from the wealth of fine, new, forward looking leaders that recent elections have brought forth, we cannot miss in 1940."

Alexander Wiley, senator elect from Wisconsin, said Republicans must "play ball with the administration on those things that we think are right, and fight hard against those things we think are wrong."

Senator Vandenberg asserted that the country "went American" rather than "Republican" in the Nov. 8 balloting. He said that the 1938 balloting, if Republicans accept the challenge "to carry on in the American way" will be only a preview of 1940.

Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, said the election reëstablished the two party system and precluded activities of "a small group of men who call on the telephone and say 'this legislation must pass.'"

Glenn Frank reported progress by the program committee in formulating a draft of Republican principles for the 1940 campaign. Mr. Frank will produce a report sometime next year for submission to the platform committee of the 1940 convention.

Simpson Dispute Composed.

Although his conservative New York opponents were unable to prevent his election as national committeeman there was considerable opposition in the committee to the elevation of Mr. Simpson immediately to the place in the executive committee made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Hilles.

As a consequence Mr. Simpson did not permit his name to be presented for this place and it was filled by the election of former Senator Daniel O. Hastings, Delaware committeeman. The other vacancy in the executive committee was filled by the election of Harvey Jewett Jr., South Dakota committeeman.

In a formal resolution the committee commended Chairman John Hamilton and Treasurer C. B. Goodspeed for "splendid and able work." Mr. Goodspeed reported that 86,777 Republicans contributed $1,681,105 during 1938. No deficit was incurred in the 1938 campaign and the 1936 deficit was reduced to $724,910.

SPANISH REBELS RAID TRAIN FROM AIR; 8 DIE, 50 HURT

MADRID, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rebel air raiders attacked a passenger train in government Spain today. They killed eight persons and wounded fifty, including nineteen women and children. Several rebel planes attacked the train, which was running between Jaen and Alcaudete in southern Spain. Swooping down upon it near the Martos station, they machine gunned it. Some terrified passengers leaped from the windows and fled into the fields, only to be pursued by the raiders, reports said.

Demands Ships Be Released.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Richard Austen Butler, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, announced today in the house of commons that Great Britain had demanded the immediate release of two Greek freighters seized by the Spanish rebels. The ships were carrying cargoes of wheat purchased in Rumania by the British government. They were seized last week.

CLEW TO KIDNAP COUPLE SOUGHT AT CROWN POINT

Federal agents visited the county clerk's office at Crown Point, Ind., yesterday in a search for information concerning the gunman and his young woman companion who fought off Michigan state police and kidnaped three persons in a dramatic twelve hour flight across three states on Monday morning. The agents examined the marriage license records.

In a small automobile abandoned by the bandit pair at Vicksburg, Mich., they found Michigan license plates that had been issued to James Duncan, 21 years old, of Detroit. A marriage license issued last Nov. 22 at Crown Point carried the same name. Duncan had obtained a license to marry Elva Clayton, 21 years old, of Cedar Lake, Ind.

Authorities at Cedar Lake, a summer resort community, said there was no Clayton family living there and added that the girl was not known to them. On Monday the G-men believed the gunman was Benny Dickson, Topeka, Kas., bad man, and his wife, Esther.

We think ignorance has been getting too much publicity

SINCE the World War and the publication of the Army Intelligence Tests, it has become fashionable to assume that . . . "the average American has a mental age of only fourteen years."

LIFE thinks that this "ignorance" has been vastly over-publicized . . . that the belief in it has been too smugly embraced by those who deal with people in the mass.

So LIFE, in creating a new form of journalism, started with the premise that the American people are eager to know and anxious to be informed . . . that it is a disservice to readers to "edit down."

For example, LIFE believes that news of the world of arts and science is interesting, exciting, important. And LIFE, through its unique welding of pictures and text, presents this news in a way that millions of Americans find entertaining and understandable.

FROM LIFE'S STORY ON CANCER

LIFE also makes it a policy to report notable happenings in the field of medicine: LIFE takes its readers behind the scenes to show such subjects as cancer research, the treatment of tuberculosis, experiments with sex hormones—gives its readers word-and-picture accounts that are simple and understandable, yet as accurate as medical textbooks.

LIFE applies this same constructive and informative journalism to other branches of science . . . anthropology, archaeology, botany, entomology. LIFE makes news-worthy material of these usually ponderous subjects, and presents this material in a way that not only informs but entertains. And LIFE's readers ask for more. Similarly, LIFE finds the American people warmly receptive to its interpretation of outstanding work in the world of art—no magazine of wide circulation has reproduced so many of the great paintings in full color of the last seven centuries. No other magazine has ever done so much to introduce to Americans the vigor and beauty of their own contemporary art.

LIFE REPORTS SCIENTIFIC SEED BREEDING

Thus, the reader of LIFE, as an intelligent adult, is kept abreast of the world he lives in—its art, science, medicine, its cultural progress. LIFE's camera, an "eye with a brain," shows him things as spectacular as man-made lightning . . . things as earthy as the patient breeding of a better ear of corn . . . things as aesthetic as great moments in the theatre. And LIFE's new kind of journalism illuminates their significance . . . reveals their meaning and importance.

FROM LIFE'S SERIES ON OLD MASTERS

The way LIFE has dealt with these things, usually considered over the heads of average people, is typical of LIFE's handling of other significant events, problems, and personalities. LIFE has treated the American public as a public with intelligence and taste.

And because the American public has responded so enthusiastically, LIFE, with an unforced circulation of 2,200,000, not only has become the greatest success in all publishing history—but, in two short years, has definitely established itself as the most potent editorial force in America!

FARLEY LONGS FOR PARTY UNITY IN NEW CONGRESS

Opens Conferences with State Leaders.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In opening a two day series of conferences with state groups from midwestern and western states, James A. Farley yesterday said a quiet prayer for peace among Democrats in the new congress which convenes in January.

As he frequently does, the big New Yorker appeared in Chicago in his dual rôle as postmaster general and as chairman of the Democratic national committee. But his duties in the former capacity were disposed of at an early hour. He was the principal in the launching of the post-office department's "happiness package" campaign. He handed the first of these packages to Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen in the presence of Mayor Kelly and others while the camera lights flashed.

What Happened Nov. 8?

Thereafter Farley went to his headquarters in the Congress hotel to meet most of the state delegations with whom he is to conduct a post-mortem of the Nov. 8 election. With twenty-two states represented by party leaders and office holders, he started the program with a luncheon in the Florentine room. There he told the state people what he wanted to talk with them about—in private.

After thanking his hearers for responding to his call to come and see him and for their work in the campaign, he jumped right into his main subject, the question of what happened to the Democratic party this year.

"While the losses in some instances," he said, "were not a surprise, there were other instances in which they were wholly unexpected.

Time to Take Stock.

"Unquestionably, in many cases it was overconfidence on the part of some state organizations which brought about the defeats. I have no desire to criticize but I do think that the time has come for us to take stock. It behooves all of us to be on our own jobs and to realize what our responsibilities in the 1940 campaign will be."

Chairman Farley said that in spite of its defeats, such as the loss of eight seats in the senate, the Democratic party is still stronger than the Republican party has been at any time since the administration of President Jackson. Then he disclosed that a purpose of his mission is to eliminate or lessen hostility toward the administration displayed in some states three weeks ago.

"I am hopeful," he said, and he said it fervently as if the wish were a prayer, "that the coming congress will be a friendly one, and that nothing will happen to cause any unfriendly feeling in the party.

"From now on it is our duty to clear up any differences that exist in the party."

Ready to Give Advice.

Farley assured his listeners that he was ready to confer with every delegation on the problems that have arisen in its state.

As he often has done under similar circumstances in the past, Chairman Farley told interviewers that there would be no interference from Washington in the Chicago city election.

Bandit Captured

John V. Zebbins (left), bandit who tried to rob Dr. Anthony Beckett (right), in his office at 1608 Milwaukee avenue.

The pistol which a robber displayed yesterday in the office of Dr. Anthony Beckett at 1608 Milwaukee avenue was tiny. Dr. Beckett didn't believe it was real, and started a battle with the man. It was a cap pistol, but the doctor was wounded just the same. He suffered a cut on the left arm when he and his opponent fell through a glass door. However, he overpowered the robber and held him for the police. The man said he was John V. Zebbins, 21 years old, but refused to give his address.

FIND IMPOSSIBLE BALLOT TALLY IN THON VOTE PROBE

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christensen said yesterday that he had discovered a mathematical impossibility in the records entered by the judges and clerks of the 57th precinct of the 32d ward on Nov. 8.

"According to their tally sheet," said Christensen, "there were sixty straight Republican votes cast. Each of the two nominees for state representative, William G. Thon and Stanley J. Coffey, should have received one-and-one-half votes for each straight ballot. They put down 39 for Coffey and none for Thon. That just couldn't happen."

Representative Thon complained that he found similar records in fifteen other precincts in his senatorial district, the 23d. Christensen will interview the judges and clerks of the 57th precinct today.

OUTLINE BASIS OF PLOT TO GRAB SPEAKER'S POST

Legal Experts Predict Democrats' Moves.

Election law experts predicted yesterday that the Democratic state machine's effort to break the Republican majority of the house of representatives won in the election of Nov. 8 will be based on the notorious Marks case, which was one of the scandals of the first governorship term of the late Len Small.

In that case, the state canvassing board seated Adolph Marks in the state senate by throwing out the returns from a precinct of Chicago's 1st ward which had given Marks' Democratic opponent, Norman MacPherson, the margin he needed for victory. Later Marks' hold on the seat was clinched by a recount conducted by the senate.

Four Counties Involved.

In the present controversy, Harry B. Hershey, Democratic state chairman, has charged that frauds were committed in some precincts in four southern Illinois counties lying in three legislative districts. If the Democratic canvassing board throws out some of these precincts, as was done in the Marks case, it is said, it would be possible to unseat three Republican members of the house elected on Nov. 8, replace them with three Democrats, and give the Democratic machine 77 votes to the Republicans' 76.

The scheme would seat the three additional Democrats long enough to permit the machine to elect a speaker.

Contests Would Aid Little.

Senator Marks won permanent title by means of a contest. Under the present conditions the three ousted Republicans would bring contests, it is believed. But even if they won them a month or two after the new general assembly convenes on Jan. 4 and the two houses elect their officers, the Democratic speaker and the Democratically dominated committees would be in office for the full two years of the session.

Following the seating of Marks, the Cook county Democratic committee adopted resolutions demanding criminal prosecution of the men on the canvassing board.

The present canvassing board is composed of Secretary of State Hughes, Attorney General Cassidy, State Auditor Barrett, and State Treasurer Martin—all Democrats.

To comply with the law, which requires that the board meet twenty days after a state election, a meeting was called in Springfield Monday night. It was an unusual meeting since only one member, State Auditor Barrett, was present.

The other three state officials were represented by employés of their offices.

25 TOWNS RALLY TO MODERNIZE NORTH SHORE LINE

300 Citizens Launch Drive for Loan.

Three hundred business and financial leaders and public officials from 25 communities along Lake Michigan's shore from Evanston to Milwaukee met last night to help a railroad—the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee, whose electric trains, traveling over two routes, link the cities and towns with rails of steel. By helping the railroad, the 300 citizens argued, they can help their own builders and merchants.

A dinner and open forum was held in the Glen Flora Country club at Waukegan. Railroad officials said they needed three million dollars to streamline equipment, buy new trains, pay taxes.

Pledge Aid to Get U. S. Loan.

Those at the meeting enthusiastically agreed to help them in efforts to obtain a federal loan. Petitions to be circulated in North Shore cities were distributed and a citizen's committee was named to direct the campaign.

Members of this committee, whose goal is to assure continued operation of the North Shore Line, are Robert J. Aitchison of Glencoe, president of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago; James F. Stiles Jr. of Lake Bluff, vice president and treasurer of the Abbot laboratories in North Chicago; Thorne Donnelley of Lake Forest, vice president of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation of Chicago; Frank H. Just, publisher of the Waukegan News-Sun, and Edward Homer, executive of a Waukegan coal concern. Homer presided at last night's meeting. Ald. Frank J. Hoffman of Lake Forest made the motion creating the permanent organizing committee, which will draft representatives from all of the interested cities.

Sequel to Fifty-two Day Strike.

The concern for the railroad's future is an outgrowth of the recent fifty-two day strike which tied up the North Shore Line and was felt to have crippled business in the cities it services.

It was pointed out that the line has had a pay roll aggregating $52,000,000 in the last twenty-one years and has contributed much to the 178 per cent growth in population in the area between Evanston and Waukegan since 1916.

Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer of the North Shore Line, and Albert A Sprague, receiver, were among the speakers. Fallon said the cutting of basic fares by the Interstate Commerce commission reduced the road's revenue from $7,967,000 in 1928 to $4,160,000 in 1937, although the number of passengers dropped only from 10,300,000 to 8,215,000.

Competition from unregulated truckers using the highways also has cut into the freight receipts, he said.

Also in attendance were Commissioner John L. Bowlus of Milwaukee, representing Mayor Daniel F. Hoan; Mancel Talcott, mayor of Waukegan, and Congressman Ralph E. Church of the 10th district.

CHARGES AGAINST EARLE, 13 OTHERS 'WHITEWASHED'

Democratic Legislators Clear Penn Machine.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Gov. George H. Earle tonight was whitewashed of graft and corruption charges by a special legislative committee named for that purpose last spring. He still has to face a grand jury investigation that he has tried to prevent for months.

The five Democratic members of the special committee reported to the assembly they found no evidence to support primary campaign charges against Earle and thirteen of his associates—state officials and party leaders. Two Republican members of the committee said the investigation was a farce.

Charges against Earle and his associates were made last spring in the primary campaign when Earle and Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia were rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Earle won and was defeated in the November election by Senator James J. Davis.

Charges Begun by Wilson.

The first charge was made by Wilson, who accused Earle of borrowing money from Matthew H. McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor and Democratic leader, who got nearly 10 million dollars' worth of state contracts. Later the state administration leaders were accused of selling legislation for $150,000.

Wilson asked Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, then a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor on a slate opposed by Earle, to make an investigation. When Margiotti raised his voice to repeat charges against Earle he was fired and Earle appointed Guy K. Bard attorney general.

Margiotti immediately asked for a grand jury investigation in Dauphin county, where Harrisburg, the state capital, is located.

Whitewash Body Named.

After trying in vain to halt the grand jury quiz Earle had his legislature name an investigating committee to supersede it. This is the committee that issued its whitewash report today.

Margiotti told the committee of being a guest in Earle's home when McCloskey was present. Margiotti said he congratulated McCloskey on getting a large state contract and said McCloskey replied that his profit would be small, explaining he was to take $75,000 and Earle was to get all over that amount.

"That's damn nice of Matt," Margiotti quoted Earle as having said.

Margiotti also testified a state legislator had told him about getting $5,000 as his share in the sale of legislation permitting Sunday movies for $100,000. In another instance $50,000 was reported paid for legislation favorable to brewers.

Action Against Earle.

Action was taken here tonight against Wilson, whose administration as mayor of Philadelphia has been under grand jury fire. Impeachment proceedings against him were recommended to the 1939 state legislature by the house judiciary general committee. This action came 24 hours after Judge Curtis Bok, who directed the Philadelphia investigation, had hinted that impeachment action was in order.

The committee acted after evidence was presented that Mayor Wilson had made personal borrowings from business men whom he could benefit as mayor.

COFFEE
Is at Its BEST When Made RIGHT
GENIUS is not essential to the making of good coffee. Care, and the expert touch of INTEREST, are all that are necessary to make coffee a beverage fit for the gods. A good cook can make good coffee by any one of the standard methods with any one of a dozen different implements. The WAY the job is done is much more important than the tools you use.
The fundamentals of making good coffee are simple but their very simplicity is misleading. Each is extremely IMPORTANT and if even one is neglected the resulting cup will not be as good as it might have been. Much good coffee is spoiled in making and serving.
1. Start with GOOD coffee—and get it really FRESH. No one can get flavors and aromas out of coffee which nature did not put into it and which an honest expert did not enhance by good blending and roasting.
2. Use ENOUGH coffee—a heaping tablespoonful per cup. Weak coffee is usually insipid and without character.
3. Use freshly drawn water brought to a BUBBLING BOIL and never let it touch coffee except when at or near the boiling point.
4. Allow seven minutes for brewing time, and then pour or STRAIN the coffee off the grounds.
5. Serve coffee HOT and promptly after it is made.

POLICE GIVE NEW TWO-WAY RADIO UNITS FIRST TEST

15 Cars to Be Equipped by Jan. 1.

First tests were being made yesterday of the two way radio with which 200 city police cars are expected to be equipped. Fifteen cars probably will have the units installed by January 1 if the present tests are successful, according to Fred Schnell, radio engineer for the police department.

The new instruments will permit duplex operation, or two way conversations similar to those used in telephonic communication. It is the first time the Chicago police department has tested equipment of this type. Cars of the Chicago park district police carry two way radios, but these permit only one way communication at a time.

Tests Will Continue.

Yesterday's tests, which will continue for the next few days, are to determine if the city receiver on top of the Field building at La Salle and Adams streets will operate efficiently within seventy-five feet of the 100 watt park district transmitter, also on the Field building. Initial tests have indicated that it will.

When the installations are completed, calls will go into the Field building receiver and be transmitted by telephone to police headquarters at 11th and State streets.

Temporary Permit Used.

Yesterday's tests, conducted by Schnell and F. W. McLaughlin, chief service mechanic for the police radio bureau, were being made under a temporary permit from the federal communications commission. Temporary call letters for the station are W9XRQ.

It will cost between $300 and $350 for each car equipped, Schnell said. The equipment includes a power unit under the hood, which will generate 400 volts from the car battery; transmitting units in the trunk at the rear, and a controling unit on the dashboard.

Frequency Is Fixed.

All broadcasting is done on a set frequency, controled by a quartz crystal.

The radios are built especially for the department, and are believed to be the most compact ever made. The transmitter may be removed, serviced and replaced in a car within two minutes, Schnell said.

Tests yesterday were made as far south as 126th street and Vincennes avenue, and northwest to Park Ridge. They were successful, Schnell said. The car sent messages to the Field building, where they were heard by Arthur Kadow, radio expert of the Elgin police department. Messages to the car were sent from police headquarters.

BRITONS ARMED WITH CLUBS HUNT FANTOM SLASHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HALIFAX, England, Nov. 29.—Civilians armed themselves with clubs and lead pipe tonight and guarded women on the winding streets of Halifax. They sought to capture a fantom slasher who has terrorized this community in almost nightly razor attacks on women.

Additional police from nearby communities have been called in by Chief Inspector Salisbury. These, with volunteers, walked slowly through dark streets hoping to trap the attacker. Girls employed in mills and factories had marched home together at dusk, flanked by men workers armed with clubs and whips.

So frightened are the citizens that movies had few customers, parties were canceled. The fourteenth attack took place last night in Platt Bridge, Lancaster, fifty miles away. In each attack a woman has been set upon suddenly by a man who gashed their arms, chest or back and then sped away.

SETTLE $600,000 SHORTAGE SUIT IN WILL COUNTY

The Will county board of supervisors voted yesterday to settle for $125,000 in cash a civil suit to collect $600,000 missing from the accounts of Herbert R. Jones, who was county treasurer from 1930 to 1934.

The sum involved in the suit included a direct shortage of $163,000, a total of $303,000 tied up in closed banks, and an $80,000 transfer from the bond fund to the general fund, which the board contended was illegal.

At the meeting it was said the county's actual loss, outside the money in the banks, would be approximately $163,000, which Jones, in his answer to the suit, said was taken by his uncle, Ben Jones, county treasurer from 1918 to 1922. Herbert Jones involved his father, the late Frank Jones, in the appropriation of $40,000 of that amount.

County officials said the statute of limitations had run out and neither Herbert Jones nor his uncle were liable to criminal prosecution.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ASK MORE FUNDS FOR DIES INQUIRY

Copies of a resolution urging a new congressional appropriation for the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities were sent to Washington yesterday by the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs. The copies were addressed to President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner, Congressman Martin Dies, Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead, and the Illinois congressional delegation.

The resolution, adopted by the federation on Monday, commended Dies for his "unselfish, patriotic spirit in placing the welfare of the American people far above partisan politics, and because of his untiring efforts to give to the public the real facts as found by his committee, despite the many attempts by those in authority to obstruct his investigations."

The club federation represents a membership of 80,000 women.

HEARING SOUGHT BY CONGRESSMAN IN WIRE TO DIES

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Vito Marcantonio, congressman-elect and president of the International Labor Defense, was awaiting a reply today to a telegram asking for an opportunity to testify before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities, in defense of the I. L. D. Mr. Marcantonio declared he wishes especially to answer the charges of Sam Baron, a former Socialist, that the I. L. D. is a "communist front" organization. Mr. Marcantonio wired Representative Dies:

"The International Labor Defense is an American organization. It stands for the enforcement of the bill of rights of the constitution of the United States and for the defense of American democracy."

A RICH COMBINATION OF 4 VITAMINS WITH THE "BOOSTER ACTION" OF FRESH YEAST ITSELF

1 The need for extra vitamins is widespread. Fleischmann's Yeast is now richer than ever in Vitamins A, B, D, G.

2 Slow digestion may cut down the assimilation of vitamins. This fresh yeast helps stimulate and quicken digestion. It acts like a "booster" for the vitamins—helps the body make fuller use of them.

3 Most vitamin preparations are costly. For only 6 cents a day Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast gives you all the average person needs of extra Vitamins A, B, D, G.

Many studies indicate a large proportion of the American people lives on diets which do not supply enough vitamins for glowing health. Be sure you get enough!

You, like so many other people, may have poor secretion of digestive juices. If this stomach action is not stimulated you may fail to get full use of the vitamins you eat.

Vitamin B_1 —	200 Units
Vitamin D —	800 Units
Vitamin G —	100-120 Units

SALUTE TO A KING

By CALEB

THE HUNT FOR HIM was long, far-ranging, and initiated 'way back in the blazing days of July. With Christmas still a half-year distant, we sent forth the word: "Bring us the tallest and finest, the trimmest and truest, scion of the forest that you can lay hands on. Spare not the search, for he is to become the cynosure of all eyes—the epitome of all trees that ever wore Christmastide tinsel and star!"

To a summons like that, what abettor of holiday cheer could be unheeding? And so, the object of our quest was discovered at long last . . . a regal giant of a pine, embosomed in the Wisconsin wilds—a king tree whose claim to pre-eminence. once you have gazed on him, is indisputable.

Transporting His Majesty to our place of business, trundling him indoors, erecting his throne, and adorning his tremendous stature with suitable color and light, was a prime achievement. You will wonder, when you look upon this captive, how the feat was ever accomplished. We even wonder a bit ourselves.

For this monarch of Christmas trees weighs two thousand pounds—soars full fifty feet from massive base to star-crowned tip—is symmetrical as a Yankee clipper—a complete, unblemished beauty of a tree in the noblest sense of both words!

There he stands, stretching from our seventh to our tenth floor; appareled from head to foot in silver sheen shot through with blues, emeralds and reds—the ravisher of any spectator's vocabulary. An expensive monarch: for while he was in transit to our North State Street well, and being lowered by block and tackle to his seventh floor resting place, thousands of dollars of investment were at stake. Two thousand one hundred feet of steel tubing were required for the scaffolding from which he was decorated—and for the decorating itself some eleven hundred lights, seven hundred boxes of icicles, and four hundred Christmas balls, were further required. . . . Is it any wonder we exult? Or that we invite you to share that exultation with us, next time you are in the vicinity of our Walnut Room?

7 Quit Safe Cabin and 5 of Them Drown.

sure, could only give a confused account of the happenings that led up to the tragedy. Edelstein, with a broken kneecap, collapsed.

Log Tells the Story.

But the cold, stenographic reports tell the story of the doomed plane clearly.

The record begins with the departure of the ship from Medford, Ore., bound for Oakland airport. It was a regular flight being made in a Douglas DC-3 plane with two 1,200 horse power Twin-Wasp motors. There were seven persons aboard.

They were: Stead, Edelstein, and Miss Clay; Philip Hart, president of the Pacific Bridge company of Portland, Ore.; S. L. Shonts, San José, Cal., mining engineer; Ivan B. Heflebower, San Francisco bond broker, and Lloyd Jones of Portland, the co-pilot.

The plane left the ground at Medford at 12:03 a. m. It was bound over a 330 mile airway southward and was scheduled to cover the flight in 2 hours 10 minutes. The machine climbed to 14,000 feet, for Medford is in mountainous territory.

The first radio contacts were made soon afterward when Capt. Stead reported that he was fighting an 86 mile an hour headwind and proposed to descend to lower levels. About 1:34 a. m. Stead reported he was west of Mount Shasta, near the Oregon-California border, and obtained weather information.

Silence Causes Alarm.

His ship then was unreported for two and one-half hours. The silence alarmed all dispatchers at United's ground stations and silence was requested while Stead's plane, "United No. 6," was called.

The next record is at 3:04 a. m., when Stead reported that he was hearing the calls. He estimated that his position was between another United Air Lines plane bound northward along the coast and Potreco hills in California.

The record shows that Stead was somewhat confused about his position because he asked where the northeast leg of the Oakland radio range intersects the north leg of the Oakland range. Calculations late tonight indicated that the airliner was probably far out at sea when this exchange of messages took place.

Fuel Causes Concern.

Immediately after this contact the dispatchers at Oakland began worrying about the fuel aboard the ship. Medford's radio dispatchers were asked how much gasoline Stead had taken aboard and replied that he had taken none.

At 4:09 a. m. Stead reported that he was definitly on the northeast leg of the Oakland range. This was incorrect as was shown at 4:17 when he radioed the following message:

"I am left of range, 30 degrees off in my computation. There must be something wrong with the range. I had sixty gallons of gas and am descending. Don't know exactly where I am. More static. I feel I should be over there now. There must be something wrong. I am going down slowly." The transcript is as follows:

OAKLAND—What 's your altitude now?

OAKLAND—Take a bearing on the Oakland range on your loop.

For forty minutes there continued a conversation during which the pilot gave bearings on several ranges. At 4:57 a. m. came the following exchange:

OAKLAND—"What is your altitude?"

STEAD—"About 1,800 feet, and I don't see any lights."

OAKLAND—"Have you any visibility?"

OAKLAND—"Are you over water?"

STEAD—"That is right."

OAKLAND—"Your signals are getting stronger all the time. Throttle back as much as possible."

At 5:03 a. m. Stead gave his gas as about 20 gallons, enough for only about 10 minutes of flying.

Realizes He Is Far at Sea.

Stead asked for more information concerning the lights at sea, evidently realizing for the first time that he had been far out over the ocean. His engines were throttled back as far as possible to conserve fuel and he was slowly descending.

The pilot then requested the wind at the Farallone Islands. The islands are thirty-three miles at sea, due west of the Golden Gate. The request indicated that he sensed that he had been out to sea and was far off his course.

In a last desperate effort to give the pilot guiding points Oakland at 5:15 said:

"If you get to Point Reyes and have enough fuel, pace the light and you will find a sandy beach on the east side of Drake's inlet. Follow the shore and there is a wide beach there."

STEAD replied: "North or south of Point Reyes, ready to land. There are two lights. One looks like a ship and we are still over water."

OAKLAND—"If a shore light and if it is Point Reyes you will find a sandy beach south side of Drake's inlet."

STEAD—"We have pulled a flare and the shore is too rough for landing. Give us the wind."

It was the last contact. The ship was put down in the waves a moment later and the five hour flight was over.

ULSTER CUSTOMS HOUSES WRECKED BY MINE BLASTS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A number of explosions of land mines late tonight along the border of Northern and Southern Ireland wrecked customs houses of Northern Ireland [Ulster]. Customs houses on the Southern Ireland side were reported untouched. No one was reported hurt.

One customs house was blown up at Newtown Butler, where the Northern Ireland government for the last two weeks has banned meetings of protest against the present partition of the two Irelands.

William McNamara, 18 years old, and a member of the Irish Republican army, was sentenced to two years' hard labor following discovery in his home of floor plans of the principal government buildings and instructions for the manufacture of land mines.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Livingston, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—John Renner, 63 years old, died Tuesday at St. Francis hospital at Litchfield from injuries received in an automobile accident on Thanksgiving day.

JAPS BAR U. S. FROM YANGTZE UNTIL WAR ENDS

Charge Foreigners Supply Chinese with Arms.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Japanese army and navy told foreign powers tonight that the Yangtze river, China's greatest trade route, would remain closed to neutral shipping until China has been conquered. A spokesman said later that the announcement was issued without orders from Tokio.

Rear Admiral Naokuni Nomura, Japanese naval attaché, said the policy represented the stand of the army and navy officers directly concerned in Yangtze operations.

Nomura asserted that foreign firms and individuals were furnishing arms and ammunition to guerrillas in Japanese occupied areas. He declined to specify nationalities or otherwise elaborate on the assertion.

Will Ignore Protests.

The joint army navy communique indicated that protests of foreign powers, principally the United States, Great Britain, and France, against the closing of the river more than a year ago would be unavailing. The three nations made such a protest on Nov. 7.

It had been reported that the three neutral powers were about to raise the question again when the communique was issued. Objections to the closing of the Yangtze have been based partly on charges that Japanese commercial shipping has been following the military invasion, now more than 600 miles upriver from Shanghai.

The communique was sent to American, British, French, and Italian naval commanders in China waters by Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, commander of Japanese naval forces.

Chinese Claim Victories.

The Chinese reported military successes north and south of Hankow, the great Yangtze port which fell to the Japanese on Oct. 26.

To the south, the Chinese counter-offensive along the Canton-Hankow railway was reported to have reached within seven miles of Yochow. The Japanese have been pushing southward from Yochow toward Changsha, capital of Hunan province. The two cities are about eighty miles apart.

The Chinese also reported the recapture of Loshan and Kwangshan, about 120 miles north of Hankow, forcing the Japanese to fall back to Sinyang on the Peking-Hankow railway to reorganize before pushing on in their southern Honan province campaign.

Chinese Take Yentsing.

Yentsing, north of the Yellow river in northern Honan, also was reported to have been taken from the Japanese, who had held it for six months. The Japanese also were forced to withdraw from Hofei, in central Anhwei province.

In South China, the Japanese were reported to have lost Tsungfa, about thirty miles northeast of Canton. Fighting was in progress near Samshui, west of the metropolis which capitulated to the Japanese Oct. 21.

Eleven Chinese were killed on the British side of the Hongkong border while fleeing Japanese troops. Heavier border guards were established.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

VOLCANO STRIKES AWE AS SENTINEL OF SAN SALVADOR

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of El Salvador, Nov. 26.—[By Air Mail.]—The traveler coming here from the north immediately notices the warmer climate of this little capital. White clothes are comfortable.

The awe commanding volcano San Salvador rises above the city of 96,000 inhabitants. The city is located on a plateau—almost a valley—2,100 feet high and near the geographical center of the country. It is on rolling ground and has streets of medium width, but with very narrow sidewalks. The citizens seem a little darker than their Guatemalan neighbors to the north.

The flight from Guatemala was short, but the most scenic of any since leaving Chicago. It did seem unnecessary, however, for the air line to call the traveler at 5:15 a. m. for a ten minute ride to the Guatemala airport for a plane which left at 8:44 a. m. The air line operators do not seem to understand that persons who fly are not the ones who take an hour to dress.

Army Planes Pay a Visit.

The drive to the airport did provide a beautiful sunrise, the rays piercing through the cypress trees and royal palms and lighting a brilliant red sky to the west.

The airport depot is small, but adequate. It is new, modern, and beautifully decorated. Two United States army two motor planes took off from the turf runways. No one seemed to know what they were doing in Guatemala.

Our fourteen passenger Douglas plane rose and climbed gently over beautiful green mountains. The bright morning sun emphasized all shades of foliage. A deep blue, clear water lake, about a mile in diameter, was seen snuggled down amid mountain peaks. The countryside is dotted with small square shacks with tin or tile roofs. The small towns look prosperous. Several small volcanic lakes appeared. The lakes are fed by rain and have no outlets. The black side of one mountain had lava showing clearly.

Hopping Over a Cliff.

The San Salvador airport is bordered by a 200 foot cliff on one side. This provokes gasps from the passengers and demands skill of the pilots.

El Salvador likes visitors and passport visas are easy to obtain. Usually the transportation company provides tourist cards good for sixty days. The traveler fills out the form and presents it with $2 to the immigration officer at the point of entry.

Incidentally, one going on an extended tour should take his funds in the form of a letter of credit, American travelers' checks, and, in the western hemisphere, always a few American dollars. The cash is handy when jumping from one country and its money to another and a different kind of money. American dollars are almost universally accepted. The unit of money in El Salvador is the colon, divided into 100 centavos, and it is worth 40 cents American.

Flower Market a Community.

A drive around San Salvador discloses some interesting sights. A building 100 feet by 300 feet is given over entirely to flowers. Many varieties are on sale in rows of booths. In an adjoining row workers are making artificial flowers. Food is being cooked over in one corner of the building—it is a community kitchen for the flower workers. They live with their business. Their beds are hidden during the day by the flower display.

San Salvador has a modern concrete and steel stadium seating 30,000 persons. The center oval is larger than most in the United States, but the seats do not rise as high. Adjoining the stadium is a huge public swimming pool of blue marble. The country's sports are football, baseball, and racing in their seasons, and there is quite a bit of cockfighting.

The large public hospital has a modern appearance, and the model police station seems to be the newest building in town. Police keep a close watch on drivers. Every road leading into the corporate limits is closely guarded. Every car entering or leaving must report the driver's name and destination. These dictator countries are cautious.

Trafic Club Plans Goodfellow Work

(Story in adjoining column.)

Final arrangements for the Trafic club's participation in the Goodfellow Christmas basket campaign were made yesterday in the club dining room of the Palmer house. Dies of Malnutrition and Exposure; $37,000 in Bank

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—John Fausher, 70 years old, a retired toolmaker, who died in the city hospital in Newark last night of malnutrition and exposure, left savings of more than $37,000 in Philadelphia and Newark banks, the police discovered today.

VETERAN POSTAL CLERK ADMITS 350 MAIL THEFTS

Roy E. Roberts, 47 years old, for twenty-four years a clerk in the main postoffice, was arrested yesterday by Postal Inspectors George McGrath and Cecil Grant on a charge of stealing from the mails. Roberts admitted taking 350 letters, which contained $400, since September, 1937. United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker held him to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000. Roberts lives at 7044 Princeton avenue with his wife and seven children.

Herman W. Proctor, 35, colored, 58 East 47th street, a clerk in the main office for twelve years, was arrested on a similar charge. He denied the accusation. Commissioner Walker set a hearing for tomorrow.

GOOD FELLOWS OF TRAFIC CLUB PLAN BIG PARTY

Bishop Sheil Will Speak; Stars to Perform.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary Catholic bishop of Chicago, will be the principal speaker Wednesday, Dec. 7, at the third annual Chicago Trafic club Good Fellow luncheon and entertainment. It will be held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, beginning at 1 p. m.

Bishop B. J. Sheil.

Stars of the theater, concert, and opera stage and radio will furnish entertainment, Arthur H. Schwietert, the club's Good Fellow chairman, announced. R. W. Campbell, president, said he believed the party would be a sellout with more than 1,000 present.

Proceeds to Fill Baskets.

All proceeds will be used to purchase baskets of food, toys, and candy for unfortunate families in Chicago. The gifts will be assembled the day before Christmas at the Chicago Tunnel company's warehouse, 754 West Jackson boulevard, and delivered by the members of the Trafic club.

Edgar A. Guest, poet, who made such a hit last winter at the Trafic club's party, has accepted an invitation to speak again.

Music will be furnished by Lew Diamond's orchestra, Douglas Beattie, baritone of the Chicago City Opera company; Miss Lois Jean Tschappat, soprano, chosen "best woman singer" in the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival; the Pennsylvania Railroad Keystone quartet, which is coming to Chicago from Philadelphia just for the party; the DeZurik sisters, singers from radio station WLS; "Dr. Oskar Sederholm," eminent concert pianist, and the California Varsity Eight Glee club from the Chez Paree.

Magician "Hardini" will be there with the traditional rabbits. Two winsome radio stars, Bonita Kay and Peggy Wall, will give a skit.

Comedians Eddie Garr, also from the Chez Paree, and a ten minute act by Ches Chase, who is billed as a "gastronomical catastrophe," promise to take the minds of the railroad directors off of last month's financial report. Reservations for the party may be made by calling the club's headquarters, phone State 0363.

Good Fellows wishing to obtain the name of a family to whom a Christmas basket may be taken can fill in the accompanying Good Fellow coupon and send it to 1 South Dearborn street, in care of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

U. S. TO REDUCE TARIF ON SUGAR FROM CUBA, COL. BATISTA REVEALS

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's "strong man," said today an oral agreement had been reached for reduction of the tarif on Cuban sugar in the United States. In return, he said, Cuba would throw open her market for Louisiana rice and other North American products, manufactured and agricultural.

Formal negotiations for modification of the present reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Cuba will be started in a few days, he said.

Batista, chief of staf of the Cuban army who recently returned from a visit to the United States, said the present American tarif of 90 cents a hundredweight on Cuban sugar would be reduced to 75 cents. Reduction of the tarif will not affect the United States import quotas, but will benefit Cuban growers by giving them a better price.

FACE to FACE, Your Mileage Merchant can frankly give you these same straight reasons for positive winter starting and big oil savings with your engine OIL-PLATED ... more than an oil-change!

SEE how refreshing it is, the way Your Mileage Merchant—here in the paper and at his Conoco station—backs up his statements about Germ Processed oil. It brings you more than an oil-change, because right after it is pumped up from the crankcase like any oil, it does something any oil cannot do. Energized by the Germ Process—patented—it bonds to every working part and stays up lastingly in the form of OIL-PLATING. Even grindstones can scarcely remove OIL-PLATING, so it certainly cannot drain down while your car stands cold—no matter how long. Therefore the instant you want to start up, every engine part swiftly and safely slides into action on its ready OIL-PLATING—the lubricant that plainly can't be held back by any cold; that can't hold back your battery. The quick starts tell you there's no grinding wear in your OIL-PLATED engine. It won't get hoggish with your Conoco Germ Processed oil, another good straight reason for you to change to Your Mileage Merchant today.

NEW DEAL BEDFELLOWS.

The composition of the New Deal liberal party which is trying to recover from the recent election and reform its ranks before congress meets in January needs study if the New Dealers are to be understood.

Politics never before made so many strange bedfellows, but they are strange only when they are examined in the light of Mr. Roosevelt's liberal pretenses. Although there is manifest hypocrisy in a crusade which brings such a motley crew together there is nothing hypocritical in the common bond. It is one of predominant self-interest which finds different channels in different states.

How all these political hoodlums can be framed in the stained glass windows of the liberal and the truly good is something for their Washington sponsors to explain. The real affinity, however, is secret only to the first glance. It might be thought that Mr. Roosevelt could not stretch his sympathies so far as to include Quinn of Rhode Island and Hague of New Jersey, along with Benson of Minnesota and the La Follettes of Wisconsin, but the consistency which permeates this strange amalgam and gives it the true New Deal substance is dictatorship.

Quinn, first as lieutenant governor and then as governor, virtually took Rhode Island out of the union of democratic state governments. Everything he did violated the republican form of government but nothing was contrary to the New Deal formula. He threw out enough Republican senators to give the Democrats a majority and then fired the state Supreme court. The new court was packed with men supposed to be compliant. Rhode Island had what Mr. Roosevelt had endeavored to procure for himself. The legislative and the judicial branches were put under the executive, and Mr. Quinn, becoming governor, had complete power.

If it were possible he would have outdone Huey Long, but there was this difference—Long did not submit his state dictatorship to the Washington federal dictatorship. Consequently the federal income tax collectors and the department of justice were sent after him and his fellows. After his death his machine submitted to the New Deal and the tax suits were dropped.

Quinn's primary political object was to run his rival O'Hara out of the state, which he succeeded in doing. He despoiled O'Hara of his newspaper and then called out the state militia to close O'Hara's lucrative Narragansett race track, overriding a court injunction, and kept it closed until he was able to get possession of it. The New Deal covered all these dictatorial excesses and Mr. Quinn was regarded as a qualified member of Mr. Roosevelt's liberal party. The federal slush fund supported him, but the people of Rhode Island didn't. In the election they threw him out and are now about to bring Rhode Island back into the Union again.

Many of the New Deal radicals professed to be shocked when Mr. Roosevelt gave his approval to Hague of Jersey. The New Deal badly wanted a senator from that state and it was thought that a combination of the WPA workers and Hague's political gang could win. Hague had made himself notorious by chasing political opponents out of Jersey City. Some of them were from the more violent fringe of the New Deal itself. He wasn't the boss or dictator of the entire state, but Mr. Roosevelt thought that the Jersey City vote under this dictator could elect the New Deal man. The price to pay was regarded as a small one. Mr. Roosevelt took the Jersey City autocrat into the liberal family. There was apparently no sacrifice of principle, but here as in Rhode Island the result was failure.

No pretensions of liberalism could withstand the reproaches of these two alliances. There were betrayals of a different kind in other states which will be considered later, but in these two there was an acceptance of ugly dictatorships under which democratic form and spirit had been destroyed and extinguished.

HIGH SCHOOL REVOLUTIONARIES.

An interesting contrast with the youth who have been exhibiting their prize stock in Chicago this week is the C. ? C. club of Oklahoma City, whose chief officer entitled Commissar, Milton Walser, aged 19, and Assistant Commissar Manford Ishmael, aged 18, "hope for a bloodless revolution to establish a new economic system." The commissar told inquiring reporters that "thirty-three of us could hardly effect a bloodless revolution," but the county attorney is looking into a report that the C. ? C. [Curiosity club] is holding practice in pistol shooting.

The principal of the high school says they utterly disregard school regulations and their parents have no control over them. Of course they have uniforms, black shirts, trousers and boots, but only seventeen, so they are traded around.

Secret societies are irresistible to youth and blood oaths and all that. Most of us have gone through that stage but in this instance there seems to be a factor that did not exist in the romantic adolescence of the past. It would be worth while for Oklahoma City to find out what influences are working on their young people to produce the special notions animating the C. ? C. It is obvious enough that its inspiration may have come from the highest political source, which early proclaimed its intention to achieve a "peaceful revolution" and whose high officials are inclined to think that class war may be good for us. But there probably are local influences deserving local attention.

President Day of Cornell university, in some wise remarks at a recent educational convention, has said that by the age of 18 or 19 our school youth should have developed a sense of loyalty to democracy and democratic ideals, and he did not hesitate to assert that "the American school has not serviced American democracy as it must if democracy is to survive." Yet American youth is better represented by the type that appears in the stock show and by the youth of the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. than by these callow lads in the Oklahoma school, but too many youngsters have been subjected to the radical infection and ought to be protected.

THE FRENCH STRIKE.

The calling of the general strike in France was a revolutionary measure. A general strike can have no other meaning. It is a show of strength, intended to overawe or overthrow an established government. It is designed to force government to accept the dictation of those who happen to lead the strike.

The strike is intended to inform the French people that militant labor is the boss and its policies must be accepted by any French government which wishes to survive. The civil authorities a generation ago, in freeing Dreyfus, succeeded in forcing the army aristocracy to accept a subordinate place; the failure of the general strike would have a similar effect.

The issue is the survival of the constitutional government of the nation, which has been challenged by a militant minority within it. The minority asserts that the national government had the right to decree a forty hour week but must not change its mind on the point even in the face of evidence that the law is working badly.

In reality the conflict goes much further than the forty hour law. Most competent observers are agreed that unless the law and some of the companion measures of the Blum régime are modified France will be forced to abandon anything resembling a free economy. Exchange restrictions will have to be imposed, along with all the other devices for economic regimentation which have been made familiar in Russia, Germany, and Italy. A victory for the strike will be a victory for a regimented economy. Whether France then follows the fascist or the communist pattern of organization will be a relatively unimportant matter.

It seems probable that M. Daladier found encouragement in the result of the recent election in America. We faced much the same threat here. The C. I. O. also sought to dominate the government. The leaders of the C. I. O. have been striving for control of key industries by which to control the whole economy. The C. I. O. seized the capital of Michigan, ignored orders of the courts, interfered with the mails, and in many other ways asserted its independence of the law and its determination to impose its will on the nation.

The last election showed conclusively that the people of this democracy will not tolerate the domination of their government by a militant minority.

Today the French democracy faces the same challenge.

STRAWBERRIES AND CREAM.

The controler general's office has found that TVA is in the strawberry business and cannot discover by what authority of congress it spends money to raise and peddle its product. Richard N. Elliott, acting controler, reports that the audit of his office has been so obstructed by TVA that it cannot account for some $6,000,000 of expenditures in strawberry patches, a freezing plant, a specially constructed strawberry marketing boat, a dairy herd, and various social and sport activities in the valleys of the more abundant life.

The controler never has been able to cope with America's greatest socialist experiment. The strawberries and cream are the incidental products of flood control and navigation, as are curling irons and refrigerators. TVA never has had time to be bothered with a precise accounting of the money it spends. The controler annoys the TVA.

You throw some concrete across a valley and get strawberries which require cream and you get a dairy herd which requires dairymaids who need curling irons and boy friends. The boy friends need dancing lessons and sports which require printing presses. The curling irons need electricity which produces flood control and navigation and then you need a boat to peddle the strawberries and cream and that is the more abundant life. If the controler doesn't understand it the thing to do is to fire the controler, which the reorganization bill proposed to do.

Comes the revolution you'll get strawberries and cream. If you don't like strawberries and cream, comes the revolution and, doggone you, you will like strawberries and cream.

Editorial of the Day

EVERY HOUR: $1,000,000.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

Expenses of the federal government for the first four months of this fiscal year have been going on at the amazing rate of about $1,000,000 an hour, day and night, week days and Sundays—and about $380,000 of that $1,000,000 has had to be borrowed.

The federal government has spent $3,000,000,000 in four months and, despite high taxes, has had to find $1,126,000,000 through loans, which are merely mortgages on the income of our children and our children's children.

The deficit for this year, we read, will surely go to $4,000,000,000 and may exceed $4,500,000,000, which will mean a brand new debt of more than $30 and perhaps as much as $40 for every man, woman, and child in the land—a debt to be added to the staggering total we already have.

That is something to be measured against the accomplishments, real and some not so real, of the New Deal. The New Deal has experimented; the results are in many instances doubtful—but there is nothing doubtful about the cost.

A million dollars every hour. Every hour the piling up of a debt in excess of $300,000. How long can we go on that way? How long should a practical people want to go on with such irresponsibility?

CHEERS FOR THE LINE BOOK.

No piece of literary promotion would be complete without quotations from friendly critics. Therefore we take pleasure in presenting excerpts of opinion on the Line Book of 1938 as expressed by some of the writers whose work forms the backbone of this column. Their comments were unsolicited and were not written, we believe, with the idea of "making the Line."

"The 1938 Line Book is the best yet. Each item in it has so much merit in its own way that I can't seem to select any particular stories or poems for special mention."—Rachel Albright.

"'A thing of beauty is a joy forever'—so—'Thanks and thanks and ever thanks.'—It's grand!"—Beverley Githens.

"The book is quite up to standard. The most memorable bit of verse in it, I think, is Gordon Seagrove's 'The Dorinda's End'—a thing of haunting harmony by which I was much impressed when it appeared in the column."—Eolus.

"It really is a honey, this new Line Book of yours. From the cover, inside to your foreword, then through to the back, it is just what a Line Book ought to be. It flows; it has a sort of continuity that is so often lacking in a book of this sort."—Jin-Jin.

"The Line Book made an ideal climax for a rich Thanksgiving day and will continue to delight all days to come. From the merry masks on the cover to your own parting suggestion as to the 'happy communion' enjoyed through the Line, the book is a treat."—Paul Darrow Paddock.

"Your foreword is charming. It is all a mighty fine job."—Elsie Melchert Fowler.

MASKS AND BUBBLES.

Master, whose scissors, thought and pot of paste
Have wrought a Line Book from each morning's scraps,
I would pay tribute to a perfect taste
By praising every page—but then perhaps
I would be but prolix; what's more, I fear
I'd add no value to these salvaged joys
That would have died with news of yesteryear
But for your toil with kindergarten toys
(Your shears and glue). So I'll but praise your gift,
Your happy faculty to choose the best,
Reject the false and tawdry, and thus sift
The good from all till all through you is blest.
Who else could from our quips and couplets small
Have made the greatest Line Book of them all?

How Actresses Become Famous.

After looking over a lot of old theatrical criticisms, I've figured out what are the secrets of stage fame. If an actress has thin legs and a squeaky voice, she's a charming ingénue. If she can belch or scratch herself in the grand manner, she's a great character actress. If she has a high forehead, a long bob, and appears in enough dull plays, she's considered a fine emotional actress. If she admits to 40 years and yet does rôles in which she has a lover, she's a comedienne. But if she appeared in a popular farce in 1900 and a steady stream of flops since then, she is the "grand old lady of the theater." Jason Ray.

Mr. Dickens of Chicago.

You might tease your readers by asking them: "What great English novelist of the last century had a brother who is buried in Chicago?"

But let's not keep them in suspense. The answer is: Charles Dickens.

OVERWORKED LIVER MAY REBEL.

As a nation we are great food shovelers. We pour edibles into the digestive tract without much thought as to what becomes of them. To satisfy hunger seems to be one of the chief aims of existence. The system must have nourishment in order to function and we call this material food. It enters the alimentary canal where certain secretions — digestive fluids—act upon it, bringing about solution including chemical changes which permit of absorption.

Then where does it go? A very large proportion is taken up by the circulation and transported to the liver for "conditioning" before it is delivered finally to the blood. If all is in good order, if the ingredients are clean, proper, and well balanced, a healthy liver should be able to care for it without effort. If, on the other hand, that organ is obliged to bear constant and repeated onslaughts because it is on the receiving end of a load of toxins we need not wonder should some signs of rebellion appear.

Now the liver cells are not indestructible. In fact, under abuse they may not last for the expected span of life. The structure itself may become inflamed and congested, scar tissue may form, and some of the ducts may become obliterated or plugged. The condition which we call cirrhosis—hardening—is a case in point. The excessive use of alcohol over long periods of time may not harm the liver of Mr. A but the identical procedure may affect the one owned by Mr. B.

Another type of cirrhosis, called biliary, is accompanied by persistent jaundice with considerable enlargement of both the spleen and the liver, and here infection is probably responsible. In fact bacteria floating in the arterial circulation are regarded as the culprits. There seems to ensue a general catarrh of all the bile ducts, and the symptoms include mild dyspepsia, pain, vomiting, and diarrhea.

Physicians are now giving far more attention to relieving the largest organ in the body of a substantial amount of strain to which it may have been subjected—unwittingly, perhaps—by many persons. Overeating is one of the causes as too much nutriment may lead to improper digestion and hence inadequate chemical preparation. Although denied by some authors, it seems reasonable to assume that toxins can form in the alimentary tract, be conveyed to the liver, and hence work their vicious rôles. That this is possible is borne out by the fact that should intestinal obstruction develop the liver will be badly damaged.

We know, too, that some poisons, such as phosphorus and chloroform, absorbed into the circulation can produce a form of atrophy which disintegrates cells and great injury has been caused in susceptible individuals through the employment of a well known drug frequently prescribed for the relief of arthritis.

But fortunately for us the liver possesses great resourcefulness. This is exhibited in its ability to neutralize many noxious elements. Against toxins which are brought to it, antitoxins can be manufactured—at least in part. This has been observed repeatedly in cases in which intestinal putrefaction has resulted in foul smelling stools. The chances are that some of the products taken into the blood reach the liver and are there annihilated. Again, should some impairment of the mucous lining of the bowel occur as a result of inflammation followed by infection a constant stream of putrid compounds may be poured into the absorbing vessels.

Naturally then to preserve the normal function of the liver we must protect ourselves against bacteria in the bowel which are behaving badly, as the intestinal area constitutes the great funnel through which nutrition reaches the blood. The absorbing surface—the lining of a cylinder 25 feet or more in length—must not be made to handle more food than its capacity permits. Certainly it should not be required to discriminate between that which is good and useful and that which is bad and destructive. We are provided with taste and smell as early safeguards and we depend upon the irritating effects of improper digestion within the bowel to bring on diarrhea and sweep away offending substances.

BLOOD CORPUSCLES.

W. S. S. writes:

1. What is the normal proportion of the red and the white corpuscles?
2. Does the count vary much normally according to age, weight, or occupation?
3. How does improper proportion of corpuscles affect the health?
4. What can be done by diet or medical treatment to restore a proper balance of the blood count?

REPLY.

1. Normally there are between four and six million red corpuscles in each cubic millimeter of blood, men having a slightly greater number than women. The white cells vary in number between 5,000 and 8,000 in each cubic millimeter. This figure changes almost every hour.
2. No.
3. Anemia is the chief disease caused by a reduction in the number of red cells. There are many types of anemia, each requiring a different treatment. Polycythemia is a rare disease in which the red blood corpuscles mature more rapidly than they are needed. Both diseases cause fatigue and weakness. In leucemia there are too many white blood cells, the symptoms being nervousness, abnormal perspiration, and loss of weight, together with ease of bleeding.
4. Anemia is the only blood disease that can be treated by diet and this must be supplemented by appropriate drugs and by treatment of focal infections.

WATER AND OVERWEIGHT.

H. T. writes: What do you mean when you say that a person "holds too much water in the tissues"?

REPLY.

Tissues are composed of collections of similar cells—for example, the muscles. Water is required for the health of these cells, but if too much is retained a dropsical condition develops, interfering with function. If the ankles swell toward evening water is the immediate cause, although some failure on the part of the heart or the kidneys may be primarily responsible. Those who are overweight may observe this symptom even though no true disease is present. Many of these individuals have tried to reduce by cutting down on food, but with no success. A water-elimination diet is then required. We have this type of reducing diet, which may be obtained by sending a stamped addressed envelope.

WASTE AND WANT.

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 28.—As the result of a delicate constitution I had to drop out from the line of the world's workers. I stand on the side lines and watch the rest of the world go by. The other day a little, thin, hard working woman asked me if I had a sweater her daughter could wear. This daughter has curvature of the spine. She is all the mother has.

Then a colored woman said to me, so wistfully: "I've got a new dress and I do wish I could get one of them shiny pins to put up on my shoulder." Then she sighed, "But they cost 25 cents apiece, and I need coal!"

The person who solves the problem of bringing together the awful waste and the woeful want of the world will be the world's No. 1 benefactor. There are dozens of sweaters hanging in closets, on nails and lying in trunks and boxes. There are shiny 10 cent store pins hiding their artificial luster on unused garments, if I only knew the owners!

MARGARET CHANDLER.

OUTRAGES IN RUSSIA, TOO.

Chicago, Nov. 26. — Ever since their advent Fascism and Nazlism have been regarded as cousins of communism, but lately they have become more like blood brothers, with the difference that national Socialism is still in its infancy while bolshevism is a mature robber and murderer, going into its twenty-first year.

What the Jews experience now in Germany has been going on steadily in Russia since 1917, with the only difference that the persecuted ones are Russians and the form of persecution is many times more brutal, bloody, and bestial than in Germany.

Bolshevism has confiscated all the capital, private property, and savings of the Russian people, rich and poor alike, whereas national Socialism has taken away part of the capital from the Jews only.

The bolsheviks in Russia suppressed over 90 per cent of all Christian churches: Greek Orthodox, Catholic, and Protestant alike, and killed, according to official figures, seventeen bishops, 19,000 priests, and an untold number of laymen. The national Socialist régime arrested 1,600 Jews in Berlin in retaliation for the murder of Von Rath, whereas the bolsheviks retaliated for the murder of Commissar Uritzky in 1918 by a Jew and the attempt to assassinate Lenin by the Jewess Kaplan, with the execution of thousands of Russians, among whom were 300 tsarist army officers who were drafted for service in the Red army and were assembled, at that time, in Moscow barracks.

Reports from Germany tell about Polish Jews being expelled to the Polish frontier, packed in railroad cars without food, whereas in U. S. S. R. for the last twenty years hundreds of thousands of Russian people are shipped every year in unheated box cars, packed like cattle, to the Siberian concentration camps, a considerable number of whom die on the way from cold and starvation.

There are over 100,000,000 Christian Russians who are persecuted by communists and are deprived of all their possessions and reduced to virtual slavery. Will Mr. Roosevelt be consistent and, in his desire to vindicate the American sense of justice, devise also some plan to evacuate the persecuted Russians and settle them in the United States and other democratic countries? TWO STREET CAR INCIDENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Your correspondent who complains of a cold street car would have taken a practical course by doing what I did about the same trouble. On being told by my stenographer that she had ridden to work in a stone cold car, I telephoned the company's complaint department and told them about it in temperate language.

They thanked me, asked for futher details, time car was boarded, etc., which my stenographer supplied. They then asked me to get her to notify me of any future trouble, and for the next two days I asked her about the matter each morning, but each time she told me that the car was perfectly warm.

Now about the case of Margaret B. Kaplan, whose letter told about a fight on an L car. I noted something of the kind on a Devon-Kedzie car which I boarded at Washington and State. The car was about three-fourths full. There were three colored men, all husky. One of them had his feet on the seat facing him. The car soon filled up, but the man kept his feet on the seat.

Then an old lady got in, looked wistfully for a seat, but the man did not move. There were plenty of fair sized men in the car looking on, but none offered her a seat. I am an undersized person, but got up, gave the old lady my seat, and, going over to the colored man, I told him to take his feet down. He did so with a grunt, and I rode with the colored party the rest of the way. The fact of the men being colored is of no significance; there are certainly as many white hoodlums as colored.

On getting off the car I mentioned the matter to the conductor. He gave me an answer which seems pretty sound when you think it over. If he had interfered there might have been a scene, and possible court action, in which the company would have most likely got the worst of it. No one is ready to come forward as a witness for a corporation.

This probably explains the inaction of Margaret B. Kaplan's conductor. Anyhow, what were all the male passengers waiting for? The car, being a full one, must have contained quite a lot.

CATS! GO AND SEE THEM.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—As the years roll by I am tempted to write my protest of the way cats and cat fanciers are used. Some of the people may not realize how many cat lovers there are in this world.

It is always of the dirty, alley prize fighter they talk. She kills our birds. So she does; why? Food. Now don't say birds were not intended to be killed, for what of the hunter? He kills, usually for the sport, not for food. The cats kill the rats in the alleys or keep the house free of mice.

The dog fanciers and the fancy dogs are never laughed at as are the cat fanciers and fancy cats. Why must we be scoffed at any more than any other animal fancier?

Now go and see the coming cat show [at the Skyline club, Dec. 3 and 4] and see how perfectly beautiful a cat can be—even our alley cat.

SKY-WRITING FOR PEACE.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Considering the prevalence of international strife and discord at this Christmas time, I think it would be a fitting gesture to solicit as many aeroplanes as possible and have them sky-write a suitable peace message to the people of Chicago.

If this could be done during the entire Xmas day it might help us to realize the necessity to keep and preserve international peace and good will among all races and creeds.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" left an estate to his brother, "B" in a will made in 1922. "B" was to pay each of his other brothers [four] $700 and also pay all funeral expenses, doctor bills, etc. The farm has by now depreciated where a benefit of profit would not be derived by "B," should he execute the will as stated. A hired help was also bequeathed $500.

1. Must the will be so carried out or can he receive an equal amount as the others?
2. How long after the deceased has passed away can procedure be started?
3. The hired help has, since the will was filed, 15 years' salary due him. Can he put in an additional claim?
4. Where should the claim be filed?
5. The hired help and a nephew are now running the farm. Can the brothers order them off the farm?
6. Within what length of time?
7. What part of expense or benefit can they derive as to the repairs and food supplies which they need? R. S.

1. The wording of the will would control. Where a will makes specific gifts to some beneficiaries and leaves the residue to others, and the value of the residue later depreciates, this operates to the disadvantage of the residuary beneficiaries.
2. An indefinite time.
3. Of course, he can file any claim that he pleases. His chances of collecting will depend on the proof of both sides. Under the Illinois evidence act, the claimant is not permitted to testify on his own behalf.

PLAN SPENDING 172 MILLION ON TRANSIT LINES

Engineers' Society Hears Outline of Program.

Public and private expenditures totaling 172 million dollars are planned to modernize Chicago's local transportation facilities, Philip Harrington, city subway and traction commissioner, told members of the Western Society of Engineers last night. Approximately 600 attended a meeting of the society in the Engineering building auditorium.

The modernization and extension of private traction facilities—street car, bus, an delevated—over the next few years will require an outlay of private capital of 110 million dollars, Harrington said. The city program for subways during the next eight years would cost 62 millions.

Predicts Trend to Buses.

He told the engineers that the city's traction problem appears to be on the way to a solution. Company and city officials, he said, are in substantial agreement on physical plans and the federal court is trying to work out a unification of the operating companies.

Harrington declared the trend in local transit service throughout the country is toward the abandonment of car lines and the substitution of buses. Buses, he added, will play an important part in the Chicago modernization program.

"During the last five years," he asserted, "17,449 motor buses have been purchased in this country for transit purposes. Only 951 electric surface cars were purchased. In 1937 1,700 miles of surface electric railway track was abandoned and 2,700 miles of new bus routes added.

Replace Old Street Cars.

"The Chicago rehabilitation program provides for the replacement of 3,100 old street cars with modern cars and buses. It requires that at least 360 of the 1,040 miles of street car track be replaced with bus operation. Extensions are provided on 190 single way miles and in addition there will be 180 miles of express bus service to bring rapid transit to a large area of the city.

"The elevated system will be equipped with modern signal and train control devices. Its service will be improved by the addition of 1,000 cars of latest design to replace old and unsatisfactory equipment. The stations, structures, and shops must be modernized to conform to the standard of other improvements."

Need Additions to Subway.

The initial system of subways which the city is to begin building next month must be supplemented soon by additions to permit operation of all west side elevated trains in subways in the central business district, he declared. Although the Public Works administration, which is helping to finance the first subways, did not approve street car subways, it is still the city's plan to build car-line tunnels in Washington and Jackson streets in the loop district, he added.

Charles E. DeLeuw, consulting engineer for Harrington's department, discussed the location, style, and construction details of the initial subway system.

TRUCK FATALLY INJURES GIRL, 8, WALKING HOME

Struck by a truck as she was returning from school yesterday afternoon, Gladys Stack, 8 years old, of 1330 South Karlov avenue, died soon afterward in Mount Sinai hospital. The accident occurred on Karlov avenue between 13th and 14th streets.

Robert Volesky, 54 years old, of 2311 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, was injured fatally yesterday when he stepped into the path of an automobile in the 5000 block on Cermak road in Cicero. He died soon afterward of a skull fracture. Charles Seman, 58 years old, of 2309 South 61st court, Cicero, was held for the inquest.

Theodore Larson, 43 years old, of 4300 Washington boulevard, died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital of injuries suffered on Nov. 25 when he was struck by an automobile at Cicero avenue and Lake street. The driver, Miss Lillian Gehrke, 35 years old, of 751 North Menard avenue, was charged with reckless driving.

When Miss Gehrke appeared in the Safety court yesterday, Judge Stephen Adamowski was informed of Larson's death. The court raised Miss Gehrke's bond from $50 to $3,500 and continued the case until Dec. 21. An inquest will be held today.

Andrew Karria, 26 years old, 831 Buena avenue, an ambulance attendant, suffered serious injuries last night when he fell from the back of a moving ambulance in Michigan avenue near 46th street. Karria had been trying to close the back door, which had blown open. He was taken to the Billings Memorial hospital by the driver, Curt Janson.

Up until 4 p. m. yesterday, 791 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 609 were killed in Chicago, where 18,600 were injured during the same period.

MINOR CHANGES IN AIRPORT TRACK PROGRAM SOUGHT

The city council today will be asked to pass minor amendments to the city airport enlargement ordinance. With these changes approved, the city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tomorrow will file a petition with the Illinois commerce commission asking for approval of the plan to shift the railroad's tracks from the airport to a new right of way—yet to be acquired—a quarter of a mile north of the flying field. The ordinance changes involve only the work schedule as set up therein.

1,000 MOTORISTS TO BE SUMMONED FOR DRIVING TEST

State Police Chief Tells of Safety Campaign.

The first notices for driver's license applicants to submit to examinations will be mailed from Springfield today. Approximately a thousand motorists will be told on postcards from the state police where and when they are to be tested.

Walter Williams.

Chief Walter Williams of the state police made this announcement yesterday in Aurora, where he was attending a district meeting of the Illinois safety commission. He also told of plans to improve the quality of driving on the streets and highways through a statewide educational and enforcement campaign.

The first drivers to be examined under the Illinois license law will be almost exclusively those with admitted physical handicaps. There will be oral tests on knowledge of trafic laws, a cursory physical and optical examination, and demonstrations behind the wheel of a car.

The first tests will be made in a week or ten days in Chicago, Secretary of State Hughes is arranging for his men to coöperate with city police in conducting the tests.

CRIPPLE DROPS SUIT AS RAILWAY PAYS HIM $50,500

John C. Goetschel, formerly a policeman of the Marquette station, won a $50,500 settlement yesterday from the Santa Fe railroad. He lost a hand and a leg when he leaped upon a box car in the railroad's yards at San Bernardino, Cal., in an effort to turn a handbrake and prevent the car from crashing into other cars. Goetschel, who is 49 years old, was working in the yards as a superintendent.

Announcement of the settlement was made by his attorney Robert J. McDonald of Minneapolis as Goetschel was being brought into Circuit court in a wheel chair for the opening of his $100,000 suit against the railroad. Judge Robert A. Meier of Chicago Heights, who was presiding, thereupon dismissed the suit.

START CHICAGO BUS TESTS FOR MONOXIDE TODAY

State Orders Other Safety Checks Made.

The Illinois commerce commission will begin an inspection today to determine how much carbon monoxide gas there is inside Chicago buses. James M. Slattery, commission chairman, said it is the first time such a survey has been made in Chicago.

Each of the 530 gasoline buses operated by the Chicago Motor Coach company and the 125 used by the Chicago Surface Lines will be examined while they are in regular operation. A similar study was made in 26 other cities in Illinois last winter. The tests can be made only in cold weather when the bus windows are closed.

Test Buses on Regular Runs.

The work here will require about two months, according to Merrill B. Knox, transportation engineer for the commission. A commission engineer and an inspector for the state department of public health, he explained, will board a bus while it is on its regular run. The test will be made at the rear of the bus.

The amount of carbon monoxide gas in a bus will be measured by a delicate electrical instrument originally developed to detect the presence of deadly gases in mines.

The inspection downstate showed, Knox said, that out of 510 buses examined 439 had less than 3 parts of carbon monoxide in 100,000 parts of air. The 3 to 100,000 ratio is considered harmless and is rated negative.

Other Tests to Be Made.

If a bus shows ten parts of the gas in 100,000 parts of air, Knox said, it is a cause for concern. That amount would be noticeable and might cause nausea. Only two downstate buses showed this amount and they were immediately withdrawn from service.

If any buses here show in excess of the 3 to 100,000 ratio the companies will be required to make mechanical changes to reduce the amount, Knox said.

Other safety tests will be made along with the carbon monoxide survey, including the checking of brakes and emergency exits.

2 Old Fireboats to Be Retired as Lake Scows

When the fire horses got too old, the city used to put them out in the pasture with the other horses. It did as much yesterday for its old fire boats, the Graeme Stewart and Illinois. The council sold them to the construction division for $5,300. The construction division will remove the machinery, change their classification, and make lake scows out of them.

I want every milk user in Chicago to read about the amazing benefits made possible for rich and poor alike by the discovery of new spruce fiber containers

New protection for health . . . Eventual lower costs for milk users . . .
Enormous savings in freight . . . Better prices for producers . . .
Larger milk consumption and more work for all

By Sam E. Dean
President of Dean Milk Co. and Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc.

LAST WEEK marked the beginning of a new era in the milk business in the Chicago market when for the first time we sold milk in a number of suburbs in new, modern, sanitary and economical spruce fibre containers.

* * * * * *

Now has come a time in our industry which makes it possible for our company to render a service to you who live in Chicago and suburbs that promises to be of historic importance.

Because we are the pioneers of this service I wish to make a report to you, the people, so that you can fully understand the great Cause that is at stake.

For years there has been little or no scientific improvement in the way of supplying the public here with its great necessity—milk and cream.

The System of supplying fresh milk and fresh cream has been unchanged for so long that many people think there can be no other way.

For several years we have been convinced that a way could be found to bring you at reasonable cost the rich milk and cream produced in the famous dairy region of northern Illinois. In this area are bred the finest Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey cattle. Here is finest feed in abundance. Here are experienced and intelligent farmers producing a superior, never-failing milk supply under strict standards.

Milk Supply Is Possible Without Huge Corporate Investments

We have believed that it is not necessary to create a large corporation with a huge investment in order to bring to people of the Chicago area this rich, nourishing and delicious milk.

We sought for a way to avoid the costs of the elaborate system, the expensive glass bottles (so many are lost or broken), the cost and nuisance of bottle washing, the annoyance of bottle returns, and the great cost of transporting full bottles and then empty bottles with their needless weight.

We were long ago convinced we were the company to change this age-old, obsolete plan because we did not have large investments in bottles and an out of date bottling system to protect.

New Container Opens the Way

We discovered that an absolutely sterile container had been invented. It is made of virgin spruce fibre, sterilized and sealed inside and out with superheated paraffin almost at the instant of filling. In this way there is no opportunity in shipment for contamination. Some people call these paper bottles—but they are actually spruce fibre.

The astonishing fact about this package is its pouring device. It is a hole in the top side of the package. This hole is covered by a flap which is sealed moisture tight. This flap lifts up; the milk or cream is poured out, then the flap shuts and with the pressure of your finger is fastened, completely covering the pouring hole. No glass bottle yet invented (or any other milk container in use that we have ever seen) ever had such a protected pouring surface—such a safeguard for sterility and cleanliness as this.

Tested and Approved by Most Competent Authorities

Convinced that we were on the trail of an epochal benefit to every milk buyer, we had several laboratories test and check and retest and recheck milk in these containers. Research specialists of our own University of Illinois and Northwestern University Medical School approved our package. The Illinois State Department of Health approved it.

News and Editorial comment by the newspapers on the significance of this improvement is very gratifying. It indicates the wholesome interest of the press in everything which aids in the economical, safe and sanitary supply to the public of its great food essential—MILK.

Then we discovered that in Washington, D. C., the seat of our government, these packages had been approved and are being used for Grade A milk and cream. Many other large cities with cautious health departments and rigid standards had also OK'd the package.

Here, we were convinced, was the package that would enable us to bring Illinois' finest milk to Chicagoans and suburbanites. Here was made possible Grade A milk, and richer cream at no increase in cost to the public.

Great Benefits to All Can Flow from This Development

It seems to us not too much to hope eventually for all of these: (1) lower prices to consumers, (2) better prices to milk producers, (3) finer quality for every consumer, (4) more labor gainfully employed when the public realizes all the benefits and increases its use of MILK, the greatest of all foods.

I am happy to report to you that our plan is a reality. Suburbs of Chicago have welcomed our new service. Retail stores are supplying this richer Dean's Fresh Grade A Milk (with all the cream left in) in its handsome light weight container. Stores by the score are taking it on daily. Health departments in the suburbs hail the new package and all that it promises.

Chicago's Health Department now has this new container under consideration, and I have every confidence that they, too, will say "welcome" when they have tested the amazing and always protected pouring invention that I have described.

I believe that as milk producers and suppliers, we are engaged in one of the most worthwhile of all the commercial services. I know of nothing so important in the marketing of foods as to give all the public, rich and poor, first quality milk at rock bottom prices. And I admit that I am thrilled that it was given to us to pioneer this great improvement in milk supply. Although confined now to suburbs I am hoping we can soon serve you in Chicago proper.

This Is the Beginning of a New Era in Milk Packages

This I know—the big corporate milk companies will not stand idly by. I expect them to substitute other packages. We have been two years testing ours and putting in the latest, most modern and sanitary pasteurizing and packaging equipment. It is a "wonderland" of polished stainless steel. It paraffins these containers, sterilizes them, and fills and seals them within a few seconds. The big corporate companies, if they follow our lead, must use similar methods—install equally modern packaging equipment. Meantime, because of their large investment in the glass bottle "system," I cannot hope for their "approval" of this new method to you, the consumer, nor to you alert and service-minded dealers who are so prompt to co-operate with us.

This, then, is my first report to you, the people, on an improvement in your milk service that I believe will be of historic importance. It is your Cause and ours—and those people who go to their stores and ask for Dean's Grade A Pasteurized Milk are sure to help it succeed.

Yours sincerely,

Sam E Dean
President.

The new sterile spruce fibre milk container with its protected and sealed pouring hole.

EASIER TO BUY . . . No store deposit on bottles to pay or get back. No glass to worry about breaking. Nothing to return. Handy square shape packs in easily with other purchases.

EASIER TO CARRY . . . Even a child can easily handle several quarts of Dean's Milk in Pure-Pak containers. Each quart weighs 1½ pounds less than glass bottled milk!

EASIER TO POUR . . . Square shape is much handier to hold. Just lift lip sealed inside for perfect cleanliness; milk pours without dripping—without touching outside of container. No top to misplace . . . just push lid down again to close.

IERC Demands Correction of Several Abuses.

State money for four downstate relief administration units was shut off yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The IERC ordered December state funds for the units held up until irregularities in county and township administrations are corrected.

Thomas E. Courtney, IERC member from De Kalb, brought with him an audit purporting to show that Samuel Carlson, De Kalb township supervisor, is $5,573 short in his township accounts. Township supervisors are ex-officio overseers of the poor in their townships.

"This audit was prepared by a reliable firm of licensed auditors and it shows that Carlson has been manipulating township funds for a long time," Courtney said. "I don't think we should trust a man like that with state relief money.

Order December Funds Held Up.

"A citizens' committee in De Kalb brought this situation to light. If more local committees like this one would take an interest in relief affairs we'd get rid of a lot of our relief troubles."

Melvin H. Straus moved that De Kalb's December allocation of $2,673 be held up until Carlson is replaced as the overseer of the poor there. The IERC ordered this done.

De Kalb township authorities, it was reported, had not planned to reveal the auditor's report until after the December relief funds were made available. Carlson's wife reported that he was sick in bed.

The three other communities, the amounts withheld, and the reason given by the IERC for the action were:

Alexander county, $12,154. Alexander Serbian, a county commissioner, illegally held the post of overseer of the poor until the day after election, when he resigned. Funds held up until a successor approved by the IERC.

Massac county, $1,478. Using relief funds to operate a laundry. The laundry must be disposed of before the state funds are released.

Oakland township, Schuyler county, $291. Paul E. Gay, township supervisor, must account for or repay $1,427 and be replaced by a person the IERC considers competent before funds are released.

Lyons Warns of a Crisis.

Meanwhile Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the Chicago Relief administration, warned the city council finance committee that Chicago is approaching another minor relief crisis. He said that the money the city has available, plus that to be received from the state, will not meet all of the needs until the 1939 city budget is passed next January.

He estimated that there will be 99,500 cases, or family groups, on the CRA rolls during December and that $3,686,676 will be needed for their relief. The city, he said, will have only $3,635,000 to meet this if it uses all of its own funds of $1,085,000 and $2,550,000 from state funds.

Lyons' estimate was thrown off when the IERC later in the day gave the city $2,681,536 for December. This would leave a balance of $80,000 in Chicago funds for January relief, until the city council can add 1939 city money to the regular monthly allotment from the state.

NAYLOR RETIRES; WARTIME STAF CHIEF OF 33D DIV.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Troops at Fort Benjamin Harrison were paraded today in honor of Brig. Gen. William K. Naylor, commanding officer, who retires from the army tomorrow after more than forty years of service. The general, who reached the mandatory retirement age of 64 Nov. 24, became the fort's commanding officer Dec. 1, 1933. He will be relieved by Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, who has been commanding the Washington provisional brigade at Washington, D. C. Gen. Naylor is a native of Bloomington, Ill. He was chief of staf of the 33d division and later of the 9th army corps in France in the world war. He taught at one time at the University of Illinois.

ROBS RELIEFER DURING A FAKE PHYSICAL EXAM

Edward Ridyard, 35 years old, a reliefer, was robbed of $24 yesterday by a man who represented himself as a case worker.

The thief called at Ridyard's home, 765 Van Buren street, and informed him he must undergo a physical examination. When Ridyard removed his clothing he was sent into another room. While he was there the fake case worker fled with the money, which was in the reliefer's trousers.

$1,043,076 IN RELIEF FOOD SHIPPED TO IERC IN OCTOBER

Illinois received $1,043,076 worth of foodstuffs from the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation during October, Russell L. Peters, chief auditor for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, reported yesterday. Peters said this was an all-time high in the amount of foods sent into Illinois by the FSCC for distribution to relief clients.

Sanford Jacobi Services to Be Held in N. Y. Today

Funeral services will be held today in New York City for Sanford Jacobi, one of the founders of the Schenley Distillers corporation, who was for many years a resident of Chicago. He died in New York Sunday. The Schenley company offices here will be closed today. Mr. Jacobi was president of the Eastern Distillers syndicate, a Schenley subsidiary.

MARILYN MILLER ESTATE VALUED AT $47,573 NET

New York, Nov. 29. — [Special.]—Marilyn Miller of the musical comedy stage, who died two years ago last April when 37 years old, left an estate of $97,407 gross and $47,573 net, it was revealed today with the filing of a transfer tax appraisal.

Her mother, Mrs. Ado Thompson Mill of Hollywood, was made the beneficiary in trust for life of the residuary estate. The singing and dancing star's husband, Chester L. O'Brien, former chorus boy, was not mentioned in the will, which was dated April 23, 1931, but was listed in papers as the beneficiary of one-half the net estate by law. Ruth Sweeney of Glencoe, Ill., and Claire Montgomery of New York, sisters of the dancer, will get the trust when their mother dies.

Chief assets of the gross estate consisted of a trust fund valued at $59,601 at the time of the star's death, and $13,462 in cash.

GERMAN GENERAL WHO FIGURED IN HITLER COUP DIES

MUNICH, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Otto von Lossow, one of the Bavarian army generals who figured in Adolf Hitler's unsuccessful beer cellar putsch in 1923, died today. He was 70 years old. Lieut. Gen. Lossow retired from active service in February, 1924.

Former commander in chief of the Bavarian reichswehr and former federal commander of the reichswehr in Bavaria, Lieut. Gen. Lossow played a prominent rôle in the attempted coup of Nov. 9, 1923. He first was named minister of war in the Hitler coup. After the putsch had been defeated, he said the revolution at first obtained his support at the point of a revolver.

ATATURK LEAVES $5,000,000 ESTATE TO HIS COUNTRY

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The late President Kemal Ataturk of Turkey left the principal of his $5,000,000 estate to the nation under his will, which was published today. Before his death the dictator deeded most of his farms and factories to the state.

The will, drawn Sept. 5, gives the republican People's party the remaining cash and valuables of the estate. Interest is to provide life incomes for his sister and five adopted daughters, a house for Sabina Gokeen, one of the daughters, seriously ill of a nervous breakdown, and the highest possible education for two children of Ataturk's successor, Ismet Inonu.

The remaining income goes to the Society for Promulgation of the Turkish Language and History.

Miss Louise St. John.

Funeral services for Miss Louise St. John, 99 years old, will be held at 3 p. m. today at the residence, 2346 Geneva terrace. Miss St. John, who was a musician and piano teacher for 50 years, died Monday evening after a brief illness. She was born in Ithaca, N. Y., in 1839 and moved to New York in 1900. She came to Chicago in 1911 to live with her niece and only surviving near relative, Miss Louise St. John Westervelt. Miss St. John, who remembered the Lincoln presidential campaign, was a sister of the late Henry St. John, several times mayor of Ithaca. Her nephew, the late John Corley Westervelt, was a trustee of Cornell university and a noted architect. Burial will be in Ithaca.

Frank R. Eager.

Friends in Wilmette were notified of the death in Ann Arbor, Mich., last night of Frank R. Eager, 72 years old, who lived at 1312 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, until two years ago. Mr. Eager died of a heart attack in the home of his daughter, Grace, a member of the University of Michigan art faculty. He was Chicago manager of the Harshaw Chemical company for many years before retiring in 1934. A son, Frank Jr., of 6300 Cornell avenue, also survives. Funeral services will be held in Syracuse, N. Y.

Edward W. Schoof.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today from the chapel at 5515 Chicago avenue to Christ English Lutheran church, Long avenue and Le Moyne street, for Edward W. Schoof, 68 years old, who died Monday after a long illness. Mr. Schoof was in the lumber business in Chicago for more than forty years and was active in the Christ Lutheran church. His widow, Marie, a daughter and two sons survive.

Mrs. Augusta Fulier.

Funeral services for Mrs. Augusta Fuller, 95 years old, who died Monday night in her home at 5679 Madison street, will be held tomorrow at Logansport, Ind. Her 95th birthday occurred two days before her death.

Dr. George F. Inch.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Dr. George F. Inch, 66 years old, superintendent of the Ypsilanti State hospital and known for psychiatric work, died tonight of a heart ailment. He had been ill two years.

Miss Emily Canfield.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Church of the Redeemer, 56th street and Blackstone avenue, for Miss Emily Canfield, who died on Nov. 24 at Bennington, Vt. Miss Canfield for twenty-five years was a teacher of Latin and the history of art at the Faulkner school, 4746 Dorchester avenue. She was stricken on Sept. 12 while visiting in New England. Today's service will be conducted by the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Redeemer and a cousin of Miss Canfield.

The Rev. Michael J. Ripple.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Rev. Michael J. Ripple, 63 years old, co-organizer and former national director of the Holy Name society, largest Catholic organization in the country, died today in Johns Hopkins hospital after a long illness. After helping organize the national movement of the society thirty years ago the Dominican father served as its director for twelve years and edited the Holy Name Journal. Funeral services will be held Thursday. Burial will be in Washington, D. C.

Benjamin Michelson.

Benjamin Michelson, 52 years old, 1234 Madison Park, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in his furniture store at 4237 Indiana avenue. He had been a south side merchant for 30 years. He owned and operated a second store at 9012 Commercial avenue. His widow and three daughters survive. Funeral services will be held at 3600 Roosevelt road at 2 p. m. today.

C. H. Pendleton.

Carleton H. Pendleton, an attorney who lived at 629 Haven street, Evanston, died yesterday in Beardstown, Ill., after a heart attack suffered while hunting Sunday. He was 63 years old. Mrs. Georgia M. Pendleton, his widow; Mrs. Lowell Hastings, a daughter, and Bradford H. Pendleton, a son, survive. Services will be held Thursday afternoon in the Congregational church in Evanston.

Mrs. Mary Whalen Welch.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Whalen Welch, 80 years old, who died in her home at 154 East Pearson street Monday night, will be from Holy Name cathedral at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Welch was the widow of Michael C. Welch, a milk dealer of Barrington. A brother, Lawrence, and three daughters, Margaret, Clara, and Genevieve, survive.

Herman J. Kolls.

Funeral services will be held at Harvard tomorrow for Herman J. Kolls, a resident of Harvard for many years, who died there Monday. He was 72 years old.

ROSS T. M'INTIRE IS MADE SURGEON GENERAL OF NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The appointment of Capt. Ross T. McIntire, U. S. N. medical corps, who has been White House physician ever since President Roosevelt assumed office in 1933, as surgeon general of the navy, was announced today. He succeeds Rear Admiral Percival Rossiter who retires from active service tomorrow.

The appointment by President Roosevelt was forecast in dispatches published last night from Warm Springs, Ga., where the President is on a vacation.

Dr. McIntire now holds the actual rank of commander and the appointment means that he will be a rear admiral, jumping him over the heads of 118 senior officers in the medical corps. This group includes Capt. Edgar Woods, who has been mentioned for the post.

Uhlmann Will Leaves $100,000 to His Widow

Fred Uhlmann, a leader in the grain trade for fifty years, left an estate of $100,000, his will, admitted to probate yesterday, revealed. It bequeathed the entire fortune to his widow, Hattie, and a son and daughter, Richard F. Uhlmann of Highland Park and Mrs. Alice Benjamin of Glencoe. Mr. Uhlmann died Oct. 10. He lived at the Ambassador East hotel.

Tribute.

The imminent arrival of Heifetz, to play in concert at the Civic Opera house next Sunday, brings to mind the story of George Bernard Shaw, who went to his dressing room after a London recital and said to Heifetz:

"You know, nothing may be perfect in this world; the gods become jealous and destroy it. So would you mind playing one wrong note every night before going to bed?"

Rest Is Where You Find It.

Workmen tearing out the old seats from the State-Lake theater are piling them up on the State street sidewalk. Two elderly women shoppers plumped themselves down in a pair, put their bundles on two more, and sat there, a settin' and a restin', watching the crowds go by.

In the Morning Mail.

Understand many publicity loving Chicagoans deliberately act queer in the loop or on the boulevard in the hope of attracting your scouts and volunteer stooges.
Lewis B. Coe.

Cuff Notes.

The other day we reported the glamorous lady whose favorite beverage is half ginger ale and half cream. . . . Ethel Barrymore drinks lemon juice and fizzy water. She was drinking it the other night after her Whitcoaks opening. . . .

Opera tenor John Pane-Gasser is planning the menu for the Italian dinner he prepares himself each year when John Boles comes to town. . . . Who is the young woman who walks into a Randolph street bowling and billiard academy, engages a table, and plays an excellent game of pocket billiards or "snooker" all by herself, ignoring the gaping males who marvel at her trick shots? . . . Edith Bolling Wilson's My Memoir is completed and will be out in March. Which ought to interest the Woodrow Wilson discussers. . . . Hostess to a dinner party before the Architects' ball speaking, after hearing four friends at luncheon saying they are going to the Architects' ball Friday night in The Great Waltz costumes: "I hope no more than one or two of my dinner guests come in hoops. The apartment's too small."

Speaking of spaghetti and opera singers, a visitor from New York, Jane Gardner, eating luncheon at Frascati's Saturday, asked to hear the cook who sings opera. Turned out he wasn't there, and his assistant was officiating. The cook was attending opera. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Cormack are in town after several years in London, visiting her parents, the S. T. Bledsoes. Mr. Cormack has just finished the script of a new play to be called The Beachcomber, in which Charles Laughton will star.

Bridge Players.

An elderly Iowan in Chicago to spend the winter with her daughter, Nan D. McCulloch, interrupted a discussion of bridge to say, "I'd like to know how those Culbertsons make a living. They haven't done one thing but play bridge ever since I have been coming to Chicago—nine years." She thought her remark was funny, too, after she heard what a good living they make at bridge.

Architects Hunt a Stolen Bull for Their Ball

BY JUDITH CASS.

DID YOU "lift" Ferdinand from the cocktail party the Architects ball committee gave recently at the Drake hotel? If so, the committee begs that you send it back, via Uncle Sam's hands, postage collect if you like. The prankster who borrowed the little plaster statue of Ferdinand, the bull, has embarrassed the committee no end, for Walt Disney had loaned it so that the architects could have a large model made. Mr. Disney is furious, so George T. Senseney states in a multigraphed letter sent to each of the 150 guests at the party, and demands that a large fine be paid for "Ferdy's" loss.

They must find Ferdinand, the architects insist. Their amateur sleuthing, however, is in no way interfering with last minute preparations for the ball, which is to be given Friday night at the Drake.

All the public rooms on the first floor of the hotel except the Lantern room and the International club are to be used that night. Actual work to convert them into fourteen movie sets cannot be started until tomorrow noon, but all the scenery is ready. When it is in place the familiar Gold Coast, Fountain, French, and Tower rooms, the Avenue of Palms, and the ballroom will be transformed. Going to the Drake that night will be like visiting one of the major studios in Hollywood when fourteen movies are being made. No studio ever works on that many productions at one time, but judging by the reports that emanate from that supercolossal, stupendous, glamorous, gigantic, breath takingly magnificent headquarters of the movie industry, it would not be impossible.

Show to Be Given in Gold Coast Room.

The Gold Coast room, which on Friday night will be a set for "Artists and Models," will be the setting for the show that will be given by leading theatrical and night club talent in the city. There are to be four dance orchestras, a straight one, a Negro swing band, a tango one, and one that plays Viennese waltzes.

The problem of costuming is perplexing some who plan to attend the ball but it is a simple one, after all, for the costumes need not be elaborate. In fact, few of them will be so, for aside from those who have been given definite rôles in the fourteen movies, the majority of guests will wear just the simplest of disguises.

Then, too, costumes will be sold at the door at reasonable prices, an item of interest to those who may find themselves in full dress or street dress following another party, with no opportunity to change. This fact is especially comforting to some of the young people attending a dinner dance the Laurance and Watson Armours are giving at the Racquet club that night for Debutantes Sally Perry and Margaret Hutchins.

Arriving in formal dress, the young men may purchase jabots, stocks or collars to transform "tails" into 18th century "Great Waltz" costumes. There will be flattering little capes, hoods and other accessories for the ladies.

Number to Watch Gay Party from Boxes.

John Root, general chairman of the ball committee, reports that the Fowler McCormicks, the Joseph T. Ryersons, the James Ward Thornes, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings are some of those who will watch the gayety from boxes.

Among those who recently have planned dinners to precede the ball are Miss Carlotta Lagorio, the Theodore Tiekens, the Corwith Hamills, the junior Byron Harveys, the Winston Eltings, the Nelson Barneses, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, and the William L. Grahams. The Harveys have taken an unoccupied apartment across from their own in the building at 70 Cedar street and clever Mrs. Harvey is turning it into a café for the occasion.

Mr. Root's daughter, Miss Denise Root, and Miss Suzanne Budge will return to Chicago on Feb. 1 from Paris, where they have been visiting Mme. Jousselin and Mrs. Peter Dudley, who is Miss Root's grandmother.

The young women are taking a six months' course in dress design. They will spend Christmas on the Riviera with Miss Root's mother, Mrs. Dudley Root, who has a villa there. Miss

Beautiful New Waltz Gown

Long shimmering sequined panels in contrast color dramatize this beautiful new waltz gown of white net. Bands of the net are shirred and appliqued to the strapless bodice top. Around the waist is a narrow belt of kidskin. Straps and matching belt sash can be of either pastel or high colored grosgrain ribbon

Sport Outfits Keep Slim Lines of Style Season

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Just before the last mad gift buying scramble gets into high speed and while the weather is performing smoothly with some winter sports temperatures, the newly unpacked sports clothes are well worth an inspection.

The collections feature outfits that are the last word in comfortable insulation without being the overwhelming and fluffy covers every one detests. This winter you can skate, toboggan, and ski in suits that keep you slim as a pencil.

Materials are featherweight, but guaranteed to keep out wind and weather. Jackets fit like a second skin, trousers taper in around the ankles, and zippers are as thick as buttons used to be. You zip yourself into everything, some of the mittens boasting zippers. Windproof mittens are made with the warm side on the palm, the windproof half on top. These fit way up over the sleeves of the jacket or coat.

Chiffon thin cashmere sweaters are worn under either wool or lether coats. Two faced sweaters and waistcoat effects, though sleeveless, provide other tops that are going out fast. Colors and contrast colors are exceptionally effective, with the three tone combines the pets of all the new collections. The threesomes include such beauties as eel gray trousers, gold jacket, and a maroon sweater under the jacket. Black and white combines are better than ever with black trousers and snow white wool jacket offering a third color in sweater, cap, mittens, scarf, and plus socks.

Mittens and scarfs reach peak glory. All the most daring colors ever imagined are obtainable, either plain or embroidered.

Fashion emphasis is placed on the featherweight outfits in streamlined designs. All the new sports clothes are ready whether you want them for yourself or for a Christmas box.

Fashion photograph . . . yards and yards of drifting white ethereal net make a devastating waltz gown for any of the coming holiday parties. Down the side is a panel of iridescent beads attached to a narrow glistening belt. Soft shirred bands of the net form the fitted strapless bodice, but straps can be used in narrow grosgrain ribbon in pastels or high colors to match any of the colors in the sequin side panels.

International Theater to Present 'Fiston' Friday

The International Theater of Chicago, under the direction of Georges Cauuet, will present André Birabeau's comedy, "Fiston," at the Goodman Studio theater Friday evening. The play will be given under the patronage of René Weiller, consul general of France.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Standouts.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 29.—The scene in "Submarine Patrol" when the American sailors, after destroying the German submarine, stand at attention on the sea washed deck while the ship bell tolls a requiem for the U-boat crew . . . or perhaps the scene in the same picture when the "splinter fleet" gets emergency sailing orders and the ships stand out to sea. . . . Wordlessly, sailors crowd aft to get their last view of the bridges and tenements of New York . . . Director John Ford, who is no slouch, expressed in that scene all the poignancy of that moment.

The scene in "Alexander's Ragtime Band" when the theater audience suddenly realizes that the soldiers marching from the stage through the center aile are heading for the transports and war. . . . The agony of the scene could have been expressed in many ways. . . . Director Henry King conveyed it all in a closeup of Cecil Weston's face. . . . The indescribable terror in her eyes was a composite of all the faces of all the mothers in the world.

The delightful scene in "The Young in Heart," when Roland Young stands with son, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., at an excavation where men are laboring. . . . Constitutionally opposed to any form of work, Young and Fairbanks speculate seriously on the motives of the men who are working with pick, shovel, and wheelbarrow far below them. . . . Had they played it tongue-in-cheek, the scene would have been ruined. . . . Director Richard Wallace had them play it seriously and it was magnificent farce.

The scene in "The Buccaneer" during the British siege of New Orleans. . . . De Mille held his cameras on the Scotch troops, decimated by every blast of La Fitte's guns. . . . The Scots closed ranks continuously and continued forward, carrying their battle standards proudly, the bagpipes squealing defiance. . . . Courage ever is thrilling and this scene captured all that was gallant in the conduct of brave men.

The sleepwalking scene in "Three Loves Has Nancy," when Franchot Tone becomes aware that Robert Montgomery is following him, turns abruptly and returns to his bedroom.

In "Algiers," when Gene Lockhart, having betrayed the boy to the police, knows that the card game into which he has been forced is the prelude to his death. . . . That scene of mounting fear cascading into panic may win him the Academy award for the best supporting performance of the year.

"Test Pilot," when Clark Gable goes to the funeral chapel and forces Gloria Holden, widow of Gable's rival, to accept the prize money. . . . Director Vic Fleming had so many grand scenes in this one that it is difficult to recall 'em all. . . . Tracy, sticking the wad of gum on the fuselage. . . . or Gable's scene with Landlady Marjorie Mains.

In "Robin Hood," the color was so superb that you could choose any scene at random and come pretty close to scoring. . . . Standout from the point of color, however, seemed to this reporter to be the scene in Sherwood forest, when the king's men-at-arms drove their horses through the stream at a gallop. . . . The steel foam of splashing water, the detail of horses and riders and the shadow laced glade was breath taking.

Mickey Rooney's "man to man" talk with Lewis Stone in "Love Finds Andy Hardy," when he tells his father he likes girls, and asks him if he's normal. . . . Along the same lines, Jackie Moran's scene with Herbert Marshall in "Mad About Music." . . . Or Deanna Durbin's scene at the boarding school, when Marshall gets up to address the school, and Deanna, fearing that he is about to puncture her story, closes her eyes and crosses her fingers.

In "The Citadel" the unusual love scene which King Vidor worked out for Robert Donat's proposal to Rosalind Russell. . . . He was standing at the fence abashedly; she was in a second story window of her boarding house when he yelled his proposal up to her, and she accepted.

In "Nothing Sacred," when the Madison Square Garden wrestlers, in response to the plea for ten seconds of silent prayer for Carole Lombard, "freeze" in motion, and then resume wrestling from their frozen positions immediately the timekeeper has banged the bell for the tenth time.

The wrestling scene, too, in "Hold That Co-Ed" [one of the best college comedies ever made in this town, incidentally] when Marjorie Weaver and the wrestlers close a deal to play college football. . . . One wrestler throws the other through the ropes and he lands at her feet, where she submits the deal. . . . The wrestler returns to the ring, informs his opponent of the proposition while they're in a clinch. . . . "Okay," says wrestler No. 2. . . . "I'll throw you out to her again and you can close the deal." . . . He does.

The Stage

Because of a previous booking by the Woman's Symphony orchestra the Auditorium theater was not available to the company of "I'd Rather Be Right" last night. George M. Cohan celebrated his enforced holiday by attending "Susan and God" at the Harris theater, and later visiting Gertrude Lawrence in her dressing room.

Last year when Mr. Cohan and Miss Lawrence were playing across the street from each other in New York neither could see the other's performance.

Miss Lawrence and Mr. Cohan share the autumn's box office honors. During the first six weeks of "Susan and God" every house was sold out. Last week 27,636 people poured $43,176 into the till of the Auditorium theater to see Mr. Cohan. The two Thanksgiving day performances of "I'd Rather Be Right" took in $9,901. And there is no letup of the long lines at the Auditorium ticket windows.

K. of P. Charity Ball.

The Knights of Pythias annual charity ball will be held tonight at the Aragon ballroom, Lawrence avenue, near Winthrop. The event is a statewide affair. The proceeds will augment the organization's charity appropriation.

Women Take Full Command of Orchestra

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With a woman conductor and a woman soloist, and with a woman composer represented on the program, the members of the Woman's symphony orchestra paid deserved honor to their own sex last evening in the second concert of the orchestra's Auditorium theater series.

To open the evening Gladys Welge swept her string players into the Third Brandenburg concerto of Bach. The performance was clean and fluent. Dynamic effects were expertly managed—especially the long crescendo near the beginning of the second movement. The concerto boasted a healtry rhythmic drive from first to last.

Miss Welge and her players did a good job later in the evening with a violently contrasting piece of music—the Borodin Second symphony. The difficult woodwind effects came off nicely. The vigorous opening was not only vigorous but tonally beautiful.

Amy Neill, concert master of the orchestra, served as soloist of the evening. On every score except that of tone her performance of the Tschaikowsky violin concerto rated as admirable. It had intense poetry and an extraordinary eloquence. The second movement was tonally lovely as well, but the first got quite out of hand in this respect.

Because Miss Neill is the wife of Avern B. Scolnik, and because Mr. Scolnik is president of the Bohemians of Chicago [a musical club], this is the perfect place for an announcement of the benefit recital which Alexander Kipnis, top ranking Russian basso, will give in Orchestra hall next Monday night. Proceeds go to the Needy Musicians' fund of the Bohemians.

The woman composer referred to is Radie Britain. "Light," from her pen, received its first performance. A skillfully put together little piece, with the Britain beauty of orchestral texture and the Britain flow of idea, "Light" aims to represent tonally the work of Thomas Alva Edison.

Dr. Angell New President of English Speaking Union

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Dr. James R. Angell, former president of Yale university, has been elected national president of the English Speaking Union of the United States. Dr. Angell will succeed John W. Davis, who had been president since 1921. Mr. Davis asked that a successor be named.

Clarita Martin Sure Artist in Spanish Dance

BY CECIL SMITH.

Dressed in as beautiful and eye filling an array of costumes as the season has brought forth, Clarita Martin, Chicago dancer, presented an excellent recital of Spanish dances in the Civic theater last evening. An enthusiastic and demonstrative audience filled the house comfortably.

For a number of years Miss Martin has devoted herself unremittingly to the perfection of the Spanish dance idiom she has chosen to make her own. Last night she established herself as a genuinely accomplished dancer, sure in her command of her body and successful in projecting her moods and movements forcefully out into the audience.

Much of the witchery of Spanish dancing lies in the subtle use and coördination of castanet and heel rhythms. In many of her dances Miss Martin achieved a delightful rhythmic interplay, discovering attractive nuances with her castanets and clicking her heels only for accent and emphasis—never as a thoughtless mannerism. Unfortunately part of her gift for rhythmic expression, both simple and complicated, was lost because the floor of the stage was not sufficiently resonant.

Miss Martin's compositions go far beyond mere folk dance patterns in their scope and form. She achieves a good continuity and fluency of movement, so that each single dance is cumulative in effect. Her audience becomes more conscious of the total mood of each dance than of passing details of technique, although her footwork is dainty and precise and her use of her whole body supple and communicative.

Two rhythmic studies of spectacular brilliance were particularly well received. On the more lyric side an Andaluza dance to music of De Falla revealed a touching note of pathos not ordinarily found in the Spanish dance forms.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

As a rule, curlers terrify us. We definitly do not belong to the deft fingered army of women who can do a good job of keeping their hair looking neat with a flip of the comb and the click of a curler. Ordinarily we'll muff it every time.

It isn't often we find a curler we think even we could master, but there are some around now that have great appeal for us; they seem to be designed especially for thwarting our bungling efforts.

There are two sizes of these curlers. One great advantage of them is that they lock by means of a wire frame which slips over the curler proper and holds it fast after the hair has been wound around it. When you're ready to remove the curler you simply flip up the lock, press the handle ends together and draw out the gadget. If you dampened your hair beforehand you'll end up with quite a respectable curl, as fat as you want to make it.

For little curls you use the small size; for medium or extra large curls, the longer one. The smaller of the two, really quite tiny, is particularly useful for the short hair at the back of the neck. Both sizes are made of lightweight metal.

The makers of these curlers also have a setting pin that grips the hair smoothly. If you set your hair yourself you'll find that these pins save motion. They operate on the bobby pin principle, but have a slick little spring that makes them much easier to handle. These, too, are light as a feather and they won't corrode or rust.

We know the world is full of curlers. But we think these are remarkable. And the pins strike us as a great protector of finger waves and finger nails.

Helena Rubinstein presents

that may be worn three ways!

Happy, and utterly smart solution to your coiffure problem . . . Gilbert of Helena Rubinstein has designed a charming new hair-do that may be worn three ways. Shown au naturel, a lovely compromise becoming to every face. For grande dame evenings, sweep it severely upward and stab it with jewels. Or roll it softly down in a graceful line. Easy to keep well-groomed, particularly if you have a Balsam Oil Permanent just before your coiffure.

We are pleased to announce the addition of Mr. Walter Zegers to our hair department.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy plans to sail for Calcutta to marry her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock. Jim's family live next door to the modest English country home where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. Her aunt is opposed to the marriage and would like Nora to encourage Bob Matherson, a rich young bachelor and the new owner of Fairways, a nearby estate, who seems to have fallen in love with Nora. Then Nora receives a terse letter from Jim, breaking the engagement.

INSTALMENT III.

A DESPERATE VOW.

Nora felt she would have to write to Jim even though his letter did not seem to call for an answer.

She had to let him know how much he had hurt her and how coldly treacherous he was—all those things, in fact, that Aunt Dorothy had accused him of being under his gay exterior.

But even as Nora Stacy wrote that letter she knew she was being false to her better self. The real Nora would never have reproached a man who had jilted her, would never have written, much less underlined some of such words as these:

I can't help loving you, even if you have done this dreadful thing to me, but I hate you for it, too, and just to get even with you I'll marry the first man who asks me, so help me, God, even though I will loathe and detest him.

She had to address the envelope quickly and run with the letter to the post box lest the feverish delirium should pass and, coming to her senses, she would tear it up.

But beneath the raging pride that impelled her to give back hurt for hurt, was the humility of a woman abysmally in love. She knew that she wanted Jim to take it all back, she wanted him to convince her against her reason that he really still loved and desired to marry her. She almost wanted him at any price.

It was a dreadful way to feel. There had been a girl like that in the village, the daughter of a farmer, who had had no pride at all when her boy got tired of her, and who used to waylay him and make such outrageous scenes that finally her father was obliged to send her off somewhere.

Nora had despised the poor thing. It had seemed incredible to her that any girl with an ounce of self-respect could cling to a man who did not want her. But she understood now.

. . . . . .

Mrs. Callender had slipped over to the Murdocks' to pay a little call of curiosity and came back to find Mr. Robert Matherson's two seater in front of the cottage, and Mr. Matherson, himself, being given tea by Nora.

On the table was a big vase crammed with hothouse roses which hadn't been there when she left the cottage, and Aunt Dorothy took heart of grace, even if she did have a piece of news up her sleeve that might disturb Nora.

There were more reasons than one why Mrs. Callender approved of Robert Matherson.

He may have led a racketty life up in London, as some said, but there was a reliable look about him. He didn't laugh anything like as easily as that spoiled son of the Murdocks, but he had more chin and you felt that he would decide very carefully what he wanted before he went after it.

Nora appeared to be as gay as a lark and had put on her most becoming dress. He had invited her and Mrs. Callender to dinner at Fairways tomorrow, which was Saturday, and some people were motoring down from town for the week-end, he said. Mrs. Callender had accepted the invitation without even consulting Nora.

When he had gone Nora went back and began at once to talk hard and fast about what they would wear. Had they anything good enough? Mr. Matherson had said he would send his car for them.

Aunt Dorothy said they must do the best they could with what they had. They couldn't hope to cope with Mr. Matherson's women friends in any case.

And then she said: "I went across to Melbury house this afternoon. I felt that somebody ought to tell Mrs. Murdock you had broken your engagement."

Nora began to re-arrange the pink roses which she had thrust into water in a hurry. She must get another vase.

"Well?" she asked, with her back turned.

Mrs. Callender cleared her throat.

"It seems he is going to be married," she said.

"Who is?"

"Why—er—Jim Murdock."

Nora wheeled around with an unbelieving look on her face, and Aunt Dorothy began hastily to clear away the tea things.

"Mrs. Murdock said she was surprised that you had broken off your engagement, and she thought she might have been told a little sooner. Jim wrote as though he supposed she knew all about it. She got the letter this morning saying he was going to be married, by the same post that yours came."

"Jim didn't tell me he was getting married," Nora said, keeping her voice as careful as she could manage. "Did Mrs. Murdock say anything about—about the girl?"

Mrs. Callender shook her head. "I don't think she knows much except that her name is Zillah—which sounds a bit outlandish to me. My psychic sense tells me there's something a bit fishy about it. But we will soon find out. They are coming home in time for Christmas. It seems that the east doesn't agree with Jim."

Nora's heart seemed to stand still.

So Jim had given up his job—or perhaps it had given him up—and he was bringing a wife with that exotic name back to Green Mallows.

She wished now there was some way of retrieving the wild letter she had written him.

If only he had had enough decency to tell her he had actually engaged himself to another girl, but she had stupidly failed to realize even, there must have been another girl.

Perhaps she could bear his laughter, but she couldn't bear his pity.

The next morning Mrs. Callender rose early and got a breakfast tray ready to carry up to Nora. She was dressed for town and in ten minutes had to be at the crossroads to catch the bus.

"You stay where you are and get a good rest," she said. "Mrs. Bull is here and I've told her what to do." Mrs. Bull being their biweekly help and Saturday being one of her days.

Before that, Aunt Dorothy had had a long look at her bank balance, and then reluctantly drawn a check which represented the price of her new winter coat, in case she decided that she really must have a new one. But there wouldn't be any coat now.

When she got back from Maidstone shopping center she was burdened with parcels she proceeded to undo with an air of excitement that she hoped would extend itself to her niece.

Out of the first box came a pale yellow dress made of tiers of tulle flounces, with a deeper toned velvet sash and flower spray.

"I felt that after all you hadn't anything good enough for tonight," she said, as she spread it out on the parlor sofa.

"How kind you are, Aunt Dorothy!"

"No, I just want you to look nice. I've got some slippers for you, too, but I thought I needn't run to stockings and underthings. You've got plenty already, I know."

Nora knew what she meant—those two drawers she had been filling with bits and pieces for her trousseau. She nodded briskly.

"O, yes, I've got plenty of those. . . . But auntie, you never, never should!"

Nora's exclamation was for a little brown fur coat that—at something of a stretch—could be said to look like mink. Mrs. Callender had kept it for the last, and this was what had really set the seal on her own winter coat and her Easter costume as well.

Nora would have needed to be a mean, ungrateful wretch not to be deeply touched by such a sacrifice.

She kissed her aunt, and then she broke down and wept.

"There—there—you've been needing a nice coat, and you see how useful it will be—you can wear it for day or evening. Slip it on and let's see how you look," said Mrs. Callender.

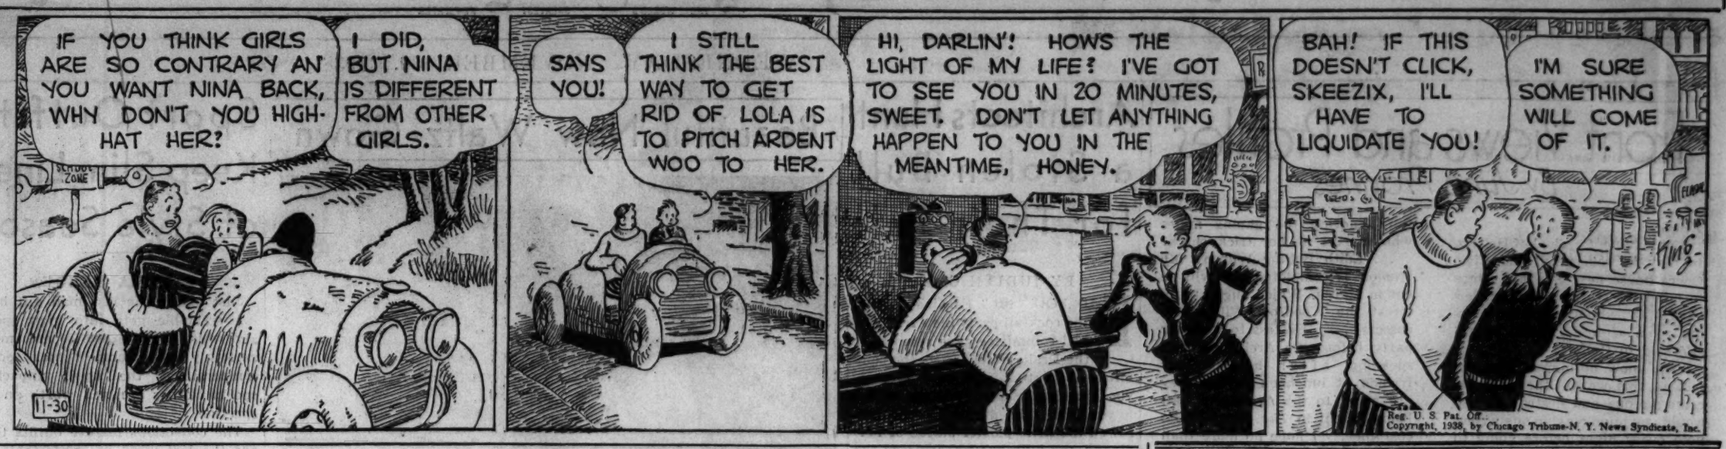
GASOLINE ALLEY—WOOS WHO?



Children Need Some Spot to Call Their Own

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I had such a nice time," she said. "It's the first time I ever visited the Sanderson's. I'd only met Mrs. Sanderson here and there, and for some reason I was surprised to find them such a happy family in their quiet way. I do believe one reason is that Harriet Sanderson doesn't keep at her husband and boy—who's 10.

"How do I know that? Well, for one thing Henry Sanderson doesn't like to go out visiting, so she lets him alone on that point. And the other is—well, one that tickled me. We were going down the hall of their small apartment to the dining room, and we passed a closed door.

"'That's Harry's room,' said the boy's mother. 'It makes the hall rather dark to have the door closed, but he's had a spell of wanting it that way. So I let him,' and her eyes twinkled as she paused purposely before his room. I looked at her, then followed the direction of her eyes. On the door was a large sign, thumbtacked in place. It stated:

PRIVATE!!!

KNOCK BEFORE ENTERING.

"And the lower space was decorated with a skull and crossbones!

"His mother laughed a little as I read the words. 'It's a necessary warning, at that,' she announced. 'What's behind that door is enough to scare any good housekeeper to death!'

"And later in the day I had evidence of the truth of her remark. Harry took me in to show me his pirate costume for the school play, and the room was a riot. There was enough junk to start a second hand store, but you could see he loved every scrap. And his mother let him enjoy it in peace, knowing, I suppose, as I do now that in a few years he'll heave most of it in the ash can the way my John did last year."

Boys and girls go through an age when they want privacy. Sometimes parents resent it, but they shouldn't. It may come at 10; it almost surely comes in the teens. If it's humanly possible, provide that privacy.

They also go through an age when they collect a lot of things that look valueless to us, but which they cherish dearly. [They undoubtedly consider as "junk" some of the things we prize.] When that time comes, don't let your housewifely instincts push you too far!

You have to do a lot of tolerant looking-on during the inbetween years—especially around 10, 11, and 12.

"Living with Our Inbetweens—the Children from Six to Twelve" is a booklet of interest to parents and teachers. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Constance Crafts to Be January Bride.

Romantic news of interest concerns Miss Constance Keene Crafts and George Jarvis Platt, whose engagement was announced by her mother, Mrs. Zina B. Crafts of Oak Park. Mr. Platt's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Platt of Manitowoc, Wis. Young Mr. Platt's brother and sister-in-law, the Edward V. Platts, live in Chicago, but he lives in Manitowoc, where he will take his bride to make their home following a January wedding.

Miss Crafts, who attended Rogers Hall in Lowell, Mass., and the Erskine school in Boston, will go to Manitowoc for this week-end. Mr. Platt prepared at Andover and was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Also of interest is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Lindeman of Winnetka are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Anne, to Robertson Balfour Mathieson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson B. Mathieson of Kenilworth.

The wedding will take place next spring, and Mr. Mathieson will take his bride to Columbus, O., where he is engaged in business, to make their home.

Miss Lindeman, who always is called Peggy, did not return to Wellesley for her junior year this fall, for she is staying at home to gather a trousseau. She and her mother are giving a luncheon and bridge party on Friday for two of the season's debutantes, Miss Jane Allen and Miss Helen Chancellor.

Announce Marriage of Marion Hedrick.

Mrs. Edwin Hedrick of Kenilworth announces the marriage of her daughter, Marion, to John Grant Fuller Jr. of New York, son of Mrs. John Grant Fuller of West Chester, Pa. The ceremony took place in New York City on Nov. 18.

The bride was graduated from the Roycemore school and the University of Missouri's School of Journalism. Mr. Fuller was graduated from Lafayette college at Easton, Pa. Mr. Fuller and his bride will make their home at 421 East Fiftieth street in New York.

James C. Dunns to Visit Chicago.

The A. Watson Armours and the Laurance H. Armours are expecting their sister and brother-in-law, the James Clement Dunns, and Subdebutante Cynthia Dunn, to come from Washington, D. C., for the Christmas holidays. The Dunn family will arrive on Christmas eve and will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Watson Armour.

The Curtis B. Munsons and his daughter, Miss Frances Munson, will be with Mrs. Munson's mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, over the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Munson arrived yesterday from her ranch in Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Munson will come later.

Dr. and Mrs. Philip Henry Kreuscher and Miss Jane Miller Kreuscher have cards out for a tea-dance on Tuesday, Dec. 20, from 4 to 7 o'clock at the Arts club. The party will be Miss Kreuscher's formal debut.

The junior Edward A. Cudahys have canceled a dinner-dance they were to have given at the Casino on Dec. 21 for their daughter, Miss Sheila Cudahy. Miss Cudahy, who is a student at Bryn Mawr, recently underwent an appendectomy and is convalescing rather slowly.

Two Tea Parties of Interest Today.

Two tea parties this afternoon are of interest. One at the Casino will benefit the charity fund of the Alliance Française. The party at the Arts club will open a retrospective exhibition of paintings, water colors, drawings, and etchings by Andre Dunnoyer de Segonzac. A number of women are planning their schedule to include both.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine is chairman of the alliance benefit, which is the first one this organization, ordinarily devoted to social or educational functions, has planned. Cards and a fashion show are included in the program.

Mme. Rene Weiller, wife of the consul general for France, is the honorary chairman of the tea, of which Mrs. Ralph James is the vice chairman. Miss Kay Goodman has asked a number of pretty young members to be models, among them her sister, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., and Mrs. Edward B. Smith.

The alliance benefit starts at 2:30 o'clock, and the Arts club tea is being held, as usual, from 4 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. John Paul Welling, the new reception chairman for the club, will be hostess for the first time. She has asked about two dozen members to assist her. The artist will not be at the tea, but one of his most ardent admirers, Frank Crowninshield, will be there.

Stag Party Tonight for Ranch Guests.

John J. Mitchell and Kenneth Curtis are giving a stag party at the latter's Winnetka home tonight for the men who attended Mr. Mitchell's annual Rancheros party at his California ranch last May. Following dinner there will be movies taken of the group at the ranch.

Although the ice, if any, is rather thin, the curling season on the north shore will be opened with a dinner tonight at the Exmoor Country club. Some of the 150 men who have taken up this old sport since it was introduced at the Indian Hill club three years ago will get together to arrange a schedule of games between the clubs which now sponsor the sport. The clubs are the Exmoor, Indian Hill, Skokie, and Milwaukee Golf.

At the national field hocky tournament held in Philadelphia, Mrs. Warner Washburn of Highland Park was named to play on the United States Field Hocky team that will play in England next year. Three other Chicagoans, Miss Lucy Jane Hedberg, Miss Jane Adair, and Miss Helen Bina, were named on the reserve team.

Christmas Toys for Children

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR CHILDREN.

Two patterns, our offerings today, are delightful suggestions for Christmas gifts to the youngsters in your family and for the darlings of your friends. Since time immemorial children have loved dolls, and the youngest generation today is no exception. The two toy patterns offer a stuffed elephant, a rag doll, a clown, and a pajama-clad doll. All are simple to make and the patterns tell you just how. Little expenditure is necessary, and the items work up in a short time.

For good measure we've included a pattern for a child's delightful frock styled along princess lines. The collar and closing are scalloped, and the sleeves are puffed. The style is so simple that it will make up well in either silk, cotton or woolen. There are panties to match.

Style No. 2766 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the dress. The panties require ½ yard of 39 inch material.

The patterns for the dolls are Nos. E-822 and E-843.

Mount Carmel Parish to Hold Its Party Tonight

The annual Mount Carmel parish party will be held at the Drake hotel tonight. Mrs. Daniel F. McMahon is general chairman. This year's party marks the parish celebration of the golden jubilee of the parochial school. There will be cards and dancing. The Rev. Joseph A. Casey is pastor of Mount Carmel.

Professional Man Often Is Married Late

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am now engaged to a medical student who probably will not be in a position to marry for three or four years, at best. I hate to think of waiting all those years and especially when there is no need for it. My people are well fixed and indulgent with me, and they would be only too willing to help us out. We could live with them, as I am an only child, but I know that this is not the right way to start out. My dad has said that he would provide us with an allowance to cover our expenses should I be able to persuade Dick to marry now. But he does not like the idea of marrying me on such terms. What is your opinion?

"Judy."

It's difficult to answer your question, Judy, with your young man imbued with his own principles anent being helped along by your parents. We like his stand, of course, but whether one can't compromise with economic conditions as they are and maintain one's self-respect is a question. Our impression is that many professional men have been helped through their difficult early years without suffering loss of face. But that is the question the young man himself will have to answer.

It is tragic that late marriage so often is the lot of the professionally trained men. There is not any other solution, as we see it, except through the help of the girl's income, an assured job of hers, or from parents.

With young medics, we are told, hospitals do not favor the young married man as an interne because the interne is required to live in the hospital.

In the pursuit of a law career, without financial aid from some outside source, it is enormously difficult for a pair to marry young.

There's always that unexpected expense to wrestle with when graduate students marry before an assured income is theirs. It might be a sudden illness, the advent of a baby, with resulting financial worries, and so on.

The problem naturally boils down to the character of the pair involved. To how much they can stand without straining at the marriage leash.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Here is a peculiar hand that actually occurred in a snappy fiftieth of a cent game. I call the play in question the super-super safety play. Maybe you will laugh at the play I made; maybe you will say that I am a typical Casper Milquetoast; but nevertheless I like the play and I'm very proud of it.

"I was South, declarer at a three no trump contract. West opened the deuce of diamonds, dummy played low, and East put up the ten. I could see all sorts of end plays looming up against the opponents. I could guess one of three finesses for my ninth trick. O, I could do a lot of things, but every one of them might turn out badly. I therefore made what I think the super-super safety play and allowed East to hold the first diamond trick! If West's lead of the deuce was honest, then East had no more diamonds to return. A lead of any of the other three suits would provide my ninth trick. And not only that, I would boast of an end play on the first trick.

Very neat! I think the City of Memphis should appoint you correspondent to the city safety council.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEDNESDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Q. No. 40: You should bid one heart. You are a shade under the 2½ honor trick requirements, but your excellent distribution [strength in both major suits] makes an opening bid imperative. Your partner may have far less than the requirements for an opening bid, yet there may be an excellent play for game in hearts or spades. [Twelve points demerit for passing; 2½ points demerit for any other bid.]

Q. No. 41: You should pass. It is true that a mere three diamond bid, if fulfilled, would give you game, but your partner knows the score as well as you do and he may choose to double two spades for penalties. It is quite possible that East, even though vulnerable, stretched his bid to stop a game. If he did, and your partner can double, your holding and distribution should aid toward a very large penalty. You must not deprive North of the opportunity to double if his hand warants. [Twenty points demerit for any bid.]

Best Perfume for You Is One Blending with Body Fragrance

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"There are two schools of thought on the use of scents," says Kay Austin in her clever guide to intelligent shopping, entitled "What Do You Want for $1.98?" [Carrick & Evans].

"One school says that one's perfume should be changed with one's mood or one's costume. This seems a bit on the whimsical side, since there must inevitably be a hangover from the scent one has used before elation gave way to depression, or a riding habit was exchanged for evening clothes. And no matter how well blended each scent may be individually, one is likely to run into confusion in mixing the two. It makes more sense to stick to one perfume which pleases you and blends properly with your own body fragrance.

"When you select perfume, don't just sniff it from the bottle. Try it on your own skin and see whether it blends with your personal scent. Perfumes which may smell divine in the bottle may be destroyed by the chemistry of your own body. And don't try out more than two at a time, because the variety of scents will confuse your sense of smell and prevent proper discrimination.

"If you aren't sure, don't buy a large bottle of scent. You can almost always get perfumes either in bulk or in small sizes in order to give them adequate tryout before you invest a large sum in quantity. This gives you an opportunity not only to experiment with the chemical reaction of the perfume on your own skin, it also gives you a good idea of the lasting quality of the scent.

"If you're testing for durability on fabrics, test a light perfume on silk and a heavy one on wool. Cotton gives no accurate impression of the permanence of perfume.

"Quite aside from the fact that you avoid conflict in odors by sticking to a single perfume, there is much to be said for the individuality which you achieve by the use of only one scent. It becomes a mark of identification, and if I were writing a book on how to get a man I could expand the sentimental theme of memories and tender associations worked by the sniff of a scent which, by constant use, you have made characteristically yours."

Canned Foods Help Fashion Quick Dinner

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Today's short cut supper menu is more quickly prepared and more fun to serve than most, because its main course comes out of a couple of cans, and its dessert is a ceremonious one to be baked at the table—in a waffle iron.

I'm giving two recipes for chocolate waffles. They're a little different. One calls for chocolate and one calls for cocoa, and one is less rich than the other. Furthermore, the mixing methods aren't the same.

SHORT CUT MENU

Creamed Tongue and Mushrooms on Toast
Buttered Canned Asparagus
Tossed Salad of Shredded Celery Cabbage, Thinly Sliced Tomato, Green Pepper and French Dressing
Bakery Hard Rolls or More Buttered Toast
Chocolate Waffles, Whipped Cream
Coffee

Creamed Tongue and Mushrooms on Toast.

[Serves Four.]

1 6½-ounce can tongue
1 small can mushrooms
1 tablespoon butter
1¼ cups medium white sauce
Chopped parsley or pimiento [optional]
Buttered toast

Cut the canned tongue in cubes or thin slices. Cook mushrooms in butter about five minutes and add to tongue. In the white sauce use the liquid drained from the mushrooms. Make the sauce by blending 2½ tablespoons flour, 2½ tablespoons butter, and ½ teaspoon salt, and adding 1¼ cups milk and mushroom liquid. Cook until smooth and thickened. Add tongue and mushrooms. Serve piping hot on triangles of buttered toast and sprinkle with parsley or garnish with chopped pimiento.

Chocolate Waffles—I.

[About Five.]

1¼ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons melted butter

Mix dry ingredients and sift together. Beat egg yolk and add to milk and vanilla. Add liquid ingredients all at once to dry ingredients and beat vigorously until smooth. Add melted butter and fold in the egg white, which has been beaten until stiff. Bake in hot waffle iron and serve waffles with whipped cream.

Chocolate Waffles—II

[Five or Six.]

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 beaten eggs
½ cup milk
1½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Cream butter and sugar together and beat in the eggs. Add milk. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together, add to the first mixture, and beat until smooth. Add melted chocolate, vanilla and cinnamon, blend well, and bake in a heated waffle iron.

Of course neither batter will be harmed by sitting in a bowl or pitcher on the table while the first course is eaten.

Thursday's Menu

BREAKFAST
Grapefruit Juice
Cooked Whole Wheat Cereal

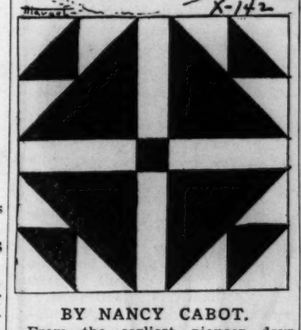
TODAY'S QUILT



BY NANCY CABOT.

From the earliest pioneer days women have made quilt bird patterns by the use of triangles. In this particular design they labeled the largest triangles for Reynard the Fox. The motif may require a vivid imagination, but the design is authentic. "Fox and Geese" also is known as "Hen and Chickens," depending upon the locality.

For a pieced pattern of Fox and Geese, No. X-142, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

ZUPPKE IS CHEERED BY FRIENDS' SUPPORT

Tiny Thompson to Be in Detroit Net.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Stewart, manager, and Joe Farrell, fretful soothsayer of the Chicago Blackhawks, yesterday were in a terrible dither about tomorrow night's hocky match between the Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings.

The Red Wings have been revamped, principally by the purchase of Tiny Thompson, the National league's leading goalie. Of course, the Hawks would have had to contend with Tiny just as many times had he remained with his old associates, the Boston Bruins. His transfer for $15,000 and other considerations, however, has brought the Hawks face to face with Paul Thompson's brother sooner than they had anticipated.

A Sad Thanksgiving.

Furthermore, there's the matter of ast Thanksgiving night, before the ed Wings were revamped. With no evamps that could be noticed, the Wings rose up and bowled over the orld champs, 4 to 2, a grievous development that surprised Manager ewart et al as much as it shocked e lads.

The Hawks, of course, desire to stay first place, a lofty spot they now are with New York's Americans and e Boston Bruins. The Americans ill not play tomorrow night, but the ruins have what has come to be ted as a soft touch, an engagement ith the Montreal Canadiens.

Maybe Stewart and Farrell aren't s scared about the Hawk-Wing match s they seem, but the former yesterday put his seventeen hocky players hrough a relentless practice, while arrell, in his rôle of press agent, kated up and down the rink in Manger Bill's wake, taking notes with very glide.

This Gracie Is Fast.

Most of the Farrell notes turned out to be about Bob Gracie, rapid center whom the Hawks have obtained from the Canadiens since last the Hawks played at home. In the last two seasons Gracie led the scorers on the now defunct Montreal Maroons. Last season he was twelfth in the Canadian section with twelve goals and nineteen assists. In 1936-'37 he was fifth in the Canadian division with eleven goals and twenty-five assists.

Gracie is said to be the fastest speed skater on a straightaway among professional hocky players. When he was only 16 he won the men's and junior speed championships of Ontario in one afternoon and in a race that evening defeated the Canadian woman speed champ. He competed in speed events until the hocky folks banned racing several years ago.

Blinco Lacks Speed.

In the workouts yesterday Gracie replaced Russ Blinco at center on the line composed of Baldy Northcott and Earl Robinson. Gracie played on the team with Northcott and Robinson during their terms on the Maroons but never worked on a line with them.

Blinco has been blamed for the rather disappointing showing of the ex-Maroon string in some of their games for the Hawks this fall, this despite the fact that Blinco has a better statistical record, with five points, than that possessed by either Northcott or Robinson.

Criticism of the former Montreal line from within the Hawk family has been that Blinco has not been skating fast enough for his wings, producing many stifling offsides.

After he had taken off his skates Press Agent Farrell dictated a bulletin stating that Manager Stewart had taken enough time from the ex Maroon problem to observe that Paul Besler, rugged rookie right winger, looked very promising.

LAZZERI TO STAY ANOTHER YEAR, WRIGLEY THINKS

P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, said yesterday it was his impression that Tony Lazzeri, utility infielder, would remain with the Cubs another year.

Lazzeri, obtained by the Cubs after being given his release by the New York Yankees, saw little active service through most of the 1938 season. Recently he intimated he might shop around if given his release by the Cubs and Wrigley pointed out the Cubs would not stand in his way if he had a chance to better himself.

Wrigley said, however, that Lazzeri so far has not applied for his release and that Cub contracts have not yet been mailed. The Cub owner hinted that should Lazzeri decide to remain with the team he would be used as contact man between the Cubs and their minor league affiliates.

Wife of Jim Gleeson, Cub Rookie Outfielder, Dies

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. James Gleeson, wife of the star outfielder recently sold by the Newark Bears to the Chicago Cubs, died tonight. Mrs. Gleeson had given Cæsarian birth to a son seventeen days ago.

Hamity Most Valuable on Maroon Team

Lewis Hamity, captain and left half back, was named by his teammates last night as the University of Chicago's candidate in THE TRIBUNE'S annual competition to select the most valuable player of the Big Ten football season. Iron man of the Maroons this year, Hamity played more minutes than any other Chicago player, which is unusual for a left half back, and was a standout performer on a losing team.

Lew Hamity.

The rugged 190 pound captain shone as a passer and as a defensive player. He developed this season into one of the best tossers in the middle west, and his long, accurate passes to Bob Wasem and other receivers accounted for most of Chicago's scoring during the season.

Hamity threw an average of 15 passes per game, and completed 36 per cent of those he attempted. He averaged 12½ yards on those he completed, and 4½ yards for every time he threw the ball.

Backing up a Maroon line which was notably vulnerable, Hamity made about one-third of all the tackles in the Maroon defense. He carried the ball occasionally, punted occasionally, and blocked well.

Hamity played virtually all of every game until the last two, when an injury limited his time. He has been a regular back since his sophomore year, playing right half his first two seasons.

The Maroon nominee came to the Midway from Hyde Park High school, where he won all city rating. He is a shot putter on the Maroon track team. An unusually good student, Hamity is one of the college marshals at the Midway, an honor conferred by the president on seniors who are outstanding in the classroom and in student life. He is a member of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Hamity's election was practically unanimous and took place during the annual dinner given for the Maroon team by the 55th Street Business Men's association in the South Side Swedish club.

Hamity is the second back field star to be named among six Big Ten players already chosen most valuable by their teams. The other is Larry Buhler, Minnesota full back. The remaining four named as candidates for THE TRIBUNE award are: James Hodges, Illinois, guard; Joe Mihal, Purdue, tackle; Robert Haak, Indiana, tackle, and Ralph Heikkinen, Michigan, guard.

Halas Turns Down Maroon Offer and Gives Some Advice

Owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears declined, with thanks, yesterday the Daily Maroon's proffered use of the University of Chicago's Stagg field and Coach Clark Shaughnessy.

Halas, in an open letter to the student publication, pointed out that he was unable to take up the offer, even though the field came "complete with sentimental attachments," for two important reasons, to wit:

[1] "Wrigley field meets our requirements ideally" and [2] "coaching the Chicago Bears is my job and I like it. It keeps me out in the open and gives me something to think about on long winter nights."

Halas then slipped a bit of serious advice into his communication. He pointed out that in Shaughnessy Chicago had one of the best coaches in the country, that his lot at Chicago in recent seasons has not been a happy one, and "the manly thing would be to give a courageous, high grade man and brilliant coach a hand, rather than an elbow in the rib guised as a joke or gag."

But despite his high regard for the Maroon coach, Halas pointed out that the Bears did not use his plays, as the Maroon had stated in an editorial yesterday, but rather was using a style of attack patterned after that of Bob Zuppke.

INDIANA HORSE FIRST IN $500 GELDING STAKE

Jeb Stuart Qualifies for $2,500 Event.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Jeb Stuart, owned by the Fairmount stable of Indianapolis, won the $500 gelding stake in the Live Stock exposition horse show last night in the International amphitheater, thereby qualifying impressively for the $2,500 world's championship five gaited event which will climax the competition Saturday evening.

Kalarama King, exhibited by Irving S. Florsheim's Red Top farm of Libertyville, had established himself as best of the stallions by winning his division's $500 stake on Monday evening. The queen of the mares will be chosen tonight and will join Jeb Stuart and Kalarama King Saturday in quest of the highest of five gaited honors.

Captain Bill Is Second.

Captain Bill, which had beaten some good horses in one of Sunday's events, indicated that he was still in the running by finishing second to Jeb Stuart in last night's stake. He is the property of the Pine Tree farms of McHenry, Ill.

Red Top farm's consistent Snuffy Smith embarrassed some of the candidates for Saturday's $1,000 three gaited championship stake by scoring his third consecutive victory last night.

Although he isn't entered in the championship event, he forced the Delaine farm's My Nu Joy and the Frances M. Dodge stables' Mistress of Rhythm to be content with second and third places, respectively.

Snuff Doing All Right.

Snuffy Smith had previously won an event for Chicago district horses on Saturday night and an open event on Sunday night. After he had finished beating horses under 15 hands 2 inches last night, his stablemate, Golden Avalanche, took charge of things in the competition for horses over that figure. Summaries:

16 Gain C.Y.O. Finals; 32 Will Fight Tonight

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Sixteen of the finalists in the eighth annual Christmas fund boxing tournament of the Catholic Youth organization were decided last night in the C. Y. O. center, fourteen of them in hand-to-hand warfare, and two by defaults. The remaining pair of octets will be settled this evening on the same premises, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

Tonight's open division competition will include battles in the 118, 135 and 160 pound and heavyweight classes, while the novice punchers will wrangle at 112, 126, 147 and 175 pounds.

Last night's bouts saw the failure of a number of holders of 1937 honors to make the 1938 grade. One of these was Edward Foys of St. Stephens, last year's 175 pound runnerup, whose march was thwarted by Ed Chapman, tall colored entrant from Corpus Christi.

McKinnis Is Beaten.

Still another was Emil McKinnis, a teammate of Chapman's, who attempted to graduate from the rôle of a 1937 heavyweight runnerup via the 175 pound open class. Little Johnny Gendell, representing Presentation parish, threw a few more gloves than Emil, particularly in the last round, and thereby earned the decision.

Al Noto, runnerup for the open flyweight crown last year, was given a pass to the finals, to be held on Dec. 9 at the International Amphitheater, without lifting a hand. His opponent of the evening, Joe Bianco of St. Andrew's, failed to appear. Willie Moon, a colored entrant from Corpus Christi, who has been one of Noto's toughest opponents in gymnasium workouts, won the right to meet Al for keeps by defeating Bill McCarthy of St. Sylvester in the other 112 pound open division bout.

Joe O'Connell Advances.

Joe O'Connell of St. Nicholas of Tolentine, who won the 126 pound novice crown in 1936 and then moved along to the open lightweight title last year, advanced again, this time to the finals of the 147 pound open league. Joe won a three round decision from Isaiah Wells of Holy Family. In the final he will meet Stanley Murczek of St. Barbara, one of the most diligent contenders in C. Y. O. boxing, even though he never has won a title. Murczek moved along with a decision victory at the expense of John Lewandowski of St. Mary of Perpetual Help.

Jesse Garcia of St. Clara, winner in the 118 pound novice division in 1937, attempted to move through the open class at 126 pounds, but ran into the sharper punching of Wayne Fidler of Precious Blood, who was given the decision. Summaries:

OPEN DIVISION.

126 POUND CLASS—Wayne Fidler, Precious Blood, defeated Jesse Garcia, St. Clara [3]. Mike Sanchez, St. Rose of Lima, defeated Edward Miller, Corpus Christi [3].

NOVICE DIVISION.

118 POUND CLASS—Richard Blaha, St. Leonard's, Berwyn, defeated Jim Anderson, St. Andrew's, Calumet City [3]; John Rudek, St. Michael's, Joliet, stopped Eugene Cahill, St. Mary's of the Lake [2].

Wendell Wilson, director of athletics, spokesman for the board of directors of the athletic association, which had planned Zuppke's retirement.

Wisconsin to Fete Football Team Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 29.—Plans were completed here today to seat 1,250 persons at the annual University of Wisconsin football banquet in the fieldhouse tomorrow night. Lou Little, football coach at Columbia university, will be the principal speaker.

A highlight of the banquet will be a short ceremony commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of football at Wisconsin. Names of the members of the Badger eleven in 1888 will be read before a huge cake is presented to one of the survivors of that team, Louis Sumner of Madison.

Pick Valuable Player.

Milwaukee alone is sending more than 200 to the banquet. Governor Elect Julius P. Heil will be one of the speakers. Representative Harry Sauthoff of Madison will preside as toastmaster.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher and members of this year's varsity squad will meet just before the banquet to select the most valuable player, who thus will become eligible for the Tribune trophy, and to elect the honorary captain.

N. U. BANQUET SATURDAY.

More than 1,500 alumni will attend the Northwestern university football banquet in the Stevens hotel Saturday night.

Talks will be given by Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner; Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, and members of the Northwestern coaching staf. Northwestern's most valuable player for 1938 will be selected, the football captain for next year will be named, and varsity and freshman awards will be made.

Stratton Suffers Relapse; Hypos Are Necessary

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The condition of Monty Stratton, Chicago White Sox pitching star whose right leg was amputated at the knee yesterday, took a turn for the worse tonight. Stratton became delirious and hypodermic injections were necessary to relieve him.

KANKAKEE STARS, BOTH TACKLES, LEAD ARMY, NAVY

Middies Elect Bergner to Face Stella, Cadets in '39

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29.—(AP)—News from the Naval academy today made Charley Harrison of Kankakee Ill., High school just about the happiest high school coach in the United States. Harrison, veteran football coach, has two of his former pupils as captains of the 1939 Army and Navy varsity football teams, an honor never before achieved by a prep school coach.

Allen Bergner.

Allen A. Bergner, co-captain of the 1934 Kankakee team, was announced today as captain of the 1939 Naval academy team, two days after the West Point cadets named his high school pal and teammate, Harry Stella, as the captain of the 1939 Army squad. Stella and Bergner were tackles on the Kankakee team and both have achieved fame at the rival service institutions in a story book saga of athletic achievement.

Thorn in Navy's Side.

Stella for two years has been the fly in the Navy soup in the Philadelphia classic. Both his historic achievements came on the Army 16 yard line. In both cases the victim was Emmett [Punkin] Wood, Navy line plunger.

In the 1937 game Stella made the tackle that stopped Wood one foot short of a first down on the 16 yard line to give the cadets the ball on downs and halt Navy's only sustained march of the day. This year, with the score tied, 7 to 7, and the Navy hammering at the gates after a forty yard march, Stella hit Wood, who fumbled and flopped on the ball to end a serious Navy threat. Eleven plays later Army, sparked by the recovery, scored the winning touchdown.

When Bergner entered the Naval academy the 215 pound Kankakee boy broke all strength test records. In his plebe year he won major awards in wrestling, football, and lacrosse.

Wins Three Letters.

Last year as a sophomore he demonstrated his versatility by switching to boxing from wrestling and winning a major "N" there as well as in lacrosse and football.

This year the two Kankakee lads have been outstanding in the service team lines. Coach Bill Wood said Stella was the outstanding player on the Army team last Saturday at Philadelphia and Coach Hank Hardwick of the Navy rated Bergner as his strongest defensive player.

TIGER JACK FOX BEATS AL GAINER IN 15 ROUND BOUT

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tiger Jack Fox, long armed fighter from Spokane, Wash., gained a shot at the light heavyweight championship tonight by outpointing Al Gainer of New Haven, Conn., in fifteen dull rounds in the Bronx Coliseum. Fox weighed 174½ pounds, and Gainer 171.

By the victory Fox survives the first elimination in the series of two bouts ordered by the state athletic commission to name a light-heavy champion. He now qualifies to meet Mello Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., for the title, the winner succeeding John Henry Lewis, whose crown was vacated by the commission some time ago after he failed to accept a challenge from Fox.

A near capacity crowd of 10,040 who contributed a gross gate of $6,386.80 greeted the verdict with mingled boos and cheers, but the Spokane slugger held a clear margin at the end.

ILLINOIS COACH TELLS WHY HE AGREED TO QUIT

Plans No Change in His Methods.

BY STEWART OWEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 29.—Bob Zuppke sat in the paint bedaubed studio of his apartment tonight and in typical Zuppke fashion celebrated what probably was the biggest night of his life.

Outwardly it seemed to matter little to Zup that for a brief time today his resignation as the football coach of the University of Illinois had been in the hands of the school's athletic board of control, or that it had been firmly rejected by the board of trustees and he had been just as firmly restored to the coaching position he has held for twenty-six years. He was the same puckish little man that he has always been, wisecracking in his clipped German accent, taking all the uproar that surrounded him with an amazing degree of calm.

He Gets Some Calls.

But if Zuppke was calm, he was just about the only one in Champaign who was. There was an almost incessant ringing of his doorbell and his telephone as bankers, lawyers, business men, and former Illinois football players sought to assure him of their support. Messenger boys delivering telegrams from Illini everywhere maintained a procession to his door.

Every one seemed surprised that Zuppke had signed a resignation and had neglected to tell any of his friends about it until it had been submitted to the university's board of trustees in Chicago today. But signing just seemed to Zup to be the right thing to do.

"The athletic board of control asked me to sign it, and I thought I would be a good sport and do it," Zuppke explained. "I didn't want any of those young fellows on the coaching staf to lose their jobs over me. I was being taken care of and, if it was a good thing for Illinois, I wanted to do it."

Zuppke was inclined to place the blame for the movement to oust him upon Prof. Fred Russell, one of the two faculty members of the athletic board. But from J. P. Kratz of Monticello, the only member of the board who could be found tonight, it was learned that it was not entirely Prof. Russell's idea. The other members of the board are Prof. Frank A. Richart, W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign, and Athletic Director Wilson.

Says It Was Unanimous.

"We all talked it over," Mr. Kratz said. "The question of replacing Zuppke came up in the board and a general discussion followed. I would not say Prof. Russell introduced it. I guess you would say it was a unanimous. It was understood that there was to be an agreement signed by Zuppke that he would resign active coaching and the agreement was to go up to Chicago and be presented to the board of trustees. President Willard [A. C. Willard, president of the university] knew about it. I think he was the one to present it. I understood today that Zuppe signed it but I didn't know what action was taken by the trustees.

"I can't say just what prompted our action; there were a lot of things involved. I won't discuss them now.

"No, we hadn't decided on who was to replace Zuppke. We didn't have any coach in mind. We just sort of surveyed the whole field to get a perspective of the situation and see who was available. But there wasn't anything specific about it. We just talked about coaches."

Started With a Wisecrack.

According to Zuppke, the board's movement to retire him started before he went east to attend the Army-Navy game.

"It all grew out of a wisecrack of mine," he said. "I guess I wisecrack too much. They came to me and suggested that I resign. I said it would take $10,000 a year to make me resign, and they took me seriously.

"I understand that Prof. Russell said he wouldn't stand for paying me that much. They cut it down to $7,500, I understand, and then they made it $6,000. All this was going on while I was in the east. I didn't know anything about it. They were waiting for me at the train, but I came down by way of Chicago and they missed me. But I was hardly in the house when Wilson [Wendell Wilson, athletic director] came in with a contract for $6,000 and told me to sign it.

"I said, 'Well, if that's what you want, I'll do it. I don't want to stand in the way of what's best for Illinois.' It was all right with me if the resignation was accepted or wasn't accepted. One way I'd be happy and the other way I'd be slap happy."

There was no bitterness in Zuppke's

MUSTO TO FIGHT MACDONALD IN CASINO TONIGHT

Heavyweights to Clash at Ten Rounds.

Tony Musto, Blue Island heavyweight, will attempt to remove Sandy MacDonald, Texas giant, from his path tonight in the Park Casino, Madison street and Hamlin avenue.

Musto's recent victory over Max Marek made him a leading contender for the state championship, but Tony hopes to move up among Tommy Farr, Tony Galento, and other outstanding boxers in the United States. If Musto wins tonight's ten round bout with MacDonald he will expect to continue his march toward big bouts.

Les Morris, former Milwaukee middleweight, who has been campaigning on the Pacific coast, will meet Sherman Edwards in a six round bout. There will be three four round bouts and one wrestling match on the card.

An amateur intercity match between Gary, Ind., and Chicago will be held in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, Friday night. The Hoosier team will include Henry Terry, middleweight; Floyd Klemczek, welterweight; Bob Leiva, lightweight, and Steve Nestor, featherweight.

Ruffy Silverstein, west side heavyweight wrestler, will meet Ignacio Martinez in a 60 minute match in the Rainbo Fronton, Lawrence avenue and Clark street, tonight. . . . Bruno Black, Iowa heavyweight, will meet Friedrich Von Schacht in the 30 minute semi-windup. . . . There will be three other 30 minute matches on the card. . . . Hank Pershing and Billy Marquart continued drills for their bout in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . The semi-windup will bring together two undefeated boxers, Dick Kist and Tony Motisi. . . .

HUTCHINS WRITES ARTICLE RAPPING COLLEGE SPORTS

Suggests Charging Dime to See Football Games.

A spirited denunciation of athleticism, with special emphasis on football and a charge that some coaches are not above administering stimulants to their stars, are highlights of a signed article by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago appearing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

President Hutchins suggests that the cost of admission to college and university football games be reduced to 10 cents and that the expenses incurred be covered by endowment, as are other activities.

Lauds Coach Stagg.

In protesting that football has become so highly commercialized that boys who can carry a football, kick, pass, and block are allowed to go through the motions of acquiring a university education, he cites the forty year career of Amos A. Stagg on the Midway in support of his contention that a winning football team is not indispensable to the success of a school.

"When John D. Rockefeller founded the University of Chicago forty-five years ago," the Post article says in part, "he told William Rainey Harper to run it as he pleased. It pleased Mr. Harper to appoint men of character and distinction.

"One of the men he appointed was Amos Alonzo Stagg. To the amazement of the country, Mr. Harper made Mr. Stagg a professor on life appointment. It was the first time such a thing had happened. Secure in his position, whether he produced winning teams or not, Mr. Stagg for forty years kept Chicago an amateur university. . . .

Athletics Is Secondary.

"But all through those years Chicago students learned that athletics is only one aspect, and a secondary one, of college education. The result is that today Chicago's alumni are loyal to their university and generous with their moral and financial support."

In commenting further upon unethical tactics on the part of coaches, Dr. Hutchins continues:

"Since the fate of the coach sometimes depends on victory, players have sometimes been filled with the college spirit through caffein tablets and strychnine. At least one case reached the public in which a coach removed a plaster cast from a star's ankle and sent him in 'to win'."

Nominates Mike Jacobs.

The article includes the following comment:

"I am rapidly approaching the retirement age, and I can think of no worthier successor, from the standpoint of athleticism, than Mike Jacobs, the sage of the prize ring. Mr. Jacobs has demonstrated his genius at selecting young men and developing them in such a way as to gather both gold and glory for the profession of which he is the principal ornament."

33 Prep Stars Sent All-State Banquet Bids

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Invitations were issued today to thirty-three high school football players and their coaches to attend the all-state banquet, at which Red Grange is the principal speaker, in the Champaign County Country club Dec. 10.

The 33 players are those selected on the all-state teams by the Champaign News-Gazette, which will be host to the group next week-end.

Griffin Heads Stars.

Heading the first all-state eleven is Don Griffin, who led Fenger High school to the Chicago city championship. The 16 year old quarter back is the youngest member of the team and is the only one of the first eleven who is not a senior. With him in the back field are Louis Butkovich, 198 pound Canton player; George Bujan, 185 pounds, Christopher, and Sam Grider, 180 pounds, Georgetown.

One of the outstanding linemen is Fred Michaels, Oak Park guard. Griffin's teammate, Jim Westwater, is at tackle on the second team, along with John Hernon of Mount Carmel High school, Jack Barrett of Fenwick and Jim McFadbean of New Trier.

The players invited are:

FIRST TEAM.

Ends—Christopher Pavich, Spalding [Peoria]; Charles Gervig, Belleville. Tackles—Ralph Zilly, East Aurora; Robert Wilson, Champaign. Guards—Fred Michaels, Oak Park; Manly Graflund, Moline. Center—William Bess, Paris. Backs—Don Griffin, Fenger [Chicago]; Sam Grider, Georgetown; George Bujan, Christopher; Louis Butkovich, Canton.

SECOND TEAM.

Ends—James Olsen, Glenbard [Glen Ellyn]; Ray Dixon, Murphysboro. Tackles—Eilard Dernoncourt, Springfield; James Westwater, Fenger [Chicago]. Guards—John Hernon, Mount Carmel [Chicago]; Wayne Mosier, Urbana. Centers—Jack Evans, Harrisburg. Backs—Andrew Yourkovich, Mount Olive; John Underwood, Newman; James McFadgean, New Trier [Winnetka]; John Barrett, Fenwick [Oak Park].

THIRD TEAM.

Coaches who will go are:

Carnegie Tech Meets T. C. U. in Sugar Bowl

New Orleans, La., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The New Orleans Sugar bowl reached outside the Southeastern conference for the first time today for its football classic when Carnegie Tech and Texas Christian university were named the opponents for the fifth annual battle Jan. 2.

For the first time the Sugar bowl officials found themselves able to choose from a wealth of football material with national ranking and some professed to see in their ignoring of the Southeastern conference a retaliatory slap.

T. C. U. Returns to Bowl.

Nothing has come of repeated efforts of the New Orleans Midwinter Sports association to perfect a tieup with the Southeastern conference which would present that league's champion annually as the defending team. Last year Alabama's Southeastern champion held aloof from a Sugar Bowl bid until one came from the California Rose bowl.

T. C. U. will be playing a return engagement in the Sugar bowl, having defeated Louisiana State in the bowl's second game, 3 to 2, in 1936. It will be Carnegie Tech's first appearance in the game. Each team's share should run toward $50,000.

Statements from Fort Worth and Pittsburgh had T. C. U. and Carnegie Tech anxious to play each other. T. C. U. said the determining factor which swayed the Fort Worth team from the Cotton bowl in Dallas was that the Sugar bowl had signed Carnegie Tech. Carnegie Tech authorities were quoted as having said that of five bowls' invitations received and considered they accepted the one that would pit their team against T. C. U.

Bowl Seats 50,000.

T. C. U., with six difficult Southwest conference victories to its credit, has swept undefeated and untied through a ten game schedule. Carnegie Tech lost one game, a 7 to 0 defeat by Notre Dame, but mighty Pittsburgh was among its victims.

The New Orleans Sugar bowl is the home stadium of Tulane university. It is a concrete horseshoe which, with the addition of temporary seats, has a capacity of 50,000.

The football game climaxes a solid week of sports centering about the new year, other events including yacht races, a track meet, boxing, tennis, and basketball.

OKLAHOMA VS. TENNESSEE.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The annual Orange Bowl football game, scheduled here Jan. 2, will be a battle between the elevens from Tennessee and Oklahoma. Selection of the teams was announced today.

Chairman Jack Baldwi of the Orange Bowl committee said Maj. Robert R. Neyland, Tennessee coach, informed him tonight the Southeastern conference had approved the Vols' acceptance.

Both elevens are undefeated and untied, but have one more game on their schedules.

DUKE STILL CELEBRATING.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Duke university students still were celebrating today following the announcement last night that Southern California had invited their undefeated eleven to play in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 2.

VILLANOVA IS SOUGHT.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Coach Clipper Smith of undefeated Villanova advised the Cotton Bowl Athletic association committee tonight he would bring his team to Texas to meet unbeaten Texas Tech if permission of his athletic council could be obtained. The council will meet tomorrow.

Harmons, Collegians Win Opening Windy City Games

A crowd of 1,500 attended the opening of the Windy City Basketball league last night in the Park Casino. The Frank Harmons defeated Miller's Nationals, 57 to 32, and the Chicago Collegians whipped the Alderman Uptons, 32 to 21. In a girls' preliminary game the Bill Rands won from the Taylor Trunks, 22 to 14.

Crowley, Team Sail Tonight to Teach Football

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Jimmy Crowley, Fordham's football coach, will sail for Europe tomorrow night. Crowley made plans for the trip after he learned Texas Christian would play Carnegie Tech in the Sugar bowl in New Orleans Jan. 2.

Had T. C. U. played Carnegie in the Cotton bowl at Dallas Fordham would have been a standout to receive the Sugar bowl bid as the northern representative.

With the Sugar bowl decided, Crowley and his assistant, Judge Carberry, now are free to lead a squad of American football players to France, where they will attempt to instruct Frenchmen in the annual autumnal madness of American colleges.

The only Fordham representatives in New Orleans will be that old Maroon, Joe McCluskey, who will attempt to win the steeplechase at the track meet, and Wesley Wallace, Fordham junior quarter miler, who will run in the same event.

The personnel of the squad which sails tomorrow follows:

CENTERS—George Bell, Purdue; Jim Bowman, Holy Cross.

GUARDS—Nat Pierce, Fordham; Tom Buckley, Boston college; John Bateman, Columbia; Bill Fiddler, Penn.

TACKLES—Leo Shields, Holy Cross; Ed. Franco, Fordham; John Janusus, Boston college.

ENDS—Hubert Schulze, Columbia; Frank Souchak, Pitt; Howard Dunney, N. Y. U.; John Killian, Boston college.

Schuneman-Flynn Team Wins Cue League Match

The Schuneman-Flynn team defeated Loyola Recreation, 35 to 21, last night in the first round of play in the Chicago Amateur Billiards association's three cushion league. The match was played in the Schuneman-Flynn Logan square rooms. Other results:

Lake View, 35; Sheridan, 31.
Bensinger Randolph, 35; Bryn Mawr L. 31.
Milo Wiesner, 35; Roseland, 17.
Queen Recreation, 35; Jerome, 34.
Bensinger Wabash, 35; Midwest A. C., 31.

TANKS VS. GUNNERS.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Louisville Tanks and the St. Louis Gunners will meet here Sunday in the playoff game for the American Professional Football league championship.

Duke Bid Criticized

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Selection of Duke university as the opponent of Southern California in the annual Rose Bowl game drew caustic criticism from Los Angeles sports writers today.

The general theme was that while Duke boasts a powerful record, particularly on defense, the general public clamor for Texas Christian was overlooked by the U. S. C. officials.

PITT NOT IMPRESSED.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Dr. John B. [Jock] Sutherland, University of Pittsburgh football coach, said tonight the Panthers played "at least five teams this season stronger than Duke university." Sutherland made the remark in an address before the Cleveland Touchdown club.

DAY STOPS WOODS IN TENTH ROUND OF ARMORY BOUT

Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, stopped Harvey Woods of Sioux City, Ia., in the last round of a ten round boxing exhibition in 124th Field Artillery armory last night. Referee Davey Miller stopped the bout because Woods was helpless.

The crowd, estimated at 11,000, was disappointed by Day's failure to knock out Woods.

Receipts approximated $35,000.

Woods carried 137 pounds and Davey 134. Other results:

Allan Christianson Is Elected Knox Captain

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Allan Christianson of Park Ridge was elected captain of next season's Knox football team at a meeting of letter men today. He has been a regular quarter back for two years and is the ace kicker, passer, and runner on the squad.

CHAMPIONS WIN FIRST MATCH IN HANDBALL MEET

The defending doubles champions, Dick Martin and Paddy Cannon of the Midwest A. C., came through the first round of the Central A. A. U. handball meet last night in the Midwest A. C., defeating Barrett and Lyons of the Chicago Fire Department, 21-13, 21-20. Other first round results:

Carson and Appel, Hyde Park Y, defeated Dorgan and Melchione, I. A. C., 20-21, 21-16, 21-20.

Aaron and Friedman, Berkman H. C., defeated McElligott and Kenutis, Madison A. C., 21-8, 19-21, 21-18.

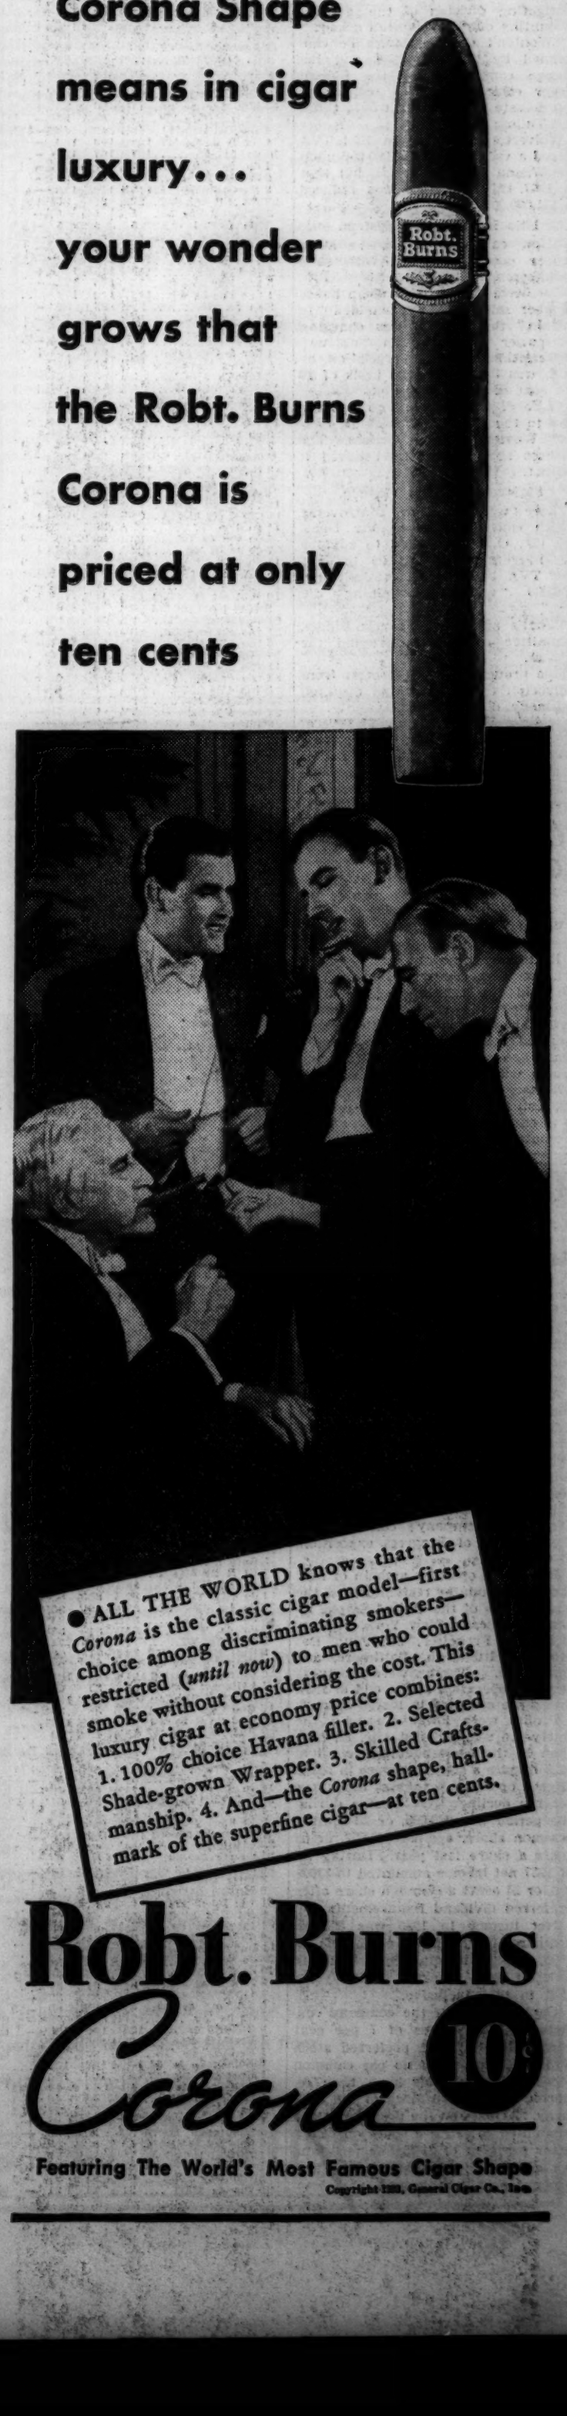
Wright Junior college's basketball team will make its first start under the direction of Coach Frank Novak Saturday against Illinois State Normal on the latter's court. Wright finished in second place in the Northern Illinois Junior college conference last season.

Jackie Hayes Will Have Operation on Knee Today

Jackie Hayes, White Sox second baseman, will undergo an operation today on his knee which bothered him most of last season, Dr. Phil Kreuscher, club physician, said last night. Hayes has been at his Clanton, Ala., home. The knee failed to respond to the rest cure there.

When you think of all Corona Shape means in cigar luxury... your wonder grows that the Robt. Burns Corona is priced at only ten cents



● ALL THE WORLD knows that the Corona is the classic cigar model—first choice among discriminating smokers—restricted (until now) to men who could smoke without considering the cost. This luxury cigar at economy price combines: 1. 100% choice Havana filler. 2. Selected Shade-grown Wrapper. 3. Skilled Craftsmanship. 4. And—the Corona shape, hallmark of the superfine cigar—at ten cents.

TVA ACCOUNTING PRACTICES HIT AS MISLEADING

Charges 'Cover Up' on Financial Deals.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] today charged that accounting practices of the Tennessee Valley authority did not give a true picture of the authority's financial transactions.

Rep. C. A. Wolverton.

He made the assertion at a hearing of the TVA investigating committee, of which he is a member. While criticizing an annual TVA report to congress, Wolverton said:

"Any member of congress who looked at this report would be misinformed. I don't like to say deceived."

Cites Bad Practice.

Turning to the committee's witness, S. B. Tulloss, chief of the investigating division of the general accounting office, Wolverton asked:

"Wouldn't such practices be condemned by the Securities and Exchange commission or the federal power commission with respect to any private utility?" "I would think so," Tulloss replied.

Wolverton said that in 1934 TVA placed a valuation of $51,000,000 upon the Wilson dam properties, but that in 1937 this valuation was reduced to $31,000,000.

Hits Bookkeeping System.

"How can we ever arrive at a proper power yardstick with such bookkeeping?" he asked.

Furthermore, the Republican house member said, TVA was enabled "to sustain" the rates it was charging for power by taking an "untrue" depreciation figure. Depreciation, he said, was figured on the basis of 10 per cent of revenue receipts.

"Life of property has no relationship to the amount of revenue, does it?" Wovlerton asked Tulloss. The witness replied that he believed it did not.

Statement Causes Flareup.

There was a sharp controversy which caused Chairman Vic Donahey [D., O.] to threaten to adjourn the hearing when Tulloss testified that TVA bought real estate worth $850,000 "without examining the title."

"That's not true," Francis Biddle, committee counsel, interrupted the witness.

Biddle, Wolverton, and several other committee members started talking at the same time. "Proceed in an orderly manner with this witness or I'll adjourn this session," Donahey said, restoring quiet.

JOHNSON WAX OFFICIAL BACKS PROFIT SHARING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Profit sharing was indorsed today by J. R. Ramsey, general manager of the Johnson Wax company, Racine, Wis. He told the senate profit sharing committee his company "literally never" had any labor trouble. He attributed this to the adoption many years ago of a system of sharing profits with workers.

Ramsey said he believed incentive taxation might be used advantageously to encourage profit sharing and to promote continuity of employment.

Investors' Guide

B-G Foods, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information regarding B-G Foods. I understand they have stores operating throughout the country—A. R. N.

Answer: This company was incorporated in Delaware in 1925 as the B-G Sandwich Shops, Inc. The name was changed to B-G Foods, Inc., in February, 1935, after a subsidiary Illinois corporation of that name had been dissolved late in 1934. The Illinois company was formed in 1933 to handle the company's concession at the Century of Progress exposition, in Chicago.

B-G Foods operates a chain of food shops and counter restaurants in the larger cities of the United States, including Chicago, New York, Milwaukee, San Francisco, St. Paul, Des Moines, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and Cincinnati. There were forty-six shops in operation at the end of 1937. Shops are operated in leased space.

Profits were lower during the thirty-two weeks ended Aug. 12, 1938, than in the corresponding period of 1937 despite a slight increase in sales. Higher operating expenses accounted for the decline. Net income during the period was $43,695, or 28 cents a common share, against $68,557, or 59 cents a share last year. During all of 1937 net income amounted to $102,050, or 84 cents a common share after preferred dividend requirements.

Net income in 1936 was $95,455, compared with profit of $25,045 in 1935. Losses ranging from $7,077 to $202,939 were reported in the years 1931 to 1934, inclusive.

Capitalization of the company consists of 5,028 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred stock and 79,489 shares of no par common stock. No dividends have been reported on common stock of the company. Arrears on the preferred stock amounted to $12.25 a share on Oct. 1 after payment of $1.75 quarterly and an additional payment of the same amount on accumulations.

WEDNESDAY. NOVEMBER 30. 1938.  23

R. R. YOUNG OUT OF CHESAPEAKE, BUT FIGHTS ON

Van Sweringen Rail Control at Stake.

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Robert R. Young today abruptly resigned as director of the Chesapeake corporation, but in a statement implied that his fight with Wall street banking interests over control of Chesapeake and Ohio railway and affiliated roads would go on.

Young's chief remaining ally, Allen P. Kirby, in a battle royal which has been in and out of the courts and in corporation meetings in several states for a year or more, resigned simultaneously.

The resignations, effective immediately, and accepted immediately by the other directors meeting in the Wall street banking offices of J. and W. Seligman & Co., followed a bitter overnight wrangle between Young and spokesmen for the Guaranty Trust company, one of the three largest banks in the United States.

Young Promises Fight.

Young's post-resignation statement tonight said in part:

"We [Kirby and Young] have not the least intention of resigning now or later from the positions we occupy in Alleghany [corporation] and in the operating railroads, but on the contrary shall continue to carry on the constructive work we have been doing in the interests of the great body of investors in these splendid properties."

Young remains chairman of Alleghany corporation, top holding company in the former $2,000,000,000 Van Sweringen rail empire, and heads a syndicate in control of that company. However, Alleghany's principal asset, a control block of Chesapeake corporation stock, is in the hands of Guaranty Trust as trustee under indentures covering three issues of Alleghany bonds, for which Chesapeake corporation control stock is chief collateral.

Dissolution Causes Flareup.

Chesapeake corporation's dissolution was voted yesterday in a Baltimore stockholders' meeting controled by Guaranty Trust, an act signalized by the latest flare-up between Young and Wall street bankers.

The bankers contend that liquidation proceeds of Chesapeake, including a distribution of more than two and a quarter million shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railway common stock, should be applied chiefly to capital account, which would tend to prolong Guaranty Trust control.

Young contends he was given to understand that a sizable part of the proceeds would be available to Alleghany corporation, on income account, the effect of which would be to help Young and his associates to raise funds to increase collateral pledged under Alleghany bonds. Guaranty Trust gained control when that collateral's market value sank below 150 per cent of the bonds' face value, but might lose control were Young able to raise the collateral sufficiently.

Directors Act to Liquidate.

The Chesapeake directors today filed a document reducing the capital stock from $74,242,040 to $179,974, or 10 cents each for the 1,799,745 common shares. They voted two dividends. One, a cash dividend of 70 cents a common share, is payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 13. The other, a liquidation dividend of 6-10 of one share of Chesapeake and Ohio railway common stock to each share of Chesapeake corporation stock, is payable Dec. 19 to stock of record Dec. 13.

[This was estimated to be less than a 50 per cent distribution of C. & O. stock holdings.]

Meanwhile another asset of Chesapeake corporation, 69,000 shares of Erie railroad common stock was sold at auction today. Max Horowitz, former senior partner of Hallgarten & Co., was the successful bidder, at 67 cents a share, a total of $46,500.

[Erie common closed in the stock exchange at $1.75 a share, off 37 cents from yesterday. A total of 5,700 shares changed hands during the day. The road is in process of reorganization.]

Hallgarten & Co. was secondary bidder at a similar auction in 1935 ordered by J. P. Morgan & Co., at which time George A. Ball won control of Alleghany. Ball subsequently sold control to the Young syndicate.

Rail Declines Cut Alleghany Asset Values

How depressed prices of railroad stocks have shrunk the asset values of Alleghany corporation's holdings was shown in the company's nine months' report made yesterday. Alleghany is the top holding company in the old Van Sweringen railroad system.

Alleghany, of which Robert R. Young is chairman, held on Sept. 30 securities which had cost $171,730,170, but which were worth $56,847,839 at market values on that date. In the first nine months of this year Alleghany had a loss on the sale of securities of $29,612,123. These sales were made under option agreement with the Chesapeake and Ohio railway and involved common stocks of the Erie and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] railroads.

Holds Chesapeake Stock.

The most valuable asset of Alleghany on Sept. 30 consisted of 1,278,600 common shares of the Chesapeake corporation, middle holding company in the system. Chesapeake corporation is now being liquidated after a court fight for its control which Young lost to the Guaranty Trust company. Alleghany's holdings of Chesapeake stock were worth $47,286,000 at the market, compared with an original cost of $70,213,002.

Missouri Pacific railroad securities, for which Alleghany paid $79,690,013, were worth $1,446,805 on Sept. 30. The Missouri Pacific is in receivership. A block of 255,600 common shares of the C. & O. railway had market value of $7,668,000, compared with a cost of $8,629,606.

Alleghany's net loss for the first nine months, excluding the loss on the sale of securities, amounted to $971,050, compared with loss of $92,764 in the first nine months of 1937. In the September quarter net loss was $529,153, compared with loss of $26,774 last year.

Rails Report Better Trend.

Yesterday's reports of railroads for October continued to show an encouraging upturn. A compilation by Dow-Jones & Co. placed the net operating income for October of all class 1 railroads, before other income and interest charges, at $68,565,755, compared with $60,860,439 in October of last year.

This gain was made in spite of a dip in gross revenues to $343,440,983, compared with $372,925,813 in October of last year. For the first ten months net operating income of all class 1 roads was $273,709,020, against $530,689,942 in the first ten months of 1937.

Lake Shipments of Ore Are Smallest Since 1932

Cleveland, O., Nov. 29.—(AP)—With all ore shipments from the northern Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin ranges completed for the year, figures compiled by the Lake Superior Iron Ore association showed the 1938 Great Lakes movement was the smallest since 1932. Total shipments for the 1938 season were 19,263,011 tons. The 1932 movement was 3,567,985 tons. Last year's movement, almost reaching the 1929 peak of 65 million tons, was 62,598,836 tons. November ore shipments were 1,481,305 tons.

TAX COLLECTORS CALL ON CHICAGOANS ONLY 4 TIMES NEXT MONTH

Four engagements with the tax collector are listed on the taxpayers' calendar for December. Two are for all of Illinois, one is a federal tax, and the other is for Chicago only.

The fourth quarterly instalment on the federal income tax is payable Dec. 15 to the collector of internal revenue. The return and payment by retailers of the Illinois occupational [sales] tax is also due at that time. This is payable to the state director of finance. Due dates for taxpayers are:

Dec. 15.

Fourth quarterly instalment on federal income tax.

Dec. 31.

Chicago vehicle license for 1939.

UPHOLD $130,461 TAX IN CHICAGO CAB FIRM SALE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The board of tax appeals declined today to set aside a government tax claim of $130,461 against four former Chicago taxicab operators.

The board upheld the government's contention that Robert E. McLaughlin owed $57,472, Max Raifman $23,831, Harry I. Gordon $39,673, and Joseph R. Roach $9,485 additional income taxes for 1931.

The action grew out of the sale in 1931 of the Checker Taxicab company for $837,500 in cash and notes.

The four taxicab company officials protested only $475,000 in cash was received and that the balance in notes had no value. The board sustained the contention of the internal revenue commissioner that the notes were worth their face value.

The board also sustained the commissioner in his refusal to allow a deduction of $143,166 which the four taxi officials said was paid to secure the resignation of thirty-two individuals in the company to effect the sale.

BRITISH POUND EXTENDS RISE; FRANC HIGHER

British currency extended its recovery yesterday in foreign exchange dealings at New York. The French franc and other European currencies also gained in terms of American money.

The pound closed 9-16 cent higher at $4.65 13-16. The franc advanced 0.00625 cent to 2.61 cents.

The London gold price fell 6½ pence [about 13 cents] an ounce, closing at 149 shillings 3 pence. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported engagements of gold in England of $7,150,000 for shipment to this country.

Two Chicago Grocer Firms Plan Merger

A merger of Sprague, Warner & Co., 76 year old Chicago wholesale grocery company, with Samuel Kunin & Sons, operating in the same line of business, is expected to take place soon, it was reported yesterday.

Sprague-Warner officials refused to discuss the report, but it was understood that negotiations have been carried on for several weeks. Kunin officials admitted that the "situation is being explored."

Details of Deal Rumored.

The resulting company would probably continue to carry the Sprague-Warner name, but officers of the Kunin concern would have key positions in the new firm, it is understood.

Although Sprague-Warner is about five times the size of Kunin & Sons, on the basis of sales volume, the Kunin company has been growing rapidly in recent years and is reported to have a good earnings record. Stocks of both companies are closely held, and operating results are not made public.

Official Lineup Indicated.

Col. A. A. Sprague is one of Sprague-Warner's largest stockholders and is a director. He is a former chairman of the board and president, and would be a director and possibly chairman of the new company.

Samuel Kunin is president of the Kunin firm, but active management is carried on by his sons, Harry, secretary and treasurer, and Maxwell, vice president, who would be officers in the new company. Other officers would be William D. Dean, Sprague-Warner president, and Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., Sprague-Warner vice president.

NEW FINANCING LISTED LARGEST FOR 18 MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission reported today that new securities registered during October totaled $405,063,000, the highest for any month in more than eighteen months. This total, which was exclusive of securities registered for reserve against conversion, compared with $106,767,000 in September, and $126,866,000 in October, 1937.

Officials said the sharp upswing reflected a resumption of large scale corporate financing which started in early summer, but was interrupted by falling security prices in September.

The electric and gas industry accounted for the largest part of the total—$275,173,000, or 67.9 per cent. This established a new high for registrations by this group for any month since the securities act of 1933 became effective. Of this financing, 96.3 per cent, however, was for refunding purposes.

FEDERAL AGENCY NOW CHIEF CORN HOLDER AS RESULT OF LOANS

The Commodity Credit corporation of the federal government is now the principal holder of corn in the country, it was learned yesterday.

The corporation has received approximately 22 million bushels of corn up to Nov. 26 as payment on loans made on the 1937 crop, it was estimated by officials of the department of agriculture.

Stored in elevators in Chicago and other middle western terminal markets, the government-owned corn can become a potent force on the market when it starts moving into normal trade channels.

Ivan C. Harden, in charge of receiving corn for the corporation, said yesterday that none has been sold through the cash grain markets. A large portion has been resold as feed to farmers, he said. About 2 million bushels have been taken by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation for relief purposes.

More than half of the 47 million bushels of 1937 corn pledged for loans have been resealed under the new loan rate of 57 cents a bushel in the commercial area, it waes said. The average 1937 loan was 48.5 cents a bushel.

BUTTER MAKERS DEMAND U. S. SELL SURPLUS STOCKS

A demand that the federal government relieve the uncertain outlook for butter producers by liquidating its more than 100,000,000 pounds of butter was made by members of the American Butter institute meeting at the Palmer house yesterday. A resolution requesting this action was sent to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The government has financed since last April purchases of more than 125,000,000 pounds of butter by grants to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation and loans to the Dairy Products Marketing association, an organization of producers' coöperatives.

The DPMA still holds more than 100,000,000 pounds, which it bought with government money to hold up prices in the face of the largest butter production in history. The rest of the purchases have been distributed by the FSCC through relief agencies.

Program for Railroad Aid May Be Ready in Month

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—George M. Harrison, a member of President Roosevelt's railroad committee, said today a committee report probably would be ready by the end of December. It is expected to contain joint recommendations of railroad labor and management for a legislative program which the administration may support as a step toward rehabilitating the carriers.

ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR PHILIPPINES MAY FACE FIGHT

Tarif Tie After 1946 Raises Farm Issue.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—Informed members of congress today predicted strong opposition to the recommendations of the joint preparatory committee on Philippine affairs, which President Roosevelt released yesterday with his approval.

American agricultural and dairy interests especially will oppose the recommendations for special preferential tarif treatment of the Philippines after they attain full independence on July 4, 1946, according to senators from midwestern and western states.

Some Oppose Liberalization.

These senators also said there would be opposition to the recommendations of the joint American-Filipino committee for liberalization of the Philippine independence act with respect to trade relations between now and 1946. This would be accomplished by amendment of the Tydings-McDuffie act of 1934. The preferential tarif treatment of the Philippines from July 4, 1946, until Dec. 31, 1960, would be covered by treaty.

"The question of giving a preferential market to the Philippines for fourteen years after their independence is a very serious matter," said Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], former chairman and ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee. "It affects adversely our dairy interests and undoubtedly will receive close study by congress.

Burke Foresees Difficulties.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], a member of the American delegation to the inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth government in 1935, said he would not commit himself on the recommendations of the joint committee pending a thorough study of the voluminous report. He added that the proposals would meet "great difficulties."

"I don't believe the agricultural sections of the country will want to grant preferential treatment to the Philippines," Senator Burke declared.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah], another member of the American

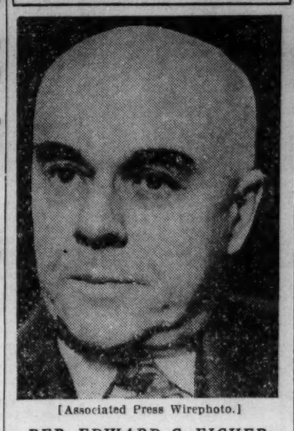
Eicher to Join SEC



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

REP. EDWARD C. EICHER.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today announced the appointment of Representative Edward C. Eicher [D., Ia.] to a vacancy on the Securities and Exchange commission. The vacancy was created by the elevation of John Hanes to the post of assistant secretary of the treasury and later to the undersecretaryship.

Eicher will retire from the house Jan. 3. He is a member of the house group on the joint congressional-departmental committee investigating monopolies and related activities. His appointment was said to have been prompted by his general knowledge of economic problems and the need for some one on the SEC from the midwest.

NEW YORK AUTO INSURANCE CUT FOR GOOD DRIVER

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Careful motorists in New York state are to be rewarded for safe driving by an annual saving of 2 to 2½ million dollars in automobile insurance premiums.

Under a new rate schedule announced by State Superintendent of Insurance Louis H. Pink, class A drivers—those never in an accident involving bodily injury—will pay the lowest rates.

Class B drivers, who have been in one accident resulting in bodily injury, will pay 10 per cent more than class A drivers for auto insurance. All others, grouped in class C, will pay an additional 5 per cent.

Pink said 90 per cent of the state's drivers had qualified as safe. The period during which accidents are observed in determining the classifications is the first twenty-one months of the two years preceding the effective date of the policy.

BOARD OF TRADE DEFENDS ACTION IN CARGILL CASE

Contends Firm Had Potential Corner.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Chicago Board of Trade defended itself today against charges made by Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis grain firm, in a hearing before a commodity exchange commission referee. Cargill demanded a "thorough house cleaning" of the exchange.

Howard Ellis, attorney for the board, said steps which the board took against Cargill in 1937 were obligatory under the commodity exchange act to prevent price manipulation. Cargill contends the board violated the act.

Ellis declared Cargill obtained a "potential corner" on September, 1937, corn futures with a view to driving the price from $1.16 to $1.40 a bushel at a time when farmers' supplies were low.

Liquidation Order Assailed.

Cargill complained to the commission that the act of the board's business committee in ordering Cargill to liquidate part of its September position aided in the manipulation of corn prices downward.

Ellis said a second charge by Cargill, growing out of an alleged failure of the board to give Cargill a one day notice of delivery in September, 1936, resulted from a misinterpretation of the commodity exchange act.

Ellis said the board understood at the time that no notice was necessary in the last three days of a trading month, but the board, nevertheless, issued notices late on Sept. 29. Cargill contended it was not given a full day.

Challenges Complaint.

The attorney declared he saw no reason for the Cargill firm to complain, because Cargill had been "hollering they wanted this corn."

Referee S. Abbott Maginnis took cognizance of a statement by Frank Fowle Jr., Cargill attorney, that Cargill wanted "a thorough housecleaning" of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Fowle, in presenting Cargill's statement of the case to the referee, said the firm believed "the precedent established in government regulation of the New York security exchanges should be followed in Chicago."

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Stock market prices closed irregularly higher today. Recoveries in key stocks were mostly fractional, although several of them advanced more than one point. A number of sensitive issues climbed as much as 3½ points.

Trading was quiet throughout the session. Volume was 817,700 shares.

With the unsettled foreign situation continuing to give the market an underlying cautious tone, observers viewed today's better showing as attributable to technical factors. They pointed to the recent market setbacks as the reason.

Steels displayed relative strength in the morning and held most of their gains in the later reaction. Gains ranged to more than one point, with Bethlehem, United States Steel, Youngstown, and Republic among the leaders.

Motors reversed their recent tendency. Chrysler gained 1⅛ points. General Motors was actively traded and firmed a fraction. In the low priced auto stocks Continental Motors was a feature. It closed at 2, its previous 1938 high, in the most active trading of the day.

Aviation stocks were inactive today after their recent activity. Fractional gains were noted for most of the leaders.

Anaconda was soft in the copper group, dipping a fraction, but others advanced fractions to 1⅜ points.

Arrangements were made today for the transfer of a New York Stock Exchange membership for $72,000, a decline of $3,000 less from the last sale.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Most categories in the bond market showed gains today in a fairly active trade.

United States Governments advanced generally from 1-32d to ⅛ of a point, despite a hint by Secretary Morgenthau that the government might borrow additional "new money" in mid-December. The rise indicated that the decline of the last six weeks had discounted the effect of such news.

In the rail division, advances were shown by Santa Fe 4s of '95; Rock Island general 4s, Chicago and North Western 4¾s, Nickel Plate 5½s, and Southern Pacific 4½s of '68. Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s dropped a point coincident with further action toward liquidation of Chesapeake corporation, which has a 31 per cent interest in the Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the foreign list, trading in German issues was fairly active but price changes were narrow.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks rallied yesterday after Monday's decline, and closing prices were irregular. The Tribune average of twenty stocks finished 0.05 higher at 10.83. Most changes were narrow.

Chicago corporation, most active stock with sales of 2,000 shares, and Armour & Co. declined fractionally. Gaining fractions were Middle West, Commonwealth Edison, and Electric Household.

Bank Stocks.

Several leading Chicago bank stocks declined yesterday in quiet trading. First National bank shares finished $4 lower at $225 bid, $229 asked. Stock of the Northern Trust company was off $3 at $520 bid, $530 asked. A drop of 50 cents was recorded for shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, which closed at $73.50 bid, $75.50 asked. Other stocks were unchanged, dealers said.

FTC ASKS CURB ON ACQUISITIONS BY CORPORATIONS

Would Bar Purchase of Competitor's Assets.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today renewed its recommendation to congress that corporations be forbidden to acquire stock or assets of competitors if lessening of competition may result.

In its twenty-fourth annual report, for the fiscal year 1937-'38, the commission recommended that these prohibitions be made effective through amendment to section seven of the Clayton anti-trust act.

"This amendment would have the advantage of creating a positive legislative standard, defining the limit at which corporate accretions in size and power though such acquisitions shall be halted to prevent monopoly," the report said.

Old Section Limited in Effect.

In previous annual reports, the commission has pointed out that section seven of the Clayton act makes it unlawful for one corporation to acquire the capital stock of a competitor "where substantial lessening of competition may result." However, this section does not prevent the acquisition of physical assets.

"This latter method of eliminating competition to the public injury has been increasingly employed by corporations engaged in interstate commerce," the report said.

Cites Farm Machinery Probe.

It added that as a result of its recent farm machinery investigation the commission became convinced that it should be unlawful for any corporation to acquire any stock or assets of a competing corporation when either is in interstate commerce.

However, the report said, this prohibition should not apply where the corporations control, in the aggregate, less than 10 per cent of the total output of any industry or sale of a commodity "unless the effect of such acquisition may be to restrain competition or tend to create a monopoly."

B. & O. Interest Deferment Expenses Set at $175,000

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Completion of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's plan for interest deferment will cost about $175,000, said a statement filed with the Securities and Exchange commission today. The rates of payment to agents named by the B. & O. to receive deposits of bonds in assent to the plan were listed. They will range from 55 cents to 70 cents for each bond deposited. The rates of compensation vary according to the amounts of bonds with respect to which the agents are to act. Grover O'Neill, as adviser and solicitor, will receive $7,000, plus $2,000 a month for the period of his engagement.

BUSINESS BITS

Avery C. Adams has been appointed vice president and assistant general sales manager of the Inland Steel company. Adams, who resigned as sales manager of the sheet division of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation to take the new position, will be in charge of the sale of Inland sheet and strip steel products. Howard V. Clark, formerly general manager of the Carnegie-Illinois order division, has been named to succeed Adams as sheet division sales manager.

Avery C. Adams.

The election of Robert B. Barton as a vice president of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., has been announced.

T. B. Wilson was elected chairman of the board and a director of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., yesterday. He will fill the vacancy created by the resignation some time ago of Henry Du Pont. Wilson formerly was vice president of the Alaska Steamship company.

W. K. Hyslop, for several years general European manager of the Massey-Harris company, has been made general manager of that company's Batavia, N. Y., and Racine, Wis., plants, it was announced today.

GRAINS RALLY AS LIQUIDATION COMES TO END

Liquidation by holders of December wheat and corn futures apparently ran its course yesterday. Aggressive buying attributed to cash interests absorbed the surplus in the pit and prices advanced about ½ cent from the early low. Wheat closed at the top with gains of ½ cent. Corn was ¼ cent a bushel higher.

A considerable part of the trading yesterday consisted of spreading operations. There was some evidence of interest, however. Reports from Europe indicated a better demand for a broadening in general speculative cash wheat and corn from importing countries.

No rain was reported in the dry sections of the American winter wheat belt. Crop comments from that area are becoming increasingly pessimistic. Chicago statisticians will issue reports estimating the acreage and condition of the new crop on Dec. 6.

Export sales of 400,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat were reported yesterday.

Treasury's Investments in U. S. Securities Expand

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Government securities held as investments in treasury trust funds and in accounts of certain governmental corporations and agencies Oct. 26 totaled $4,519,607,000, compared with $4,452,234,000 Sept. 28, Secretary Morgenthau said in a monthly report issued today.

INSURANCE MEN FIGHT PALMER'S FEE CUT DEMAND

Agents Contend Move by State Is Illegal.

Chicago insurance agents are opposed to the demand of Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, for lower commissions on all fire and casualty lines, inquiry disclosed yesterday.

Palmer recently announced that he wanted a flat scale of Illinois brokerage commissions on a reduced basis with a 5 per cent differential in favor of Cook county brokers. Although agents have taken no open action, they are preparing to defend their position against any move Palmer may make to force lower brokerage rates.

Representatives of agent associations said yesterday that they questioned Palmer's legal right to say what commissions may be paid by the companies to their agents.

Charge Demand Is Illegal.

The agents declared such action would be just as illegal as for a state department to decide what commissions an automobile factory may pay its dealers for selling its cars.

Agents also pointed out that a flat scale of commissions would be unfair to some producers. In some cases the home office pays the office expenses of the brokers, and in other cases it does not. Agents who pay their own office expenses are entitled to higher commissions than the others, in the opinion of insurance men.

Palmer has given no indication of the manner in which such problems would be settled under a flat commission scale basis. He has said that he recognizes there are various types of agents, but that his chief concern is to reduce "the cost of doing business down to a reasonable figure."

Palmer Threatens State Action.

If such a reduction is not made by insurance companies, Palmer has said, the state will step in and do it for them. He said the insurance department intends, if necessary, to go to the state legislature with a request for a law to give the department control over all branches of insurance except marine and workmen's compensation lines.

It is Palmer's contention that insurance expenses are too high and that high commissions are a big factor in expenses.

CHICAGO GETS ADEQUATE MEAT; PRICES VARIABLE

Although meat supplies were adequate in all parts of the city yesterday, price trends in wholesale channels were irregular. All sections of the corn belt dumped pork into Chicago, and prices for this meat fell to the lowest levels in about a week. Most pork cuts were weak to 50 cents per hundred pounds lower than on Monday.

Lamb meat met good demand at steady to 50 cents higher prices. Butcher shop owners paid strong to $1 higher rates for veal and bought beef readily on a steady basis.

With live stock handlers in the stock yards still on strike, packers are depending entirely on direct shipments of live stock and dressed product from other markets to keep the city supplied with meat.

Prices paid by packers for shipments of hogs received outside the stock yards were 15 to 25 cents lower than on Tuesday.

Prices of hogs at the principal outside markets, which were loaded with some of the heaviest supplies in ten months, were unevenly 15 cents lower to 15 cents higher.

Cattle sold steady on outside markets, and sheep and lambs were steady to 25 cents lower.

COAL PRODUCERS OF ILLINOIS RAP PRICE SCHEDULE

Discontent with the methods used in setting up the schedule of minimum prices for Illinois coal under the Guffey-Vinson coal act was voiced yesterday. Illinois producers made their objections at the hearing being conducted by the national bituminous coal commission at the Morrison hotel.

George W. Reed, chairman of district No. 10, was questioned by attorneys for southern Illinois and other producers. The producers indicated that they were not satisfied with prices established.

Cornelius Lynde, attorney for the Chicago, Wilmington and Franklin Coal company, questioned Reed as to the formula used in determining the qualities of the various Illinois coal in arriving at their price differentials.

Reed admitted that he and other members of the Illinois board were not technical experts. He said the board based its gradings of the qualities of the various Illinois coals on information contained in bulletins of the United States bureau of mines covering Illinois coal. Lack of funds prevented the hiring of technical experts, he said.

ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR PHILIPPINES MAY FACE FIGHT

Tarif Ties After 1946 Will Be Issue.

delegation to the commonwealth inauguration, said he opposed the Tydings-McDuffie act because it did not grant immediate independence. He said the longer our tarif policies made the Philippines dependent upon us, the more difficult it would be to relieve ourselves of responsibility.

"However, since our government has enacted the Tydings-McDuffie act, I'm in favor of carrying out in good faith the letter and spirit of the law," Senator King added. He said he hesitated to express an opinion as to what course should be pursued after 1946 because of Japan's belligerent attitude and the uncertainty of future relations in the orient.

Others Against Change.

Other senators withheld comment pending further study of the recommendations, but privately expressed opposition to any change in the existing status of the Philippines.

Some senators saw in the recommendation for a treaty to accomplish preferential tarif treatment of the Philippines from 1946 to 1960 an effort to circumvent the legislative intent of the Tydings-McDuffie act. Such a treaty, however, would have to be confirmed by the senate, and it would be scrutinized with care, these senators declared.

The independence act provided that during the last five years of the commonwealth period, the preference for Philippine commodities in the United States should be reduced gradually by 5 per cent each year, by means of Philippine export taxes or of declining quotas free from export taxes. It provided that by July 4, 1946, one-fourth of this preferential treatment would be eliminated. After July 4, 1946, it would be eliminated entirely.

Propose Elimination by 1960.

The joint committee recommended that the Philippines begin their independence with 75 per cent of the preferences and that they be gradually reduced, 5 per cent a year, until their elimination on Dec. 31, 1960.

The committee also recommended that abaca [Manila fiber] and copra [dried coconut meat] be free of United States duty during the remainder of the commonwealth period and that declining duty-free quotas be substituted for the export taxes in the case of certain tobacco products and pearl buttons.

According to a report by the department of commerce, United States exports to the Philippines during 1937 aggregated $85,028,000 and United States imports from the Philippines in the same year totaled $126,061,000.

Imports of coconut products, in competition with American dairy products, were valued at $43,914,000, an increase of 82 per cent over 1936.

Leader Hails Proposal.

Sergio Osmena, vice president of the Philippines, said tonight President Roosevelt's support of the committee recommendations would "be received with gratification" in the islands.

Osmena said earlier that the commonwealth government had rejected a proposal by High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt for a "realistic reexamination" of insular independence problems. Instead, he added, the Philippine government has "committed itself to a policy of coöperating with the United States" to achieve political independence in 1946.

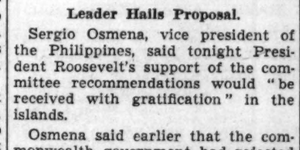
He said it was planned that the Philippine republic will have one million men under arms in twenty years.

N. Y. CITY SELLS 40 MILLION BONDS ON BID OF 100.0191

The Chase National bank headed a group which yesterday was awarded $40,000,000 New York City bonds on a bid of 100.0191. Of the bonds $25,000,000 consisted of serial obligations, dated Dec. 1, 1938, which were taken as 3 per cent bonds, and $15,000,000 consisted of assessment bonds, dated Dec. 1, 1938, which were taken as 2¼ per cent bonds.

Reoffering of the securities was announced at prices to yield from 0.50 to 3.15 per cent. The serial bonds are due 1939 to 1973 and the assessment bonds are due 1940 to 1944. The interest cost to the city is 2.883 per cent.

Joseph D. McGoldrick, city controler of New York, awarded an issue of $21,000,000 of revenue bills to twenty-six banks and trust companies at interest rates ranging from 0.50 to 0.75 per cent.



Land and Revolution—1.

Can home ownership prevent revolutions? Percy Wilson, writing in a recent issue of the magazine Real Estate, asserts that it can and does do this. He credits the liberal land ownership policy of the American government, ranging from the free homestead laws to government insured mortgage loans, with a large part in the preservation of a republican form of government in this country.

"The fact is that wide distribution of land ownership among people has been the greatest single factor in protecting civilization against collapse and social revolution," the writer contends, "and conversely the restricted privilege of home ownership to a small privileged class, the downfall of epochs of civilizations. World history is blotched with epochs when the desire for land ownership has donned the bloody cloak of revolution and caused civilization to stop and step backward."

Dictators have risen to power in many countries because they understood the land hunger of the people and were able to arouse the people to mass action and revolution, according to the article.
